RTA to seek $238 million for buses

The Regional Transportation Authority disclosed Thursday plans to apply for a package of $238 million in federal grants that would include money to finance 117 suburban buses and 364 bus passenger shelters.

Transit consultants told the RTA board that the capital-improvements project would require an estimated $10.2 million in RTA funds, which could be provided without levying a gasoline tax.

"At this point there is no intention to levy any taxes," said Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Almost half of the $238 million would be used for the CTA and the Chicago Urban Transit District, which is planning a downtown subway system to replace the elevated tracks.

THE BOARD WILL meet again March 13 to approve the grant applications, which must be submitted to the federal government by March 15. Included in the possible projects to be funded in the 1975 fiscal year, which ends June 30, are 50 bilevel commuter coaches and 21 new locomotives for the Rock Island R.R., 147 buses and 364 bus-passenger shelters, 200 of which would be heated. The Rock Island equipment would cost $10 million, the buses would cost $9 million and the shelters are estimated at $2 million.

Transit consultant John Doolittle recommended the grant applications and said, "The major problem is adequate bus service in suburban areas." He said 276 of the area's 444 available buses are outdated, but many of them are already scheduled to be replaced by other funding programs.

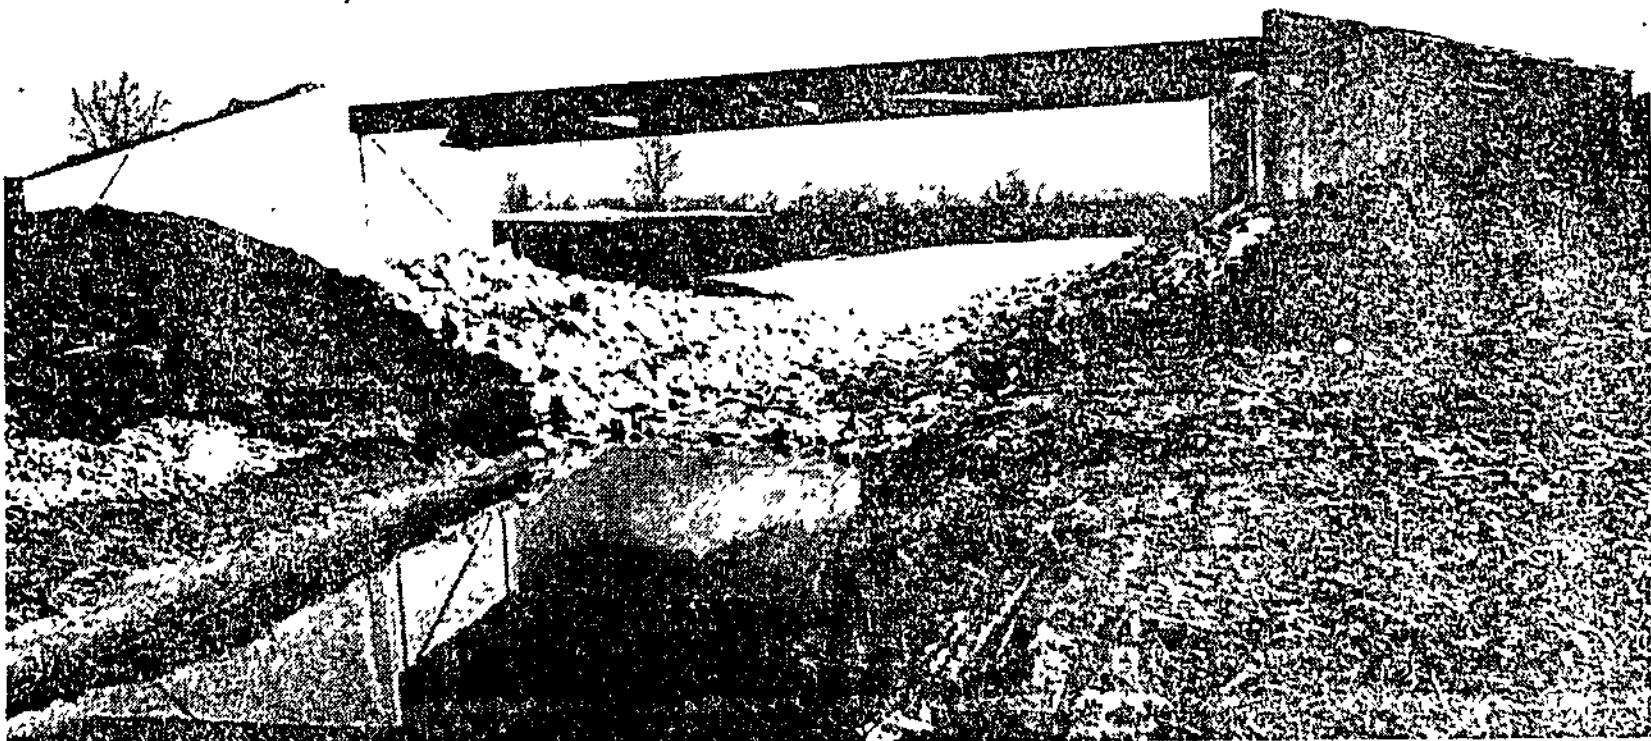

The North Suburban Mass Transit District is planning to receive 74 new buses to serve the area of the former United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

Doolittle said state plans to build several commuter parking lots in the suburbs have a good chance of being funded in the coming year. One of those lots is planned for downtown Arlington Heights.

PROGRAMS DOOLITTLE said have little chance of being funded this fiscal year include purchase of the Chicago and North Western Ry.'s rolling stock, extension of the Kennedy Expressway rapid transit line to O'Hare Airport, a proposed CTA park-and-ride facility that is facing some controversy, acquisition of Union Station by the West Suburban Mass Transit District and the balance of funds for the Chicago Subway and Loop distributor construction.

A $31 million grant request for the subway plan would be only for planning, engineering and preliminary work, Doolittle said. The proposed requests also include $12.4 million for construction of a State Street mall and busway, with reverse bus lanes on major streets that intersect State.

Pikarsky announced that a committee made up of himself and the four suburban members of the board will begin discussions with commuter railroads on purchase-of-service agreements. He also promised that the RTA would not allow commuter service on the Rock Island to be interrupted.

IN NO TIME golf carts will be crossing the bridge above in the Arlington Golf Course on Buffalo Grove Road. The retention basin is near completion at a cost of more than $700,000 shared by the village of Buffalo Grove, the State of Illinois and the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Spending won't exceed funds: village

by BETTY LEE

A projected annual report prepared by Buffalo Grove officials shows village spending will not exceed available funds next year despite a dropoff in permit fee revenue because of the construction industry slump.

Buffalo Grove officials feared revenue would be slashed dramatically because of a poor building season last year. Much of the village's income depends on construction, which would bring in money through building permit fees, property taxes and in some cases, sales tax benefits.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said expenditures were cut because of "belt-tightening measures taken by employees."

"THE PEOPLE here ought to be commended," Larson said, adding that employees voluntarily guarded themselves from spending unnecessarily.

"We were afraid that we might have to sell more tax-anticipation warrants," Larson said. "But we didn't have to."

The village deferred projects and programs to cut back expenses, including road improvement projects and an employees' pay plan. Some of the projects were started as funds became available.

Buffalo Grove's projected expenses amount to approximately $2.9 million, slightly less than the $3 million expected in revenue.

In the general fund, which includes allocations for general government, police, community development and building and grounds, the village will spend about $951,000 of the available $1,016,000.

THE VILLAGE was able to keep its spending under the amounts of revenue anticipated in the street and bridge civil

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULLE, 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said. "I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this campaign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

AFTER FULLE'S announcement, Hoellen called a press conference but refused to discuss dissent in the GOP. "I'm not going to claim a victory in this matter. The fact is that Floyd Fulle has stepped aside."

Hollen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1968.

FAA murder case to grand jury

Ulysses Toatley, the 57-year-old Federal Aviation Administration employee charged with murder and attempted murder in the Feb. 28 shooting of two of his coworkers, was ordered bound over to the grand jury Thursday. Circuit Court Judge Marvin J. Peters issued the order following a preliminary hearing. Toatley is being held without bond in County Jail charged with the murder of Jay C. Sheridan, Carpentersville, and the attempted murder of Colby Moody Jr., Elk Grove Village, in a shooting last Friday at the FAA Des Plaines office, 2100 E. Devon Ave. Toatley did not testify at the hearing and no plea was entered in the case. Police still have no motive for the shooting.

EPA OKs sewage plant

The Metropolitan Sanitary District's proposed Des Plaines sewage treatment plant was given a clean bill of health Thursday by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency. "There is simply no (disease control) data available, of which we are aware, that would indicate any public health impacts whatsoever," the EPA said in a lengthy draft of an environmental impact statement that was released Thursday. The report also dismisses objections to environmental, social and economic effects of the plant made by the City of Des Plaines and homeowners' fears that property values in the area will decrease if the plant is constructed. "Once constructed and landscaped, the site should be esthetically pleasing in the context of its surroundings," the report said.

MSD trustees back ERA...

Metropolitan Sanitary District trustees, of all people, went on record Thursday in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment. The usually stodgy MSD board, which generally concerns itself with pump, reservoirs and sewage plants, endorsed a resolution urging immediate approval of the amendment by the Illinois General Assembly. Trustee James C. Kirie cast the lone vote against endorsing the ERA, explaining: "My wife would hang me if I voted for that damn thing."

...And want rate hike

Local taxpayers may get a healthy jump in their real estate tax bill if the Illinois General Assembly goes along with a Metropolitan Sanitary District request to increase its corporate-rate limit. The MSD board Thursday decided to seek approval from the legislature for a corporate-rate ceiling of 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation instead of the current limit of 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The 5-to-3 decision to ask the legislature to allow the tax hike was made with the three trustees who are up for reelection next year casting the negative votes.

Palwaukee crash; pilot badly hurt

A twin-engine aircraft crashed during a snowstorm Thursday night on takeoff from Palwaukee Airport, severely injuring the 53-year-old pilot.

The 12-passenger Beechcraft 18 failed to gain altitude on takeoff and careened into a vacant greenhouse at the northeast corner of Palatine and Wolf roads, Wheeling, southwest of the airport.

The pilot, William Kilpatrick, 410 N. 34th St., West Memphis, Ark., was reported in "very critical" condition at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

The co-pilot, Steven Johnson, 24, of 740 Johnson Dr., also of West Memphis, was being examined at the hospital.

Marjory Kriz, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration, said the plane was operating on instant flight rule, bound for West Memphis, Ark. The crash occurred about 10:20 p.m.

Neal Humphrey, an FAA investigator, said a flight plan was filed with the FAA control tower in Aurora. Because the Palwaukee control tower normally closes at 10 p.m., he said the aircraft was cleared for takeoff by the O'Hare Airport control tower.

OFFICIALS said another small aircraft had taken off from the same runway, 24 Right, minutes before Kilpatrick was cleared for takeoff.

A witness, Bob Van Cleave, 14, of 1141 Wolf Rd., Wheeling, said "It sounded like a loud crash, a truck crash."

Witnesses reported that Johnson, the copilot, walked away from the plane saying he was not badly hurt. Rescue workers spent about half an hour pulling the pilot from the wreckage.

State Police were assisted by Wheeling and Sheriff's Police in the investigation. Officials late Thursday night could give no cause for the accident.

The takeoff was attempted during a snowstorm that covered the Chicago area with an estimated 2 to 4 inches.

Kerner freed, faces surgery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Otto Kerner, the ailing former federal judge and Illinois governor, won release Thursday after serving seven months of a three-year sentence for bribery and tax evasion.

The eight-member U.S. Parole Board granted Kerner immediate release after reviewing medical reports showing he needs surgery for a lung tumor.

The Bureau of Prisons arranged to free him from federal prison at Lexington, Ky., at 7:30 p.m. CDT, to take a commercial flight to Chicago.

The prison warden, Laurence Grossman, said he personally informed the 66-year-old Kerner of the parole board decision, and that his only comment was: "Thank you."

KERNER WAS convicted of accepting stock in a race track as a bribe while he was governor of Illinois. At the time of his conviction in 1973, he was a judge on the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The parole board announced Kerner's release following a cross-country telephone conversation among the members, three of whom are based in Washington and the rest are field offices.

The board rejected Kerner's initial request for parole in January, then agreed to reopen the case following reports of a decline in his health.

CHAIRMAN Maurice H. Sigler said the board received a report from the Bureau of Prisons saying Kerner apparently had lung cancer and needed immediate surgery.

In Lexington, Grossman said, "He has a very small lesion on the lung that's suspicious of malignancy. He needs further diagnostic studies. We did not make a definite diagnosis."

"The first suspicion we had was in a February X-ray. Studies were followed up after that and it was definite Tuesday that he did have a lesion."

Kerner — who served as governor from 1961 to 1968 and joined the appeals court in April 1968 — has a history of tuberculosis and heart trouble and suffered chest pains while in prison.

He remained on the appeals bench while appealing his case all the way to the Supreme Court, which upheld the conviction June 17. He resigned July 24, and entered prison five days later.

Ford vows U.S. troops 'will not go back' to Indochina

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford pledged Thursday night that American forces "will not go back" to Indochina but asked Congress to give Cambodia the supplies it needs to withstand Communist-backed insurgents until peace can be negotiated.

In a statement opening his eleventh news conference, Ford appealed to Congress to approve the $222 million in military aid he has asked for Cambodia, whose capital Phnom Penh is surrounded by attacking rebel troops.

"This is not a question of involvement or re-involvement in Indochina," Ford said. "We have ended our involvement. All American forces have come home. They will not go back."

"Time is short. There are two things the U.S. can do to affect the outcome. For my part, I will continue to seek a negotiated settlement. I ask the Congress to do its part by providing the assistance required to make such a settlement possible."

Ford gave three reasons why Congress should approve the aid:

- "Humanitarian needs," including protecting the lives of Lon Nol supporters. "The record shows, in both Vietnam and Cambodia, that a Communist takeover of an area does not bring an end to violence, but on the contrary, subjects the innocent to new horrors."

- Protecting the legitimacy of negotiation to settle dispute. "The issue is whether the problems of Indochina will be settled by conquest or by negotiation. . . the aggressor believes that it can win its objectives on the battle field. This belief will be encouraged if we cut off assistance to our friends."

- The constancy of American commitment to its friends and allies. "If we abandon our allies, we will be saying to all the world that war pays. . . in Cambodia, the aggressors will have shown that if negotiations are resisted, the United States will wearily abandon its friends, and force will prevail," Ford said.

In his statement Ford coupled his appeal for the aid to Cambodia with his companion request for $300 million in extra military aid to South Vietnam, but the emphasis was on Cambodia.

He said peace in Cambodia had not been blocked by any U.S. failure to offer "reasonable solutions." The blame, Ford said, belongs to the Communist belief that their force on the battlefields can accomplish their ends.

Questioned by reporters, Ford also:

- Said he believed "there is a growing concern in the United States over Cambodia's plight which has been accentuated since we have seen the horror stories of recent weeks in the wanton use of rockets in Phnom Penh."

- Declined comment on reports the Central Intelligence Agency may have been involved in assassination plots against foreign leaders.

- Said he agrees with Treasury Secretary William Simon that the middle-income taxpayers should have a larger share of tax rebates in the anti-recession bill drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee, which now favors low-income taxpayers.

- Said he believes Nelson A. Rockefeller, opposed by some GOP conservatives, is "doing a very fine job" as vice president.

- Said he prefers the present Senate filibuster rule, which requires a two-thirds majority to cut off debate, to proposals offered by Senate reformers who are seeking to reduce the majority to three-fifths.

- Declined to comment when asked if he thought it would be proper for former President Richard M. Nixon to take up a major role in the GOP.

- Expressed doubt that unemployment might reach 9 per cent, as Simon has speculated. But if it did, he said, increased tax reductions would be a better cure than increased government spending.

- Said chances that Congress will approve the Cambodian aid are "certainly better than they were." And he said if the aid is denied and the nation falls, he will not go around "pointing the finger at anybody."

- Declined to comment on the new pricing policies of the oil producing countries, aside from saying: "We're trying to organize the consuming nations, and we have been quite successful. Once that organization is complete, and it is well on its way, we will sit down and negotiate with the producers."

- Said he was disturbed by prospects that the new budget deficit will exceed the $52 billion he had anticipated, and pledged to seek congressional restraint in voting any new expenditures.

Congressman contends the war is lost in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressman just back from Southeast Asia said Thursday "the war is lost in Cambodia," and a colleague urged the U. S.-backed government to raise a white flag in surrender.

In all, four of the eight Congressmen who toured Southeast Asia recently said Cambodia's President Lon Nol should be encouraged to resign, so that power could be transferred to the Communist-backed Khmer Rouge rebels or to exiled Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

But State Department officials — and three members of the congressional fact-finding delegation — argued the opposite, saying Congress should give Cambodia $222 million in emergency aid even though its government "is not one of the most effective in the world."

The bleak assessment by the four members of Congress, and the opposing views, were stated at congressional hearings into President Ford's request for emergency aid to Cambodia and south Vietnam.

"It seems clear the war is lost in Cambodia," Rep. Don Fraser, D-Minn., testified before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee. "I think an orderly transfer is within reach. . ."

Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., said Lon Nol should step down and an emissary be sent to rebel forces encircling the capital, Phnom Penh, to "surrender the city under a white flag."

In Phnom Penh, meanwhile, a Cambodian government task force plunged into swamplands surrounding Pochentong airport in a desperate counteroffensive seeking to push back rebel gunners and keep open the capital's only supply line.

Rebel forces with mortar, recoilless guns, and rockets forced a temporary halt of the U. S. rice and ammunition airlift Wednesday. Only a limited number of flights were resumed Thursday.

Rebel strength around besieged Phnom Penh was estimated at about 30,000, while the Cambodian government has between 20,000 and 25,000 frontline troops.

ISRAELI SOLDIERS carry body of Arab guerrilla from Savoy Hotel. Thirteen persons were killed and 19 wounded in the fighting. On Thursday, Israeli forces captured a 150-ton ship believed used to drop off the attackers in rafts. It was seized 30 miles off the coast.

Israeli navy captures ship used by Arabs

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli forces Thursday wiped out a seaborne band of Arab guerrillas who attacked a Tel Aviv beachfront hotel in the first major Palestinian raid here. They also captured a 150-ton sailing vessel believed used to drop off the attackers.

Israeli officials said at least 13 persons were killed and 19 wounded in the fighting during which the raiders stormed the hotel and seized civilian hostages.

The Israeli navy seized the ship 30 miles off the Israeli coast in the Mediterranean.

Israel called the raid a provocative attempt to involve Egypt just before Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's peace talks.

But Maj. Gen. Shlomo Gazit, chief of Israeli military intelligence, ruled out any Egyptian involvement.

In Cardiff, Wales, Kissinger condemned the attack as "random and senseless," saying it could only provoke counter strikes, and make his Middle East peace effort more difficult.

In Washington, President Ford said, "Outrages of this nature can only damage the cause in whose name they are perpetrated."

Evidence of easing inflation

Wholesale prices take another drop by United Press International

Wholesale prices dropped sharply in February for the third consecutive month, the government said Thursday. The sustained decline in prices was the longest in eight years, providing solid evidence that inflation is easing.

Meantime, a private economic research group said orders of nonelectrical machinery increased in January for the first time in five months, indicating the recession also has become less severe.

The Labor Department's Wholesale Price Index declined 0.8 per cent, the sharpest drop in the three-month slide in the key inflation indicator. Wholesale prices have not dropped three months in a row since February-April, 1967.

ERA proponents see issue as eliminated for this year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment conceded Thursday that a procedural vote in the Illinois Senate probably eliminated any chance of finally attaching it to the Constitution in 1975.

But they quickly added that ERA is not dead — not even in Illinois — and charged that conservatives are using the issue to build a constituency for a presidential candidate in 1976.

ERA was effectively defeated in the Illinois Senate Wednesday when the chamber voted 31 to 26 to require a three-fifths majority to ratify any constitutional amendment. Proponents acknowledge they can master only 30 of the 36 votes required under that rule.

"I think this is a blow," said Mary Brooks, ERA strategist for the League of Women Voters. "There is no question it was a setback to the ratification effort this year."

Fred Weschler, an ERA expert for the National Women's Political Caucus, agreed. "Illinois is extremely important," she said. "If it can't pass in Illinois, it's not likely that it would pass this year."

Ms. Brooks said it was unlikely that ERA now could pass this year in all four of the remaining states that are considering it — Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida. She predicted only two of them would approve it.

ERA, which prohibits any law discriminating by sex, has been approved in a total of 34 states. It needs four more states for formal ratification and the proponents once predicted that would happen in 1975.

Both Ms. Weschler and Ms. Brooks emphasized there is still a slim chance of reversing the Illinois defeat — either by overturning the three-fifths rule or getting six more senators to support ERA.

Ms. Brooks said the sudden turnaround in Illinois, which originally was expected to ratify ERA, caused the proponents to question the "other purposes" of the right wing opposition to the amendment.

The decline is a signal that retail prices, particularly for food, should drop soon.

After surging in 1974 at an annual rate as high as 37 per cent, prices have declined since December at an annual rate of 6.2 per cent.

Food prices in February were down a sharp 3.5 per cent from January and 15.1 per cent from February, 1974.

Industrial prices, which have a greater impact on retail prices, rose a modest 0.5 per cent, the same rate of increase as in January, but substantially lower than the rate of increase in 1974.

Key drops in the farm products area included manufactured animal feeds, sugar and confectionary, fats and oils, and meats.

The rise in industrial commodity prices was caused by a sudden increase of 2.8 per cent in the price of lumber and wood products after declining nine consecutive months.

Lower prices were reported for cotton products, synthetic products and men's and boys' apparel.

Prices also were higher for electric power, natural gas, gasoline, crude petroleum and light distillate fuels. Lower prices were reported for coal and residual oil.

In the farm category, prices were higher for hogs, fresh fruit, tobacco and live poultry, but lower for grains, cattle, soybeans, fresh and dried vegetables, hay, eggs and raw cotton.

McGraw-Hill's economics department, meanwhile, reported a 1 per cent increase in the dollar value of new orders for nonelectrical machinery in January, halting a four-month slide.

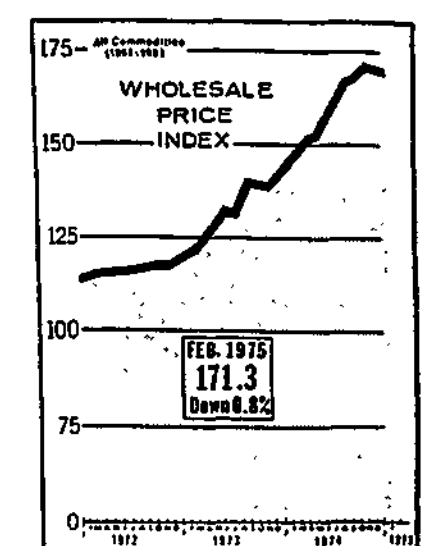

In other developments:

- The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries said it would hold the line on oil prices if industrialized nations would guarantee their oil revenue would not be eroded by inflation.

- Chrysler Corp. said 1,800 workers would be recalled from indefinite layoffs next week. It is the largest recall since the No. 3 automaker started trimming workers before Thanksgiving.

- President Ford, although seeking an extra $2 billion to fight unemployment, still holds to the belief that the nation's jobless rate will peak 8.5 per cent or "slightly higher" in mid-1975. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he could not speculate on unemployment figures to be announced Friday.

SPURRED BY a drop in farm prices, the Wholesale Price Index declined 0.8 per cent during February. It was the third consecutive monthly drop, providing evidence that inflation is easing.

Senate confirms Dunlop as Secretary of Labor

• The Senate Thursday confirmed the nomination of John T. Dunlop as Labor Secretary. The nomination was approved routinely by voice vote and without dissent or debate. Dunlop, 60, succeeds Peter J. Brennan as Labor Secretary. Dunlop was dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at Harvard University when he was brought into the administration as Director of the Cost of Living Council in 1963.

Bill would pay tuition of Guardsmen

The Illinois House Thursday passed a bill allowing National Guard or naval militia members to get state-paid tuition grants at any public or private college in the state. Rep. The bill was approved, 123-18, and sent to the Senate.

Charge Singer Co. on election count

A federal grand jury Thursday indicted the Singer Co. and four individuals on charges of violating election laws in connection with a $10,000 contribution to the Nixon-Agnew campaign in 1972. Meanwhile, the Securities and Exchange Commission alleged that four officers and former officers of the Phillips Petroleum Co. diverted $2.8 million to illegal contributions to political campaigns and to Swiss bank accounts. The SEC alleged the amount was nearly four times the amount that was discovered by the Special Watergate prosecutor's office.

FAA revises flight descent regulation

Trying to clarify confusion that led to a TWA mountaintop crash that killed 92 persons, the Federal Aviation Administration Thursday revised flight regulations to spell out exactly when an aircraft may descend during a landing approach. Under the new regulation, a pilot who gets an approach clearance while on an unpublished route or while being guided by ground control radar operators must maintain his last assigned altitude unless he is specifically assigned another altitude, or until his plane intercepts a published route.

Freshmen dislike Dem energy plan

A majority of freshman House Democrats disagreed Thursday with their leadership's energy program on grounds it will neither reduce consumption nor raise enough money for energy research. In a letter to Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., chairman of the House task force on energy, 39 of the 75 new Democrats said they were skeptical of the joint congressional approach which includes a nickel-a-gallon tax on gasoline to finance research on alternative energy sources.

No FBI comment on Anne Hearst

The FBI in Buffalo, N.Y., refused comment Thursday on whether the younger sister of missing heiress Patty Hearst gave them any information that might lead to discovery of Patty's whereabouts. Anne Hearst, arrested on a drug charge Tuesday, was interviewed by FBI and Drug Enforcement Administration agents.

Thirty-one persons were rescued Thursday from a fishing vessel which reported it was sinking near the lower New York Bay, the Coast Guard said. The vessel, "The Satellite," radioed the Coast Guard saying it was "going down fast." The passengers were taken aboard "The New Jersey."

Teaches him to deal with people. Even helps him to do better at school. Now, not for boys alone. A girl, too, can have a route of her own... with our newspapers. Some already do. And enjoy the same advantages of fun and profit a boy can get from route management. Equal rights it is. So phone us today, young lady, and talk. Band short $3,000 for Mexico trip

The Wheeling Instrumental League is about $3,000 short of its $30,000 goal to send the Wheeling High School Band to the Fiesta Musical Mexicana in Oaxtepec and Mexico City later this month.

The band, along with the school's Madrigal Singers, will appear in competition south of the border March 30 to April 6.

The event is one of a variety of music festivals staged by International Festivals Inc., which sponsors competition all over the world to encourage and support performances by American choirs, orchestras and bands in music festivals.

Participating groups do not compete among themselves at the festivals, but against standards predetermined by the International Festivals Advisory Council.

Joining the Wheeling groups in the Mexico competition will be the Conant High School Band from Hoffman Estates.

MEMBERS OF THE Wheeling Instrumental League have been staging fund-raising events since September to send the band to Mexico. If the $3,000 is not raised within the next week, band members will have to make up the difference themselves, said Alberta Klock of the association.

Mrs. Klock said contributions are still being accepted from persons in the community. Donations can be sent to the Instrumental League, c/o Wheeling High School, 900 S. Elmhurst Rd., Wheeling 60690.

The band and Madrigal Singers will be judged in the Oaxtepec Theater and stadium and will give other concerts while in Mexico.

THE 140-MEMBER Wheeling Band is divided into three organizations, the Jazz Ensemble, Wind Symphony and the "Wildcat" Marching Band. Directed by Jack Williamson, the marching band has performed for presidents Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, for Big Ten football games and also for professional football game audiences.

The band won first place in state contests in 1973 and 1974.

The Madrigal Singers are 16 students who perform a classical repertoire while dressed in period costumes. The group is directed by Frank Dobler, who also directs the school choir.

Suspect in FAA murder bound over to grand jury

Ulysses Toatley, the 57-year-old Federal Aviation Administration employee charged with murder and attempted murder in the Feb. 28 shooting of two of his coworkers, Thursday was ordered bound over to the grand jury.

Associate Judge Marvin J. Peters issued the order after a preliminary hearing in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court. Toatley stood quietly with his hands behind his back during the 45-minute hearing while Des Plaines policemen were posted throughout the courtroom.

Toatley is being held without bond in County Jail charged with the murder of Jay C. Sheridan, Carpenter, and the attempted murder of Colby Moody Jr., Elk Grove Village, in a shooting last Friday at the FAA Des Plaines office, 2300 E. Devon.

EUGENE PINCHAM, Toatley's attorney, argued unsuccessfully that the charges against the Bloomingdale man should be dismissed because the shooting took place in a federal office and should therefore be prosecuted in a federal court.

Pincham said Des Plaines police did not have jurisdiction in the case because the shooting took place on property technically belonging to the U.S. government, even though the office space is leased.

Judge Peters denied the motion because Federal Bureau of Investigation officials were contacted at the time of the incident to clarify jurisdictional rights. The FBI told Des Plaines police at the time of the shooting that the local authority had jurisdiction in the case.

Pincham also moved to have stricken from the record testimony from Patrolman Mary Mundell and Det. Allen Freitag, who were among the first policemen to arrive on the scene. The attorney argued their testimony was based on hearsay of witnesses at the FAA office who said they saw Toatley fire the shots.

THE ATTORNEY argued that the witnesses should have been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing to give testimony rather than have it presented by the policemen. Judge Peters also denied this motion.

Toatley did not testify at the hearing and no plea was entered in the case. Police still have no motive for the shooting. Moody was released Wednesday from Holy Family Hospital.

Spending 'staying within limits'

Defense, police pension, golf course and water and sewerage funds.

The village spent $15,085 to pay principal and interest payments toward a general obligation bond floated for the construction of the village hall. As of the approaching 1975-76 fiscal year, the village will owe $200,000 on the bond.

The village also will have paid $92,084 for Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund this fiscal year.

The village, however, overspent in the motor fuel tax fund by about $87,000. Approximately $240,000 was available, but spending was close to $336,000.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS at Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads cost $13,000, the village's proportionate share of the project.

Also, the village spent more than $137,000 in resurfacing and curb replacement of streets. Improvements were made on Golfview Terrace, Navajo Trail, Brucewood, Glendale, Gregg Lane, Forest Place, Diane, Crestview Terrace, Lauren Lane, Mohawk Trail, Melinda, Hlawatha Drive, Rosewood and Lincoln Terrace streets.

Buffalo Grove's share in the Arlington Retention Basin project was more than $137,000. Other expenses in this fund include $5,000 spent on salt and snow removal services.

A special meeting of the finance committee will start at 8 a.m. Saturday to review the proposed 1975-76 budget before it goes to the village board for approval. The meeting will be in the municipal building, 50 Raupp Blvd.

Buffalo Grove youth serving 30 days

An 18-year-old Buffalo Grove youth is serving a 30-day sentence in Lake County Jail after pleading guilty last week to charges of resisting arrest and drunken driving in a Dec. 7 incident in Buffalo Grove.

Jeffrey S. Pearcey, 265 Melina Ln., was arrested by Buffalo Grove police after his vehicle continually crossed the center line on Arlington Heights Road between Lake-Cook Road and Carlton Place. Police said Pearcey twice tried to pull away from the arresting policeman and struck and pushed him several times.

Additional charges of aggravated battery, driving in the wrong lane and possession of marijuana against Pearcey were dropped. He appeared in the Waukegan branch of Lake County Circuit Court.

117-m.p.h. chase brings 4 charges

A Northbrook man was charged on four traffic counts after a chase early Wednesday on Dundee Road in Wheeling, police said Thursday.

Police said the chase was initiated by police after Peter J. Trotochoud, 21, was seen driving, allegedly at 80 m.p.h., in a 40-m.p.h. zone and going through a red light at Dundee and Wolf roads.

The chase ended about 2 a.m. Wednesday when Trotochoud turned onto Huell Road, a dead-end street. Police said Trotochoud was traveling at 117 m.p.h. after the chasing police car activated its lights and siren.

Trotochoud will appear March 25 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on two counts of speeding, disobeying a red light and attempting to elude police.

$1,128 camera gear stolen from truck

An estimated $1,128 worth of camera equipment, including two cameras, was stolen Wednesday from a truck in the K-Mart store lot, 760 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling, police said Thursday.

The equipment is owned by Gilbert J. Hansen, 360 S. Melvin Pl., Wheeling.

A little reform could boost GOP

Survivors in the battered Republican Party of Illinois have produced a list of recommendations for the revival of the party which demands action, not just more discussion.

Included in the recommendations are certain things to which the GOP has been paying lip-service for years, while the number of voters willing to identify themselves as Republicans has steadily shriveled — to a current 18 per cent of the electorate.

About the same time the GOP Task Force '73-76 revealed its recommendations for survival, a national poll by the Republicans showed that a great many more people agree with the GOP position on many issues.

The failure of the party, then, has obviously been its inability to convince these voters that the GOP is in agreement with them; thus it has failed to attract new membership.

Several Task Force recommendations are directed at correcting these deficiencies. A key proposal is the establishment of a true "open door" policy to convince the public that the GOP is not "in-grown and unconcerned" about those factions which have not traditionally been identified with the party.

One specific proposal which would be helpful in this regard is a non-binding rule which would discourage elected officials from also holding posts as party committeemen.

Although the persons who hold two such posts have been cool to the suggestion, we believe the monopoly which the committeemen exercise in holding elected offices to be one of the stultifying aspects of the Grand Old Party.

While it may make sense to run committeemen for public office, it also makes great sense for those elected to vacate their township and ward committee jobs. Not only would this free them for greater attention to their elected duties, it would create the opportunity for advancement and greater participation by more people in the workings of the party.

In Cook County, 11 of 30 GOP township committeemen hold elective offices. Five committeemen in the Northwest suburbs are among the 11. Floyd Fuller of Maine Township is a county commissioner, as well as county GOP chairman; John Nimrod of Niles is a state senator; Carl Hansen of Elk Grove is a county commissioner; Donald Totten of Schaumburg is a state representative; and Bernard Pedersen of Palatine is township assessor.

They and other Republican leaders would be well advised to heed the Task Force recommendations. At this point, the Republicans cannot afford not to try anything which might help their party.

Ice Age? No thanks!

A new Ice Age, anyone?

Scientists report that, in the past decade, the growing season has shrunk slightly and that the Polar Ice Cap is inching southward. In addition, our weather is becoming somewhat more erratic than usual, and it is feared by some that a new Ice Age may be ready to raise its ugly ice cap over the world.

Another Ice Age, of course, deserves serious pondering, but we'll leave such deep thinking up to the scientists. Meanwhile, our meager scientific prediction is that our most implacable springtime foe this year will once again be crabs.

He rips a Mount Prospect candidate

letters to the editor

So far the campaigning for the election of the Mount Prospect village board of trustees on April 15 has been only sporadic, with Norma Marauskis playing the field almost single-handed. She has been cracking her whip at the present village administration in an angry and arrogant manner, reminiscent of Calamity Jane, the celebrated character of frontiersman days.

But Calamity Jane used her pistols not just to make noise as Mrs. Marauskis has been doing. According to one historian, Calamity Jane "blasted her pistols wisely and brought calamity only to those and to anyone who dared to trifle with her."

Up to now I have not picked up any information about anyone from the Village Hall or elsewhere throwing bugs into Mrs. Marauskis' soup. I see no real cause for her blustering. In my humble opinion, her attacks against some people and things bear only a few minute seeds of common sense, and therefore may be classified as a political demagoguery.

Just recently, in her mixed-up state of shuffling "priorities" and "putting first things first," she kicked the need for senior citizens housing to the fourth place. (Herald, Feb. 1). Literally this amounts to branding the Mount Prospect elderly as the fourth class citizens! What an appalling utterance to make for a candidate seeking an office on the village board of trustees!

My senior citizen friends, let me tell you the rest of the story.
The present Mount Prospect village administration has been responsive to the needs of the elderly. Through its and Marjorie Boswell's, the health director, efforts the Senior Citizens Services Center was founded. Under the proficient management by Kathleen Sloga, the coordinator, this center has become a mecca where elderly folks flock to every day for help to alleviate their many burdensome problems. Some of the essential services offered are: lip reading lessons, filing income tax help, visual and hearing tests, and health screening by a registered nurse, which includes blood pressure and urine tests and a check-up for diabetes.

Cut out these programs and some 3,000 senior citizens would be put out in the cold. Since these programs are partly financed by the village, Mrs. Marauskis, if elected to the board of trustees, would try to cripple them in one way or another, for they do not come under her classification, "first things first."

Two other beneficial programs to the senior citizens and financed by the village are reduced taxicab rides and vehicle stickers. Now a senior can ride a taxi every day of the week, at any time of the day or night, within the limits of the village, for 50 cents, and buy a $15 vehicle sticker for exactly $1!

A good thing to remember is that neither of these two programs come under the "first things first." With Mrs. Marauskis in a trustee's seat, they might come under her attack as "wasteful," and eventually be phased out. And we senior citizens would be left holding the bag with a $15 vehicle sticker in it! Of course, subject to increase in cost as the years go by!

Here's a bagful of food for thought.

Assuming that Mrs. Marauskis were elected or succeeded in pushing through her "priorities," the construction of the new library would be delayed for some time, the senior citizens' dream of acquiring a center would fall down along the way and the taxpayers could put their worry of paying $16 for the new library to sleep. The victory would be only temporary and disastrous to the taxpayer's pocketbook in a very near future. For such a victory would not eliminate the need for a new library; it would only increase the costs of construction.

The senior citizens might wind up with a booby prize. It might be the $15 vehicle sticker mentioned above in lieu of $16 they would have had to pay for the new library. If all this came true, which is possible, the senior citizens would be the greatest losers. They would be paying higher taxes in many other areas, and they would have lost their chance of founding the Senior Citizens Center.

Questions advance pay

Congratulations on your editorial of March 4, "Well-heeled government." It was very appropriate in this time of inflation and rising costs. May I suggest another government practice that could use some investigation from your staff, this time on a state level.

How do Illinois state legislators get off shafting the public by drawing their pay in advance? I get my salary from my employer only after I have completed my work. I believe this is customary with most people that work for a living. According to recent press reports Senator Esther Saperstein, recently elected to the Chicago City Council, has already drawn her senatorial pay from the state and will not be required to pay it back to the state even though she will leave the General Assembly for another public job that pays $17,000 a year. I consider this to be financial rape of the taxpayer.

No doubt our state legislature that is infested with rhetorical lawyers will have ten thousands of reasons as to how this is excellent financial practice and in the public interest.

In the vernacular of today's youth, it's nothing but a big rip-off. All of my state legislators will receive a copy of this letter.

'Clean up the park'

My friends and I are very pleased that the Arlington Heights Park District referendum passed. Now we hope that the funds will be channeled in the right directions.

Essentially I am concerned with the maintenance at Camelot Park. Filthy floors, dirty washrooms and unkempt meeting rooms are not my idea of money well spent.

Here's hoping we'll see a vast improvement in the near future.

Criticizes 'negative attitude'

Being a supporter of one of the parties running in the April 15 Wheeling election, I have to fully agree with the Wheeling Representative party as to time being used up at board meetings for just political gains.

I have to disagree with the statement that a trustee uses up board time when he has to defend his position after being raked across the coals by the papers who are represented at village meetings.

When Mr. Brady said, "That we are new to the political scene," he could not have made a truer statement.

Possibly he should attend, along with others on his ticket, a lot more Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and even Thursday meetings at the Village Hall all through the year and not only after his petition has been presented.

Many of the people running for the trustee seats this April have been active in the village and also are represented by all three parties running. But an equal amount have only been seen at recent board meetings and only since their petitions have been signed.

Instead of cutting each other's throats, why not say how much good the parties running will do, their plans, and what a great bunch of people we do have in the village working to try to get the job done.

Let's get the village in the papers constructively instead of this negative attitude which has prevailed over the past two years.

I believe our president of the board, Ted Scanlon, showed good sense in his judgment by letting both men voice their opinions even if it did take time, but again, open time, so the papers could report out in the open what was seen and heard at an open meeting.

Wheeling

Candidate's 'veneer'

With his totally unwarranted attack on the integrity of Trustee Alice Harms, Jim Ryan's pre-election veneer seems to be wearing thin in spots. Perhaps by April 1, it will be completely stripped away and the people of Arlington Heights will be able to view the "real" Jimmy, an immature bully boy who throws tantrums when he doesn't get his way.

As the people of Arlington Heights are fully aware, Mrs. Harms knows that responsiveness isn't just election rhetoric but it is something you do between elections. While Mr. Ryan has been out campaigning for higher offices, Alice Harms has been satisfied to be constantly available to help residents with their problems. Inconvenient polling places, unwanted sodium vapor lights, or unnecessary sidewalks, all these problems and more have received prompt attention from Mrs. Harms.

Stop running for state representative, MSD trustee and other political plums, Jim, then you too may have the time to discover the meaning of the word "responsive."

Library addition opposed

The affluent plans of our village governing bodies continue to amaze me; with the country in a recession and many people jobless, they forge ahead with plans for Lake Arlington, $90,000 Bicentennial observance and a costly addition to the public library.

My family and I have used both the new and the old (Belmont Street) libraries during 13 years residence in Arlington Heights. We have long needed new, good books. With the purchase of books, perhaps the obscene ones could be discarded, several of which I returned (unread) and brought to the attention of a librarian. I am concerned as to the people who are authorized to order such books.

We have need of additional books, but an addition to the library building is unnecessary. The "waste" space in our library should be utilized. The shelf units can be doubled by placing them closer together, a lengthy rack displaying current magazines side-by-side can be discarded, tables and chairs in the children's area can be deleted, along with the excess of display cases. Can children no longer thrill to the experience of choosing their books, checking them out and taking them home to read? The large carpeted, tiered seating area where, I imagine, a story lady reads to preschoolers is delightful, but how necessary? I have fond memories of the Maline Public Library, where the story lady weekly enthralled my children, seated on the floor with some 60 other quiet listeners.

I have no doubt that the library issue will be voted down by concerned citizens, but feel the need to give my explanation.

Backs local caucus

A recent Herald article listed the key campaign workers for Dave Griffin and the rest of the Caucus slate and for Jim Ryan. The article concluded that Ryan's major support base consisted of persons affiliated with the Wheeling Township Republican Organization while the Responsive Citizens Caucus Party finds its support among the leadership of various homeowners' associations throughout the village.

The voters of Arlington Heights might well inquire into the reasons why the homeowner association leaders favor the Caucus slate. I believe it is because they recognize that the Caucus candidates will be more responsive and accessible and more likely to place proper limits on the village manager. However, I would like to encourage them to write the Fence Post within the next few weeks to let the voters know how they feel. These persons have experience in dealing with the village administration and board of trustees and their views should be well informed.

One suspects that the involvement by prominent Republicans has a great deal to do with party pride. But the residents of this village have made it known for years that they do not welcome the interference of national parties in local elections. We will vote upon the basis of our own judgment and not that of the hierarchy of the Republican and Democratic parties. The Responsive Citizens Caucus slate has not and will not seek nor accept the support of either party organization. It insists upon non-partisan village government.

Going to see 'Jaws'? Then see 'Lips' film, too

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — You have read the novel by Peter Benchley and soon you'll be seeing the movie version of "Jaws." And that isn't all.

Even now, someone is working on a sequel to this gripping tale of a resort community being terrorized by a great white shark.

The reason I know about this is because that someone is me. I am calling my novel "Lips."

By way of background you should know there exists a curious fish called the "kissing gourami." As the name implies, it swims around kissing things — the sides of tanks, rocks, other fish, whatever. Nobody is quite sure why.

Very well. The opening scene is a typical wild Hollywood party at the palatial mansion of a famous producer, Renoir Flicknagle. Around 2 a.m., a young starlet, Theda Grappling, decides to go for a nude swim in Flicknagle's pancreas-shaped pool.

The film colony is bored with heart and kidney-shaped pools and is going in for other internal organs. Pools shaped like endocrine glands are among the favorites.

Suddenly the air is rent by screams. Other guests rush out and find Theda thrashing about in the water.

"What's the matter?" they cry.

"Something down there is kissing me," Theda shrieks hysterically.

"Kissing you where?" asks another starlet.

"Unless this is going to be made into an X-rated movie, I can't tell you," Theda replies modestly.

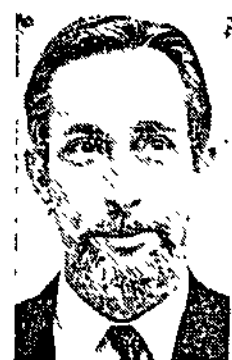

The next day Flicknagle's groundskeeper advises him to drain the pool. Flicknagle demurs. His latest pictures have bombed badly and he is behind on his water bill.

Besides that, the Eastern financiers he is counting on to bankroll his next production are flying out for a conference and he has planned a big Independence Day party for them.

"If that pool isn't open on the Fourth of July, I'm ruined," he says. "Maybe Theda was just imagining things. Or maybe whatever was kissing her will go away."

But at that very moment, Flicknagle's housemaid and cook, taking a morning dip, are similarly busied.

the tropical fish clerk at a nearby pet store who surmises that the underwater osculation was the work of a kissing gourami.

There is a lot of scientific stuff about how the fish might have gotten into the pool, etc. Then, in the climactic scene, Flicknagle and the clerk paddle forth on a rubber float to try and catch it with a leaf strainer.

I don't want to give away the surprise ending, but believe me it's a thriller.

The almanac

Today is Friday, March 7, the 66th day of 1975 with 299 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Saturn, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.

Noted American botanist Luther Burbank was born March 7, 1849.

On this day in history:

• In 1932, in the depths of the depression, an estimated 3,000 men rioted at the Detroit plant of the Ford Motor Co. Four men were killed.

• In 1936, Adolf Hitler ordered his Nazi troops into the Rhineland, violating the Versailles Treaty.

• In 1945, the U.S. 1st Army crossed the Rhine at Remagen, Germany, as World War II in Europe moved into its closing weeks. Total Allied victory — VE-Day — came May 8.

• In 1969, two of the three Apollo 9 astronauts flew their lunar module around the main spacecraft, then linked the two together again.

A thought for the day: "Self-denial is indulgence of a propensity to forego."

House

OFFICE SPACE: An amendment to kill a $15 million appropriation to open a fourth House office building, rejected 236 to 179.

The money will be used for converting a former FBI storage building at the foot of Capitol Hill. Those wishing to kill the amendment argued that the building is awkwardly located and lacked adequate parking.

Those supporting the expenditure argued that new office space is urgently needed and the FBI warehouse is the nearest available space.

Yes: Republicans Crane, Derwinski, Hyde, McClory, Erlenborn, Rallsback; Democrat Yates.

No: Democrats Mikva, Metcalfe, Murphy, Russo, Collins, Rostenkowski, Annunzio, Hall, Shipley, Price, Simon; Republicans Anderson, Michel, Findley.

Not Voting: Republicans O'Brien, Madigan

F-111 FUNDING: An amendment to prevent spending $122.9 million previously appropriated for purchase of 12 new F-111 aircraft, approved 230 to 164.

Sponsors of the bill said it was pointless to fund the purchase of aircraft but the Defense Dept., the Air Force, and the Administration say are unwanted. Opponents said the F-111 is a necessary alternative to the proposed B-1 bomber.

Yes: Democrats Mikva, Russo, Simon; Republicans McClory, Erlenborn, Michel, Rallsback, Findley, Madigan.

No: Republicans Crane, Derwinski, Hyde, O'Brien; Democrats Yates, Hall, Shipley, Price.

Not Voting: Democrats Metcalfe, Murphy, Collins, Rostenkowski, Annunzio; Republican Anderson.

BUDGET CUT: An amendment to support virtually all of the $919 million in budget cuts in 27 federal programs proposed by the President, rejected 258 to 127. The House later approved about one-fourth of the cuts.

Opponents said the money Ford wanted to rescind is needed for urgent domestic programs. Supporters said reductions in federal spending are needed to ease the current economic crisis.

Yes: Republicans Crane, Derwinski, Hyde, McClory, Erlenborn, Anderson, O'Brien, Madigan, Michel; Democrat Simon.

No: Democrats Mikva, Russo, Yates, Hall, Shipley, Price; Republican Rallsback.

Not voting: Democrats Metcalfe, Murphy, Collins, Rostenkowski, Annunzio; Republican Findley.

Senate

RULES DEBATE: A resolution to halt debate on a parliamentary ruling by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller which would allow debate on rules changes to be cut off by a simple majority vote, approved 48 to 49.

The vote moved the Senate closer to a final vote on the controversial Rule 22, which governs filibusters. Liberals want to ease rules for breaking filibusters while conservatives want to preserve the present two-thirds majority requirement for invoking cloture.

Yes: Stevenson.
Not Voting: Percy.

RAIL AID: Bill authorizing $347 million for grants to bankrupt railroads, passed 62 to 30.

Proponents said the aid is needed to prevent a nationwide industrial collapse that would occur if the Penn Central R.R. and other railroads stopped running.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., one of the opponents, asked, "If we can advance money to Penn Central and Lockheed, why can't any corner-store family come in and ask for money?"

Yes: Stevenson.
Not voting: Percy.

THE VIEW IS MAGNIFICENT. Gerald Kaufman runs his entertainment empire from the 36th floor of the IBM building. His Mill Run Theater in Niles begins its sixth season March 10 with today's biggest nightclub box office attraction, Sammy Davis Jr. Mill Run has been an enormous success featuring big name talent.

Mill Run Theater

Where the stars are

by BARRY SIGALE

Gerald S. Kaufman's office on the 36th floor of the IBM building has a magnificent view of the city that works. He chose the suite after careful inspection and the sudden appearance of a naked lady on the balcony of a neighboring Marina City apartment.

Well, the naked lady hasn't been seen since, Kaufman jokingly insisting she was "hired" to help sell the IBM space. But Kaufman, nonetheless, selected the right office. It reflects his successful entrepreneurship in the entertainment world epitomized by the vitality that is his Mill Run Theater in Niles.

With a "very big draw" of customers from the Northwest suburbs, Mill Run begins its sixth season March 10 as Sammy Davis Jr. leads a parade of nightclub talent unmatched on any local stage, let alone a revolving platform.

MILL RUN, said Kaufman, is merely an address, a place for big name stars to perform in the Chicago area under mostly ideal conditions. Advertising plays up the names in large letters, the theater in small type.

Indeed, Mill Run is an enormous success, and this year's tentative schedule shows why. Among the acts booked are Don Rickles, Eddy Arnold and George Gobel, Vikki Carr, Bobby Vinton, Jerry Vale and Marty Allen, the Jackson Five and Robert Goulet and Carol Lawrence. They all want to play Mill Run because of the fervent interest in Las Vegas-type shows and because they can make good money.

Kaufman's philosophy is best described in one word: overkill. "We try to give them (the customers) more than they're paying for," he said. "We might cut down on the profit but we'll make a lot of people happy." Ticket prices for the best seats range from $8.50 Monday through Thursday to $10.50 and $12.50 on week-ends for the top acts.

INSTEAD OF BOOKING an average act to go along with a guaranteed ticket-seller, Kaufman makes sure both performers are top-level. The no-throw-in policy enabled audiences to see Joan Rivers and John Davidson on the same card, as well as Engelbert Humperdinck and the Carpenters together and Peggy Lee with Frank Sinatra.

Kaufman, chairman of the board and vice president of Marquee Enterprises Inc., which owns Mill Run and several other theaters across the country, isn't sure how to pick an act that will sell out. It's a hit or miss situation.

"It's hard to explain. The same act might sell out in Chicago and San Francisco but do poorly in New York. Sometimes if you do everything right and book the wrong talent, you'll lose money. If you do everything wrong but have the right talent, you'll make money."

BOOKING IS done through Marquee's Los Angeles office. The scouts are always looking for new and exciting acts, but because they are looking for certain entertainers, Mill Run closes for two months. Again, if the talent is not there, Kaufman doesn't want to open the theater.

Many of the comedians who come to Mill Run make fun of having to perform in Niles, of all places, but the joke is not lost on Kaufman, who knows that he can draw on the large suburban population to fill the house.

"Traditionally, closing night used to be Sunday," he said. "Now, ours is Monday because the people are there."

The people are seated in comfortable seats, 1,800 of them, and there aren't too many bad ones. The revolving stage makes viewing excellent for at least a fourth of the show, although some people are known to get woozy after awhile.

THERE ARE FREE parking, no minimum drink requirement (several bars are scattered around the building) and a liberal dress code.

Said Kaufman, "If people want to wear a tuxedo, they can wear a tuxedo. If they want to wear a tee-shirt they can wear a tee-shirt. If they want to eat at home or at McDonald's, they can eat at home or at McDonald's. Or, if they want to spend $8-$10 on dinner, they can."

Is the economic crunch hurting business? Not a bit. In fact, Kaufman admitted there are two major plans in the works involving Mill Run.

One would be to add 1,000 seats, which he said, might include adding seats with poor views. The addition would allow for the expansion of the bars (65 per cent of the customers don't drink but "we still make a fortune" on liquor, he said) and correction of the washroom problem (there's usually a mob scene between acts).

The more logical move, which Kaufman hinted as more feasible, is to build a completely new Mill Run Theater. It would be bigger and would probably be located closer to the two expressways, either the Kennedy or the Edens, for greater access.

Until then, Mill Run will keep packing them in, especially Sammy Davis Jr., who along with Liberace is today's biggest nightclub box office attraction in all the galaxy of stars.

'Witch Doctor's Apprentice'

Jungle tale entertaining

by KAREN BLECHIA

Fifteen years ago anthropologist Nicole Maxwell left New York armed with glass eyes and shiny beads to trade with South American witch doctors for their medicinal secrets.

She had heard about the miracle cures of the jungle and convinced a pharmaceutical company to put up money for the trip. She was sure she could get the natives to give her some plants.

She was right. When she returned, her collection included plants natives said would prevent obesity, hangovers and tooth decay; heal burns without scars; stop pain from rheumatism and sprains; and extract a tooth painlessly without the help of a dentist. One plant, which she used herself, stopped bleeding if rubbed on a wound and left no scar.

BEST OF ALL, she had got samples of two plants she most desired: one that would prevent contraception forever by taking just one mouthful, another that would counteract the contraceptive and make a woman fertile again.

Maxwell was excited about her finds. She was welcomed home with fanfare, interviewed by newspapers and invited on talk shows. But that was it. She found out the pharmaceutical firm never intended to study the plants she had collected. She had been used as a publicity stunt.

Why, she wanted to know, did the drug company ignore even the slightest chance of providing better medicine?

A chemist friend explained it: "These big pharmaceutical firms are out for only one thing. Money."

IF ONE PLANT could prevent obesity, who would buy all the fat cure-alls on the market? If one plant could stop the pain of rheumatism once and for all what would happen to all the pain relievers that make millions for drug companies every year?

Maxwell, frustrated by that attitude, wrote a book about her trip which came out in hard-bound edition in 1961. Now it's out in paperback ("Witch Doctor's Apprentice," Collier Books, $3.95), this time revised, and the story of her journey through the jungles of Colombia and Peru is as entertaining as ever.

The book is an adventure story as much as anything else. Maxwell goes into great detail describing the jungle, the Indians she meets there and the beauty of moving down the river at daybreak. The reader learns a lot about jungle fare, right down to the last fried banana. But nothing drags in this book. Maxwell's easy journalistic style keeps the story moving.

FOR THOSE WHO never heard of Maxwell, the whole book is worth reading. For those who read the original version, there is a revised section challenging the medical research establishment to follow up on the author's findings.

Maxwell has been back to the Amazon River twice since her original book came out. For several years, she resisted the urge to return, but then gave in. If she kept trying, she thought, someone would listen to her. As yet, nobody has.

It is 1974 when the paperback ends and Maxwell is pondering how to scrape enough money together to try again. She is determined to keep at it. But even if she fails, the trip won't be a sacrifice. For as Maxwell admits, she is addicted to the jungle. In going back, she'll be doing what she most wants to do.

Bard's plays inspired much music

William Shakespeare began writing plays 385 years ago, and composers have been building on the foundations of his genius ever since.

"It is an astonishing fact that well over 1,000 composers have been inspired to put pen to paper as the result of Shakespeare's vivid imagination," said Christopher Ball.

"If he had not lived, it is not only the world of literature that would have been much the poorer."

Ball leads the Praetorius Consort, a combination of ancient musical instruments like crumhorns and bass kortholts which last year presented a "Music to Shakespeare" program on the BBC. Now the British Broadcasting Corp., continuing its policy of cashing in with records of its vast broadcast output, has issued an LP of the same name. It contains a tiny sampling of the vast horde of music written for, or inspired by, Shakespeare's plays.

The 20 selections range from anonymous Elizabethan manuscripts to a song Nino Rota wrote for the Franco Zeffirelli movie of "Romeo and Juliet" in 1969.

The record, to be distributed in the United States by Polydor, steers clear of Mendelssohn and Tchaikovsky and other Shakespeare-inspired chestnuts of the classical repertory. It concentrates instead on music from "The two Elizabethan ages," the 17th century and our own time.

Dan Fogelberg 'Souvenirs' makes pleasant listening

Veteran studio sideman Dan Fogelberg's second solo album, "Souvenirs" (Epic records), is well produced, skillfully arranged and very pleasant listening. Fogelberg's style leans toward the easy going country/rock vade popular by such people as the group America, Loggins and Messina and Neil Young. Indeed, on one of the album's better songs, "As the Raven Flies," Fogelberg even sounds like Young.

The album is produced by Joe Walsh, who also plays guitar — another reason for the album's good sounds. Other notables that help out are Graham Nash, Don Henley and Glenn Frey of the Eagles, Al Perkins and Russ Kunkel. Fogelberg, in addition to writing all the songs, plays guitars and keyboards himself.

Dan Fogelberg

The single picked from the album is "Part of the Plan," which very much is a Loggins and Messina type song. But I consider at least five other songs from the album to be much better than the single.

MY FAVORITES include "There's a Place in the World for a Gambler," "Someone's Been Telling You Stories," "The Long Way," "Souvenirs" and "Better Change." There's enough that's catchy in each song to make it hummable. Also, 23-year-old Fogelberg, who grew up in nearby Peoria, writes "Illinois" to say this state has more appeal to him than California (even if the whereabouts of a certain lady may have influenced his preference, it is a novel choice).

At about the same time Fogelberg's album was released, Walsh delivered his long-awaited third solo album, "So What" (ABC/Dunhill records). The former member of the James Gang is one of rock's smoothest guitarists and it is that guitar work, along with superb production and arrangements, that makes "So What" as welcome as the previous, "Barnstorm" and "The Smoker You Drink, the Player You Get" (both also ABC/Dunhill).

IN ADDITION TO guitar, Walsh plays bass and synthesizers on the album. One cut is a synthesizer version of Maurice Ravel's "Pavane of the Sleeping Beauty." This is not Walsh's first experimentation with classical music, as he used the melody line from Ravel's "Bolero" on the "James Gang Rides Again" album.

Walsh, who says he likes "the whole French Impressionist classical period" including Ravel and Debussy, has said he hopes some day to adapt "Peter and the Wolf" for synthesizer.

The first single from the album, "Turn To Stone," is one of the album's better songs — even if it first appeared in altered form on the "Barnstorm" album. On the cut, Walsh is backed vocally by three-fifths of the Eagles and former Barnstorm drummer Joe Vitale. (Walsh broke up the group Barnstorm, which appeared on his first two solo albums, about a year ago.)

OTHER GOOD SONGS from the album are "Welcome To the Club," "Falling Down" and the very different "Song For Emma" which features a lush string arrangement and no guitar — even though Jimmy Page of Led Zepplin played a guitar part for the song in the studio.

Drummer Vitale also has joined the rank of solo performers with his first album, "Roller Coaster Weekend" (Atlantic records). Although Vitale plays bass, flute, vibes, keyboards and synthesizer, you naturally find Walsh on guitar with some help from Rick Derringer.

Vitale's music is bright, up tempo stuff — full of rocking rhythms and strong melodies. As with Fogelberg and Walsh, Vitale has excellent arrangements and the bits of technical wizardry work well, too. ("Do You Feel Like Movin'" and "Shoot 'Em Up" are my favorites. With some stronger lyrics next time, Vitale could have a super album.

BRITISH HEAVY metal/guitar band Queen is due Saturday at the Aragon in Chicago. The band's third good album in a row is "Sheer Heart Attack" (Elektra records). The angel-like harmonies and the killer guitars are still present, but the overall sound is toned down a bit — leaving one with less sense of exhaustion after listening. The single "Killer Queen" was taken from this album.

Another British heavy, Elton John, has another hit album in "Empty Sky" (MCA records), even though it was recorded in 1969-69 and sounds very rough in spots. It is the previously unavailable here (except as an import) first album by John, but the opening "Empty Sky" is as powerful as any of his newer songs.

'Feast or Famine' insight into future of agriculture

"FEAST OR FAMINE" BY ED EDWIN
Charterhouse, $10.95

The trouble with food is that it's so unpredictable.

While price-conscious shoppers try to figure out why the weekly grocery bill went up again this week, the middleman tries to juggle prices based on supply and demand and the farmer speculates how many acres he'll plant to soybeans or corn.

In the background, the wheels of government turn out agricultural subsidies and import quotas by the dozen. And in the end the unexpected ravages of hail or hurricane may determine whether crops will be harvested and sent to market.

In his book "Feast or Famine," author Ed Edwin takes an extended look at food, farming and farm politics, coming up with these and other equally insightful findings. Starting out with an account of the world's great famines, Edwin proceeds with an explanation of the 39 great soil groups and the importance of nutrition. The reader learns that cabbage, corn and garlic were once considered divine and that oysters were viewed as an aphrodisiac food.

THE BOOK FINALLY moves on, in encyclopedia-like fashion, to an account of the farm and how it has evolved into a modern business venture. To be successful, Edwin says, a farmer must have the talents of a marketing specialist, a purchasing agent, a budget management expert and a mechanical engineer. What sets the farmer apart from the rest of the business world is the need to understand nature. Edwin foresees the continued viability of the family farm despite the inroads of the large-scale corporate farming operations.

The future of agriculture could be played out as one of three scenarios, Edwin concludes. Future A, the Malthusian scenario, assumes that overpopulation will create an imbalance related to world food resources. An increasingly diseased and violent population will go to war in the struggle for living space and food supplies, and retardation will afflict children and adults.

THE ROSY FUTURE in Scenario B features new technology that will bring population under control and stabilize the demand for food. Spaceships will become food factories, deserts will produce bountiful harvests and the large farming complex called a nuplex will be serviced by nuclear-powered desalination plants and pumping stations. Edwin favors Scenario C, the forecast of rapid development of new technology accompanied by occasional catastrophes. The future will be neither feast nor famine but a striving for self-fulfillment somewhere in between, according to Edwin.

Despite his pedantic style, Edwin's "Feast or Famine" offers food for thought on the future of agriculture.

Here are two views of the Nixon administration from very opposite vantage points and for those interested in comprehending the Watergate tragedy they are intelligent and worthwhile accounts.

Safire, a former Nixon speechwriter, clearly is presenting what he considers the best aspects of the Nixon years. He is partisan and defensive. He spends two chapters explaining the Christmas bombing of North Vietnam and concludes that the action brought "peace with honor."

Safire often introduces turnaround logic as he labors to defend the administration for which he worked. An extreme example of the technique appeared in his New York Times column the week the Nixon forces suffered three major defeats, including the Supreme Court decision ordering the release of the tapes. Safire interpreted these as three major victories. After all, Safire noted, the

Fiber festival planned at Countryside

A fibers festival, the first major open juried textile show in the Chicago area, will take place March 28-April 30 at Countryside Gallery, 414 N. Vall, Arlington Heights.

Titled "From Threads, Fiber Festival '75," the event will include a fibers exhibit April 2-30 plus workshops, a weaving demonstration and a panel discussion.

The festival will begin Friday, March 28, with a critique presented by Walter Nottingham, internationally known fiber artist and associate professor of art at the University of Wisconsin, who will select the best pieces for the juried show. He will discuss some of the pieces submitted for the jurying. Anyone interested in how an experienced juror evaluates textiles is welcome.

He also will conduct a workshop, "Fabric Manipulation," on Saturday, March 29. Students will learn to "sketch" dimensionally with burlap and there will be five slide presentations.

TO CELEBRATE THE opening of the fibers show Countryside will present a panel on "Fibers: Chicago and the World." Members will include, with approval of the Illinois Arts Council, Elise Regensteiner, artist, author of "The Art of Weaving" and former chairman of the weaving department of the Chicago Art Institute School; Virginia Churchill Bath, artist, author of "Embroidery Masterworks" and "Lace" and former assistant curator of textiles at the Art Institute; and Park Chambers, artist and current chairman of the Art Institute's weaving department.

Other events in the festival include a program April 24 on frame loom weaving by Jane Redman and a workshop on fiber techniques by Joan Michaels Pague.

Reservations are necessary for each event in the festival except the jurying. More information is available at the gallery. Telephone hours are 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday (253-3005).

Dates for receiving work to be judged are March 22, 23 and 28.

Show watercolors at theater

A one-woman show of watercolors by Rita Mohaesi of Buffalo Grove is currently on exhibit through March at the Arlington Heights Theater.

A native of Maryland, Mrs. Mohaesi finds much of the subject matter for her paintings from remaining rural scenes in Buffalo Grove, Wisconsin and her home state. A sensitive appreciation of nature is depicted in the lands and scenes she paints.

Exhibits of her work have been seen in the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, the Bank of Buffalo Grove and various art fairs in the northwest suburbs.

She studied at the American Academy of Art under Irving Shapiro; at the Clearing School in Door County, Wis., under Win Jones, and at the Countryside Art Center under Jack Schmitt. She is currently the vice president of Community Arts League of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

MARY LOU SHEPHERD of Arlington Heights has been accepted to exhibit in the fifth annual Midwest Invitational Antiques Show and Sale in Michigan City, Ind., March 21-23.

Mrs. Shepherd, vice president of the Four Grove Palatine Quilters Club, will be showing a collection of turn-of-the-century artifacts from her shop, 1102 W. Thomas St. The Michigan show emphasizes antiques that reflect America's heritage, in the spirit of the upcoming Bicentennial celebration.

March 20 is the deadline for artists to submit entries to the 16th annual Art Showcase taking place May 18 at Elgin Community College.

Original works may be submitted in two divisions: two-dimensional and three-dimensional art. Persons wishing to enter should contact Mrs. Carolyn Jarvis, 503 Ryerson, Elgin.

The purpose of the art fair is to encourage an understanding and appreciation of the visual arts and to afford local artists an opportunity to show and sell their work. The non-profit art fair is being sponsored by the Elgin branch of the American Association of University Women.

The Sisterhood of Niles Township Jewish Congregation is holding an art auction tomorrow, 8 p.m., and Sunday, 2 p.m., at the Niles Township Jewish Congregation Synagogue, 4500 W. Dempster St., Skokie. Viewing will begin one hour in advance of the auction. Tickets are $1. Original international art will be on sale including oils, sculpture and enamels.

Entr'acte

Gary Dandy of Mount Prospect is currently exhibiting wildlife and nature scenes at St. Nicholas Church in Elk Grove Village.

Formerly of Wisconsin, Dandy received a grant to attend the International Designer Conference in Aspen, Colo. He graduated from the Layton School of Art and Design in 1974.

Two of his projects included designing an experimental fiberglass home and a complete living space for one person in a 12 foot by 12 foot area.

Gandy's exhibit is one of many continuing exhibits displayed each month in the foyer of St. Nicholas Church.

Harmonicats smooth show only for harmonica buffs

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The sound in the TOP OF THE TOWERS is very specialized, appealing to a select group. THE HARMONICATS are something a bit out of the ordinary for a nightclub spot. No singing, few jokes but plenty of music featuring the trio on their harmonicas.

Opening with the "William Tell Overture," the three proceed to a melodic romantic medley from "Fiddler on the Roof" followed by their own arrangement of "The Yellow Ribbon." Though all the songs are recognizable, they sound new, too. For how often do you hear a threesome featured on harmonica?

JERRY MUIAD, leader, plays the basic solo-chromatic harmonica that appears to be the size one usually notices in a catalog or music store.

AL FIORE, however, plays a two-foot, nine and a half pound one, and DICK GARDNER the only draftsman of the group who joined up in 1971, plays a one-inch harmonica in his mouth using no hands whatsoever. But that's when he's showing off. Otherwise he uses the bass harmonica.

Needless to say the Cats wind up their show with "Peg O' My Heart," their hit record of some time ago.

Those who fully appreciate the harmonica will not be disappointed. I myself opt for a more dynamic, moving show.

Beginning April 1, Country Club Theatre goes under the new management of JTC Productions, Inc. As part of the change-over, the theatre will be renamed "COUNTRY CLUB COMEDY THEATRE" and will be under the new managing directorship of Tom Ventris of Arlington Heights, who for the past several seasons has been resident director of Village Theatre.

The premiere production opening April 2 is "ACCOMMODATIONS," by Nick Hall. The new Country Club Comedy Theatre will offer a dinner-theatre package beginning at $7.50 and has plans to incorporate an apprentice workshop program.

JOHN McGIVER in "ENTER A FREE MAN" initiates the new star system at FORUM THEATRE in Summit. The official opening was last night. Playing through March 30, the comedy is about a middle-aged inventor who has spent his entire life chasing one illusion after another.

Get ready for another round of "MY FAIR LADY." It will follow "CAROUSEL" at CANDLELIGHT DINNER PLAYHOUSE beginning April 17.

An Arlington Heights woman is the current star at PAOLELLA'S RUSTIC BAIN DINNER THEATRE in Bloomington. CINDY FLODIN plays Loo in the Nick Hall comedy "ACCOMMODATIONS," which continues through March 30. The dinner-show plays nightly except Mondays with two shows on Saturdays and luncheon matinees on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

LANDERS CHALET in Elk Grove Village is featuring WAYNE COCHRAN and the C. C. RIDEHIS in two shows on Sunday. The early show includes dinner at $10. The late show, 10:30 p.m., has a $3 admission charge.

Watch the "WONDERFUL WORLD OF DISNEY" at 6:30 p.m. this Sunday on Channel 5. A Hoffman Estates resident, PAUL PRESTON, is starring in "FOOT-LOOSE GOOSE." Since filming the show, Preston has landed several parts in other movies and is in the process now of selling his house and moving his family to California. Locally he appeared at Pheasant Run and Drury Lane.

A new Polynesian restaurant will be opening next month in the Woodfield Commons Shopping Center at the corner of Golf and Meacham roads in Schaumburg.

The FULAMA GARDENS RESTAURANT will have seating for 250 persons, lounge and banquet rooms, and also offer carryout service.

Area concert associations conduct membership drives

Maine Township

The Norman Luboff Choir and the Czechoslovakian ballet are two of the attractions for the 1975-76 series of the Maine Township Community Concerts, for which memberships may be obtained now from Mrs. Richard Cameron, 522 Arlington, Des Plaines.

Cost of the series of four concerts is $10. Concerts are held in the Maine Township East High School Auditorium.

The other two concerts for 1975-76 are the New York Brass Quintet and Veri and Jamaris, duo-pianists.

The Luboff Choir is known for its versatility, precision and compassion. Norman Luboff, its conductor, is as at home with Palestrina, Beethoven and Brahms as he is with a Bacharach ballad or a Scandinavian folk song.

"LUCICA," THE prize-winning Czechoslovakian folk ballet representing the best among Czech folk dancers and virtuoso musicians, is making its first American tour. The title "Lucica" signifies a field or meadow, the places where even today Czech youth assemble to celebrate holidays and other festive occasions. Costumes represent all the regions of the country.

Each member of the New York Brass Quintet is a graduate of a top-flight conservatory and each has acquired prestige as an individual performer in orchestras headed by Stokowski, Reiner, Bernstein and the late Casals and Stravinsky. It includes two trumpets, a trombone, French horn and tuba, creating an "old world" form of brass chamber music.

Critics praised Frances Veri and Michael Jamaris at their Boston concert debut for their "lush style" and "lyric feeling." They met while scholarship students at Juillard School, married and have pursued a professional duo-piano career.

Renewal concert subscriptions are now being taken, and new subscriptions may be obtained either from Mrs. Cameron or at the Des Plaines Historical Society, 777 Lee, daily March 11 - 15.

N'west Community

Northwest Community Concerts Association will conduct its annual membership subscription drive starting this Sunday and running through Sunday, March 16.

Costs for the 1975-76 season of four concerts is $28 for the family, $12 for an individual adult and $6 for a student. No individual concert tickets are sold.

The next season will feature pianist George Shearing and his Quintet, the Montagnana Trio (clarinet, cello and piano) and singer-guitarist Hal Shane. The fourth attraction is still to be selected, according to Ronald Rank, membership chairman.

Concerts are performed at Wheeling High School Auditorium, starting at 8 p.m. Dates will be announced before the series begins in the fall.

Those signing up before March 21 will be invited to attend the final concert of the current season.

Subscriptions are available through Rank, 537-0873; Mrs. Jean Stiekrod, 537-6169; or Mrs. Bobby Hoeck, 255-4519. They also will be available at Kotz Shoe Store in Wheeling Monday through Saturday.

Book Stall

court upheld the principle of executive privilege.

SAPHIRE'S PROSE style is difficult. He's a semantist and loves twisting the language and making it jump through hoops. That's all very clever but difficult for the reader. The prime interest in the book, except for dilettant Nixon loyalists, is Saphire's insider's anecdotal knowledge.

Mankiewicz's book is a far more straightforward account, though it lacks the anecdotal strength of Saphire's insider book. A former press secretary of Robert Kennedy and George McGovern, he is pushing his anti-Nixon prejudice, but he backs up his argument with facts to bolster viewpoints.

Though much of the material comes from newspapers and magazines, Mankiewicz uses emphasis and interpretation to present his view of the Nixon downfall. He thinks, for instance, that Gen. Alexander Haig exercised far more influence than is generally supposed.

LIKE SAPHIRE Mankiewicz has a public relations background and he is on sure ground in examining the massive public relations battles that went into the Nixon defense. He points out that anything and anybody were used for public relations plays, all the way up to Henry Kissinger.

"TWO MUCH."

BY DONALD WESTLAKE
Evans, $6.95

Westlake possesses the delightful ability to make a rogue such a charmer that the reader finds himself rooting for the fellow to succeed, no matter how nasty his carryings-on. Here, the scamp is a writer of dirty greeting cards who woos twin sisters, who also are heiresses, by pretending to be a twin himself. The laughs multiply with the complications. Westlake has written another kneeslapper.

"THE PRESIDENT'S DOCTOR,"

BY WILLIAM WOOLFOLK
Playboy Press, $8.95

The central idea of this book has great possibilities: the president's mental and physical health have declined severely at a time when civil liberties at home and relations with other nations are in a precarious state. The president's doctor becomes a figure of overwhelming importance. Into the void of leadership steps an avidly anti-Communist general, threatening the stability of the government. But the events set off by the crisis elude too neatly and predictably and the story dribbles away. (UPI)

Some tips on how to get rid of blood clots

Would you please help me settle a running argument in my family? One member insists a blood clot in a vein can be removed by surgery and the other says that it is not at all possible and must be dissolved by medicine. Which is correct?

You can do either one in the right case. To use a simple example, when a person has a thrombosed hemorrhoid he really has a small clot in the vein. A common form of treatment is to open the thrombosed hemorrhoid and remove the clot. In some locations and because of the nature of the clot, surgical removal is not a good form of treatment, and in others it is fine.

To use a slightly different example, a clot in an artery often must be removed surgically and fast. Rarely during heart surgery, clots within the heart may escape and go out into an artery. One classical type is such a clot (embolus) lodged in the main artery in the pelvis just where it branches to form the arteries to the legs. An alert surgeon will detect it and remove the clot right then.

A clot in the leg veins can go to the lungs. If it is very large and obstructs one of the main arteries to the lungs, as an emergency procedure an effort may be made to remove it.

Ordinarily clots in the leg veins and small clots to the lungs are treated by using medicine that prevents further clotting. Then the body's mechanism, not the medicine, will slowly dissolve part or all of the clot. Or, the clot will be replaced and bound down with scar formation so it can't move.

IT IS REALLY not correct to say that the medicines people take as "blood thinners" dissolve clots. They prevent normal blood clotting mechanism from working. In this way they prevent new clot formation. When these medicines work too well, then the clotting ability of the blood is so poor that blood readily oozes from tiny blood vessels. Any irritated spot in the digestive tract, or irritation of the gingiva (gums) around the teeth or even the small vessels in the kidney may start leaking blood and then the hemorrhage begins.

As you see, these medicines are not blood thinners. The blood is thin or thick depending on how many red and white blood cells it contains. Normally a little less than half the volume of your blood is made up of cells and the rest is liquid containing minerals, such as ordinary salt, blood proteins and various chemicals. The medicine to prevent clotting has nothing to do with the ratio of cells to fluid.

The swelling, as occurs in the leg when there are clots in the vein, is from fluid that is forced out of the smallest vein into the tissues. Fluid normally leaves your small arteries to nourish the cells, then returns to the circulation at the smallest veins. The high pressure in the arterial side forces the fluid out and the low pressure combined by the pulling action of the blood proteins sucks the fluid back on the venous side. Without this effect, we couldn't nourish cells or remove wastes.

When the vein is obstructed and pressure builds up in it, then the fluid can't be returned to the circulation and swelling occurs.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Proper time to lose a trick

"Why did you win that third trick?" North asked.

"I guess it was for the same reason that people want to climb a mountain. The trick was there for the taking."

You can get killed climbing mountains. You can go broke taking the wrong trick.

The defense started with three rounds of diamonds. West stuck his rather useless nine of trumps on his partner's trick and South promptly overruled with dummy's 10 spot. Then he went after trumps. The finesse worked nicely, but when it came down to trying to pick up the king, his majesty refused to fall. South wound up losing a trump, two diamonds and a spade.

South should have seen that there was no way to avoid the spade loser, but that there was a proper time to lose it. South should simply have discarded one of dummy's spades, instead of wasting a trump honor on West's nine.

Then when South went after trumps, he would have been able to pick up East's king and eventually use dummy's fourth trump to ruff his last spade.

Dow jumps 8.99 to 761.81

Stocks rally, close highest since August

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market reacted belatedly Thursday to news that inflation was cooling by staging a late rally that sent prices sharply higher in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell at the outset and fluctuated in the middle of the session, climbed 8.99 points to 761.81, its highest finish since it closed at 767.29 Aug. 12, 1974.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 0.79 to 83.09, its highest close since July 25, 1974, when it finished at 83.98. The average price of a NYSE common share increased by 27 cents. Advances took command in the afternoon to top declines, 905 to 486, among the 1,778 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover picked up substantially in the last two hours and totaled 21,780,000 shares for the day, compared with 24,120,000 traded Wednesday.

Coca-Cola was the biggest gainer of the day, climbing 4-3/8 despite lower fourth-quarter earnings.

Sony Corp. was the most active issue, up 1/2 to 9-3/8 on 442,000 shares, including a block of 230,000 shares at 9. Also in this group, Texas Instruments climbed 1/8, IBM 3-7/8, Digital Equipment 3, Burroughs 2 and General Electric, Control Data, Honeywell, Motorola, Fairchild Camera and National Semiconductor a point or more each.

PRICES CLOSED higher in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average of an Amex share gained six cents. Volume totaled 2,430,000 shares, compared with 2,480,000 traded Wednesday.

In the Amex options, 7,023 contracts were traded, compared with 9,048 Wednesday. Walt Disney April 40s led the actives, up 7/8 to 5-3/8 on 339 contracts. Disney April 35s followed, up 1-1/2 to 9-1/2 on 237 contracts.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 42,213 contracts were traded, compared with 56,741 Wednesday.

State gymnastics finals open at Prospect

Hersey defending champ; Conner leads individuals

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

The cream has risen to the top. The best gymnasts in Illinois, 179 in all representing 41 different schools, will descend on the Prospect High School fieldhouse, the final staging area, to determine the state gymnastics champions for 1975.

The survivors of 12 district and four sectional tournaments will begin preliminary competition today at 2:00. At that time the prelims in free exercise, side horse and high bar will be decided and later in the evening, at 7:00, the prelims in trampoline, P-Bars and still rings will take place.

The qualifiers from the preliminaries will advance to the final round to be held Saturday at 7 p.m.

If past performances are any indication, Bart Conner will have been crowned the best all-around gymnast in the state for the second year in a row after Friday's events.

The Niles West junior walked off with the title last year, piling up an average of 8.59. In this year's Niles West Sectional he scored a total of 44.80 points, highest in the state. Add to that the belief of many people that Conner had a bad day in the sectional and that spells trouble for the rest of the all-around performers.

One such performer is Hersey's Kevin Muenz, all-around champion in the Mid-Suburban League, Wheeling District and Buffalo Grove Sectional. His 8.36 sectional AA average was the third best in the state, behind Conner and Niles East's Neal Sher (8.47).

Muenz is the big gun for the Huskies in their bid to defend the state championship trophy they wrestled away from Hinsdale Central last year. Hersey won big in the Wheeling District and they won big in the Grove sectional to qualify a dozen gymnasts for the final show.

Muenz will have something to prove to the Hinsdale gymnasts and particularly Red Devil all-around specialist Breck Grigas. The Huskies lost a dual meet to Hinsdale late in the season and Muenz had one of the worst nights of his career, suffering breaks on his side horse and P-Bars routines.

Those flubs pulled Muenz's average

SHOULDERING many of Hersey's hopes to repeat as state gymnastics champions is Kevin Muenz, who will be making his last appearance in a Huskies uniform at the state meet at Prospect today and Saturday. Muenz's all-around average of 8.36 at the Buffalo Grove Sectional was third best in the state.

STATE'S BEST? It wouldn't be hard to find support for the belief that Niles West's Bart Conner is the best gymnast in the state of Illinois and possibly the best of all time. Only a junior, Conner will do his stuff in the state gymnastics tournament at Prospect Friday and Saturday. Conner owns sectional bests in all-around (8.96), P-Bars (9.60), high bar (9.30) and floor exercise (9.15) and may be good enough to win the state title for Niles West by himself.

Title night Showdown time in regional play

by ART MUGALIAN

Some people like to refer to it as the second season. Others call it March Madness. It leads to Champaign and the first big step is tonight.

The IHSAA Class AA basketball tournament will crown regional champions tonight. One of them will go on to earn the state title on March 22. Six area teams are taking that important first step tonight at Palatine, Forest View, and Rolling Meadows. All title games will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Three local squads will pack it away until next year, but the winners of the three area regionals will advance to the sectional tournaments.

The victor at Palatine will move on to a first-round confrontation Wednesday at the Elgin Sectional. The Rolling Meadows and Forest View champions will meet in the Arlington Sectional, also on Wednesday.

AT FOREST VIEW

Who said lightning doesn't strike twice? It strikes the basketball court every time Arlington and Wheeling meet for a tip-off. For the seventh time in two seasons these squads will square off. And tonight's regional battle is a rematch of last year's title game, an exciting 68-63 tourney win for Wheeling.

Arlington (19-4) has handed Wheeling (19-5) two of the Wildcats' losses this year, including a 56-51 heartbreaker. The quick Cardinals rely on balanced scoring and aggressive defensive play spearheaded by a netlike full-court press. The Cards will start Terry Donahue at center, Denny Gaare and Mike Fogel at forwards, and Jerry DeSimone and John Yeazel at guards.

The taller Wheeling squad is led by 6-10 center Steve Criss and forwards Ed Kruk (6-4) and Keith Schilke (6-5). Steve Rymer and Mike Brzuszkiewicz share the guard duties. Brzuszkiewicz, a 6-3 senior, has earned his laurels this season for outstanding defensive play, though he tossed in 15 points to lead his team to a win over Forest View Wednesday.

AT ROLLING MEADOWS

If the Rolling Meadows regional is decided, ultimately, by a pair of shooting guards — and it might be — then tonight's game between Maine West (14-9) and Prospect (18-4) could last all night.

Maine's 6-4 senior Glen Heiden netted 20 points against Elk Grove Wednesday, not too far off his 18-point season average. On Tuesday, Prospect's 6-3 Al Black almost singlehandedly put the Knights into the title game with 38 points against Rolling Meadows.

But there's more to the game than just a couple of gunning backcourtiers — like the towering front line of Prospect's Mid-Suburban League champs, 6-9 Paul Wilkey, 6-8 Doug Bonthron, and 6-3 Dave Mann.

Maine West's Warriors will also have to contend with Mike Quade, the Knights' superb playmaker. But the Warriors can hold up their end of the bargain. With the 6-3 Zuccarini brothers, Steve and Bob, and 6-5 John Clark, Maine has learned to employ some muscle under the boards.

AT PALATINE

When it comes to rivalries, Palatine and Fremd definitely have something going. It may not be a classic McCoy/Hatfield feud or even a Giants/Dodgers struggle to the death. Not quite.

It's more like the Bulls and the Bucks. Both teams take pride in knocking each other off — in sending the crosstown challenger back across town, beaten and dragging.

Tonight when the Pirates host the Fremd Vikings for the regional title, they will relive the memories of some of those past matches. Last year, Fremd bumped Palatine in the first round of the regional after the Pirates had beaten Fremd twice during the season. In the 1973 regional finals, Palatine downed the Vikes to advance to the sectionals.

This year's Palatine team (10-12), with a victory tonight, can roll up more wins than any Pirate squad in 12 years. Leading the way is 6-5 senior Mark Mara, the MSL's second-highest scorer (21.8). Other starters will be Chris Burrus, Jim Maycan, Art Stevenson, and Kevin McKenna.

Fremd (10-13) is quicker than Palatine, but they suffer a height disadvantage. Jim Reher, listed at 6-1, is the Vikes' tallest starter, though 6-5 Randy Vaughan is a valuable sub. Other starters for Fremd are Tim Gross, Ken Hanks, Rich Kolze, and Kevin Lavin, who tallied 25 against Schaumburg Tuesday.

Radio coverage at Forest View

The championship game tonight in the Forest View Regional between Wheeling and Arlington will be broadcast on WMM-FM (92.7).

Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk and WM Sports Director Howard Balson will be at the microphones with the pre-game report at 7:20 p.m. at 92.7 on the FM dial. Tipoff is 7:30 p.m.

WM's only high school basketball broadcast next week will be Friday, March 14, at the championship of the Arlington Sectional. This will be a taped delay following the Chicago Congers' hockey coverage, with Frisk and Herald Associate Sports Editor Paul Logan at the microphones.

WM plans live coverage of the Evansston Super-Sectional on Tuesday, March 18, with Frisk and Balson calling the action.

'They ain't nothin' but a five-ring circus'

A story that was buried for many years has surfaced again.

It is a fascinating story that can be told now with a deeper appreciation for the problems of the time.

It is the story of the first all-black basketball team to ever reach the championship game of any state tournament in the nation.

For the past two issues of Chicago, a monthly magazine, Ira Berkow has probed the story of the legendary DuSable High School basketball team of 1934. He has succeeded admirably with a well-written examination of a team that did indeed make history.

DuSable did not win the state championship. They lost to Mt. Vernon, 76-70, in one of the most emotional, dramatic and bizarre state title games ever played. But the team amazed the city of Chicago and state of Illinois and its fame spread nationally.

The timing is right for such a story. Youngsters throughout Illinois currently are battling for advancement on the state tournament ladder. This is "March Madness" in high school basketball, 1975 style.

Berkow's articles deal with "March Madness," 1934 style, and the problems of a group of black athletes from Chicago who helped revolutionize the game with their full-court fast break and full-court zone press defense.

Veteran coach Duster Thomas of Pinckneyville, the tournament favorite in 1934, and the great exponent of rigidly patterned play, said after watching Du-

Sable, "They ain't nothin' but a five-ring circus."

No one had ever seen anything like this run-and-shoot team before, with their cheerleaders' original and jazzy cheers, and their warm-up uniforms with the flowing capes, and their incessant running, running, running.

You have to understand the time to appreciate the significance of the DuSable story, and the difficulties these boys encountered. This was a seminal year for blacks in Illinois, in sports and otherwise.

By odd circumstance, the DuSable team of Chicago emerged at the confluence of national black history: In May of 1934, two months after the state championship game in Illinois, the U.S. Supreme Court handed down the landmark Brown vs. Board of Education decision, ruling public school segregation unconstitutional.

Twenty years later, Jim Brown, who coached that DuSable team, said, "We coincided with the climate of the times."

The players knew what kind of coach Brown was. He spent long hours with them in practice, on weekends, in the summer, working on their skills. He could be volatile and once threw a paddle at star Sweet Charlie Brown, who returned the fire. Both respected and understood each other better after that.

The head coach, who also was black, preached to his players, boys from the slums, that they should try to win all the time. "I said second was nothin'," he remembered. "Especially if you're black.

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

If you're first, then maybe you got a chance."

DuSable was a team of extraordinary talent. There were such stars as Sweet Charlie, later to make All-America with Elgin Baylor at Seattle University; Paxton (Super Lump) Lumpkin, later to spend several years with the Harlem Globetrotters; and Shellie McMillon, later to star at Bradley and play with the Detroit Pistons.

Lumpkin was the cousin of Leon Hilliard, primary dribbler of the Globetrotters, and when DuSable was involved in a laughter, with a comfortable margin, students would begin to chant "Showtime, showtime." Lumpkin would respond by dribbling for several minutes with the other teams in pursuit.

It was this run-and-shoot, crowd-pleasing team that journeyed to Champaign for the state tournament in 1934. Not far outside Chicago, the team bus stopped for hamburgers. The owner of the restaurant refused to have the busload of blacks sit in his establishment.

Charlie Brown said later that from that moment at the restaurant until the team returned to Chicago on Sunday he felt his blackness "every minute of every hour of every day."

The atmosphere at the state tourney in 1934 was heavily southern Illinois, since it was run by men from that area, and most of the teams were rural.

DuSable rolled over Bowen, a small township school, by 23 points, and then coasted past Quincy, 80-66, in the quarterfinals. They destroyed Edwardsville 89-73 on Saturday afternoon.

Mount Vernon, a team from southern Illinois, was the final opponent and the referees were from East St. Louis and Alton. To this day, there is bitterness on the part of the DuSable players, who thought the southern Illinois referees stole the game from them.

DuSable was leading much of the game and had a one-point advantage until the final 30 seconds. Then a series of foul calls against DuSable, and the capitalizing free throws by Mt. Vernon, iced the game. Three DuSable starters fouled out, and another had four fouls. No Mt. Vernon player had more than three fouls. And in the closing minutes Charlie Brown hit three baskets — each of which was called no good for traveling.

"Charlie," yelled Coach Brown from the sidelines, "don't dribble, don't fake, just shoot!"

There's an unfortunate tendency to blame the officials for many defeats, but the circumstances surrounding this particular game obviously were very unusual. It was even more unusual that a man, a white man, had come to the door of the DuSable dressing room before the game and said he knew something. He said he knew DuSable was the better team, but they would not win the game. Coach Brown hustled him away.

It was a bitter defeat for this powerful DuSable team, but Coach Brown insisted that they take losing as they took winning, gracefully. It was difficult, very difficult.

Last May, over 20 years later, when the Illinois state high school coaches named the 1934 DuSable team in toto to be in its hall of fame, the players refused to come to the honoring banquet.

Coach Brown came to the banquet and accepted the plaque. He no longer coaches at DuSable. He is district supervisor of sports, recreation and safety for one-fourth of the Chicago public high schools. He remains active in working for more black coaches and more black officials.

"I accepted the plaque," he said, "because it's a new day. And I think it was a symbol of how far many of us have come."

Elk Grove hockey highlights

Moose Rodeth scored first for Riley Electric, with assists by Bill Suparitis and Bob Eckert.
The Bruins went ahead in the second period but Jim Samuel tied the game when he took a pass from Bob Bruun, skated in, shot and scored. In the third period Larry Mitchell tied the game for the winning goal. Three shifts later Samuel got the insurance goal on an assist from Mike Tucker.

Elk Grove jumped on Dundas fast when Bill Suparitis scored the puck in 10th minute who let go a slap shot that sailed into the net. It took Dundas only five minutes to tie the game. Before the period ended Larry Mitchell put Elk Grove ahead, on assists by Tom Halcov and Bob Bruun.
Dundas tied and went ahead in the second period, but again Mitchell tied the game on assists from Bob Gooske and Mike Tucker. In the third period Dundas scored again to go ahead. With 1:47 left in the game, Mitchell scored the hat trick to tie the game for Elk Grove. Goals: Steve Cimino was excellent in net.

Those who also contributed to the tie were Dan Nicolau, Bob Eckert, Jerry Baumgarten, Moose Rodeth, Jim Samuel, John Campbell, and Joe Trubacter.

ELK GROVE 10, ELMHURST 4
After a sluggish start the Elk Grove Pee Wees came back to defeat the Elmhurst Huskies and avenge a previous tie. Chris Mergle led the attack with four goals, Mike Guendling scored two. Other goals were scored by Greg Kosowski, Mitch Erich, Steve Honsola and Mike Cahill.

ELK GROVE 2, STREAMWOOD 3
The Elk Grove Pee Wees outshot Streamwood in a close game between first and second place teams in the Polar Dome League but suffered their third defeat of the season. Elk Grove played a very aggressive game but fell to a very good Streamwood team. Goals were scored by Chris Mergle and Steve Erich.

Both high team game and series went to the Silverbirds with 766 and 2133 respectively.

State gymnastics finals

down to 7.82 and cost him the all-around championship to Griggs' 8.19.

Griggs came out of the Riverside-Brookfield Sectional with an AA average, just a .10 of a point shy of Muenz. The duel between Muenz, Griggs and Sher for second place could be the highlight of the all-around competition.

Matt Damore, Elk Grove's all-arounder, was the only other gymnast from the area to rank in the top 10 sectional scores with an average of 8.00 with Damore, Mike Schmidt of Evanston, Craig Martin of Maine South, Conner and Sher five of the top ten all-around scores coming out of the Niles West sectional.

The question of team supremacy may hinge on whether Niles West has any gymnasts other than Conner. The Indians have qualified 13 men for the finals and only Hinsdale Central, with 15, qualified more.

FLOOR EXERCISE

Keith Oehlson will be tumbling for the last time in a Hersey uniform. His 8.95 score won the Buffalo Grove Sectional handily but was only the third best score in the state behind Conner and Les Moore of Rich Central.

Oehlson has shown marked improvement over the Hinsdale Central meet where he lost the free ex event title to Steve Economides 8.8 to 8.4. In the sectional, Economides hit the score again to rank fifth in the state.

Prospect's Doug Zahour will be the 31st man off the free ex launch pad in the prelims Friday. His 8.60 in the sectional would have given him a championship if Conner hadn't been around.

Tumbling for the Knights also will be Dan Bartlett, who threw a 7.10 routine in the sectional. Rolling Meadows will be represented by Alex Gimbut, a third place medalist at 8.35 in the Buffalo Grove sectional.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Oehlson 3. Economides.

SIDE HORSE

Tim Connelly could bring the Mid-Suburban League a state championship on the side horse, an event he has dominated throughout the year. Connelly with a score of 8.90 leads a trio of side horse specialists at the top of the state heap who all came out of the Niles West sectional.

Hinsdale Central's Paul Black is a very real threat to ride everybody into oblivion on the event. A sectional champ, and fourth best in the state at 8.65, Black went as high as 9.15 to win the event in the Hersey dual meet.

If Bartlett hits his routine he could sneak onto the winner's stand for Prospect. His 8.50 sectional score brought him a fourth place medal and was seventh best in the state.

In addition to Connelly, the MSL has four specialists competing on the side horse. Dave Gurka of Meadows and Gordon Schmidt of Arlington tied for the event championship in the Buffalo Grove sectional at 8.25. Wheeling's Jeff Kee took a fifth at 7.95 and Hersey's Jeff Salcedo a fourth at 8.00.

Order of finish: 1. Connelly 2. Black 3. Conner.

HORIZONTAL BAR

This event belongs to Conner, who will be trying to make up for what was his worst event in the state finals last year when he scored 7.55 to tie for fifth.

The artful Indian was judged at 9.30 in the sectional to beat Sher by .40 of a point. The MSL placed four gymnasts in the top 10 in the state on this event. Gene Christensen, and Kevin Muenz third at 8.85, Matt Damore fifth at 8.70 and Doug Zahour seventh at 8.60.

Other area specialists qualifying for the state meet on the high bar are Hersey's Brian Covelli, who took a fourth in the sectional at 8.30, Elk Grove's Tom Balla, who tied for sixth at Niles West with an 8.50 and Arlington's Drew Parlee, who tied for second at Buffalo Grove with an 8.40.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Christensen 3. Sher.

TRAMPOLINE

A one-two finish in the state meet by Hersey's Mike Kropp and Conner's Tom Hall is not out of the realm of possibility, although Kropp has a stronger chance of winning than Hall has of rising to second.

If Kropp is to take the championship he will have to out duel a strong field that includes New Trier West's Brewster McFarland, who posted the state's best score of 8.85, and York's Gary Rust, who was ranked fourth 8.60.

Kropp himself was third with 8.70. Hall was the class of the Buffalo Grove sectional next to Kropp and placed second, a half point below the Hersey champion. His best still did not place him in the top ten of the state, though.

Elk Grove's Scott Harriet, fifth at Niles West with 8.20, plus Jim Losito of Meadows and Gregg Manning of Hersey, who tied for third at Buffalo Grove at 8.00, round out the list of area competitors on the tramp.

Order of finish: 1. Rust 2. Kropp 3. McFarland.

PARALLEL BARS

Conner, who set a national P-Bars record of 9.60 in the sectional, and Neal Sher, who fired a 9.20, will fight it out among themselves for the state championship of this event.

The MSL is well represented on this event with five individuals placed in the top ten in the state. Leading that pack are Christensen and Prospect's Kurt Coderberg, who tied for fourth in the sectional with an 8.70 mark. Kevin Muenz is ranked sixth in the state with an 8.65 while Elk Grove's duo of Damore and Jim Schwartz are tied for ninth at 8.55.

Prospect also has Jim Tangney qualified on the event after his 8.35 score in the sectionals.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Sher 3. Coderberg.

STILL RINGS

You have to go all the way to sixth in the state to find the first area competitor with the marks to challenge the best in the state on the rings. Prospect's Glen Wilke held off Myron Fletcher of Niles North to win the sectional title with an 8.55 score.

Oak Park's Barry Schmidt is the best in the state by .30 of a point, posting a 9.00 in the sectionals. Conner had a few minor slips in his sectional routine and fell to 8.40, just barely out of the top ten. He should go higher in the state finals.

Hersey's Vince Corrado has won district and sectional titles, the latter coming at Buffalo Grove with a score of 8.45, but he may be a year away from challenging for the state crown.

Dave Gauger, and Dave Byroft of Meadows, and Dale Brumgraber of Wheeling head up the list of MSL specialists on the still rings.

Order of finish: 1. Schmidt 2. Conner 3. Velguth (Hinsdale)

The HERALD

PIROUETTING PROS Mike Sojourner of Atlanta and former Bull Cliff Ray (44) of Golden State. The Hawks won Thursday, 110-106.

Suns scorch Bulls

The Chicago Bulls, playing one of their worst games of the season, lost their fourth straight to the visiting Phoenix Suns Thursday night, 88-65. In a terrible shooting display, the Bulls' easily erased their all-time low offense effort (77) as well as turning in the worst total in the NBA this season.

Even worse, second-place Kansas City-Omaha picked up ground on the division-leading Bulls, trailing them by just two games in the standings.

Leading Chicago's hapless offense was Norm Van Lier with 14 points. Bob Love had 12.

Meanwhile, Nate Archibald's 30-foot shot with no time remaining left the blazing Kansas City-Omaha Kings to a 111-110 victory over the visiting Buffalo.

Southern Illinois accepts NIT bid

Despite Southern Illinois' impressive (63-47) win over Creighton earlier this week, the Salukis — holders of an 18-8 record — were passed over by the NCAA in its Thursday announcement of the 32-team pairings. Creighton was taken along with such independent powerhouses as Marquette and Notre Dame.

Instead, Southern was invited and accepted to play in the National Invitational Tournament.

Some of the matchups for Midwest teams will have Indiana vs. either Texas-El Paso or Arizona, Notre Dame vs. Oral Roberts and Marquette vs. Alabama and the Big Ten's runner-up team vs. the Pacific-8 champ.

Sox' Kelly, Cubs' Trillo dazzle

Pat Kelly of the White Sox and Manny Trillo of the Cubs drew raves for their performances at Chicago's Florida and Arizona spring training sites. Kelly, on loan to a rookie team as a designated hitter, drove in three runs as the youngsters beat the veterans for the third straight game Thursday.

Elsewhere, Trillo, who came to the Cubs from Oakland in the Billy Williams trade, made his debut at second base. He had the Cubs' brass smiling at his fielding moves and hitting ability. Intrasquad action begins today for the Cubs.

Prospect, Arlington head coaches' all-league team

Seven unanimous all-conference selections lead the list of 16 Mid-Suburban League basketball players chosen by the league's coaches.

MSL division winners Prospect and Arlington had two players each earn unanimous votes. Leading the Knights were 5-foot-11 Mike Quade and 6-3 Al Black. Both are seniors.

The Cardinals' two top boys were 6-4 Dennis Gaare and 6-0 Jerry DeSimone. They are also seniors.

The remainder of the super seven selected were 6-5 senior Mark Mara of Palatine, 6-5 senior Clyde Glass of Hersey and 6-7 sophomore Brian Allmiller of Buffalo Grove.

Arlington and Prospect also had the most players earn berths with four each. The MSL champion Knights' other two stars were 6-9 senior Paul Withey and 6-8 senior Doug Bonthron.

Terry Donahue, a 6-6 senior, and John Yeazel, a 5-9 senior, were the other two players honored from North Division champion Arlington.

Of the unanimous all-league selections, Black and Mara were making their second appearances in this special all-star group. They also made it as juniors. Withey was the only other repeat performer.

Forest View was the next team after the division leaders with two all-stars. A pair of 6-4 seniors — Mark Russo and Tony Donlie.

Other South Division all-conference players were John Hogan, a 6-0 senior from Rolling Meadows, and Greg Kelley, a 5-10 senior from Elk Grove.

Falcon machine...state champ Gross

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

"You know what you have to do . . . go out there and get the job done."

Those instructions by Forest View wrestling coach Dave Theesfeld became almost a litany to his 105 pounder John Gross this season. Thirty-five times he barked them out and in all but one case, the response was the same: a victory.

That ritual was culminated last Saturday when Gross went out and got the supreme job done, a 5-4 triumph over Proviso East's Willie Staples before the assembled thousands at Champaign to earn the 1975 state championship.

"John's been like a machine this season," Theesfeld explained. "Very meticulous, very unemotional, very thorough. He's a very quiet type of individual to begin with and I really never saw him change that image once through the whole season."

The Falcon mentor noted that it hasn't always been that way. "The past couple of years John had a tendency to be in too much of a hurry and sometimes would get careless out on the mat. He's always been very coachable, though, and quick to learn. I don't think many of those mistakes the last two seasons were lost on him."

So John Gross came back an even more dedicated individual and methodical competitor for the 1974-75 campaign. No apprehensions about any foe; instead, almost a predetermined goal to journey toward. "Even when his undefeated record was spoiled about midseason he just shrugged it off," said Theesfeld. "He wasn't dejected or upset and he remarked to me at the time, 'That's one loss . . . I guess you can't win them all!'"

That one setback was to Dennis Jones of Rockford East, a foe Gross had bettered earlier to win a title at the Prospect Holiday Tournament. He lost 3-4 to Jones then in a dual meet but earned the last laugh anyway when Jones went downstate but could do not better than a third place windup.

Gross, meanwhile, opened with an easy superior decision at the University of Illinois Assembly Hall but that put him face to face with Jim Cizek of Oak Lawn, the defending 98-pound state champ.

"I felt it was the key match for him,"

Theesfeld recalled, "But as usual John displayed not outward emotion or concern about it."

Instead he displayed simply another dose of excellent wrestling and Cizek fell by the wayside, 4-2. Then there was another superior decision and that brought the soft-spoken senior into the grand showdown with Staples.

After getting his usual instructions, Gross went out and dropped quickly into a 4-0 hole. Theesfeld, the one who had been showing the emotion all season, admitted he was worried at the time, even shocked a bit, but philosophically remarked to himself that if his young charge had it in him, he would come back.

"Yes, I was a little worried . . . especially when John was still trailing going into the last period. He's never been ridden for two minutes before but I could see that time was running out on him."

Added Theesfeld, "I've never seen him panic . . . he always knows what the situation is . . . and that final round against Staples turned out to be no exception."

No, there wasn't going to be any exception in this bout. The undefeated (32-0) Proviso junior was turned over and put on his back with seconds to spare. The final verdict stood at 5-4 in favor of Gross, his hand raised by the official to signify victory and then with the ritual . . . the whole season, completed, that emotion finally erupted.

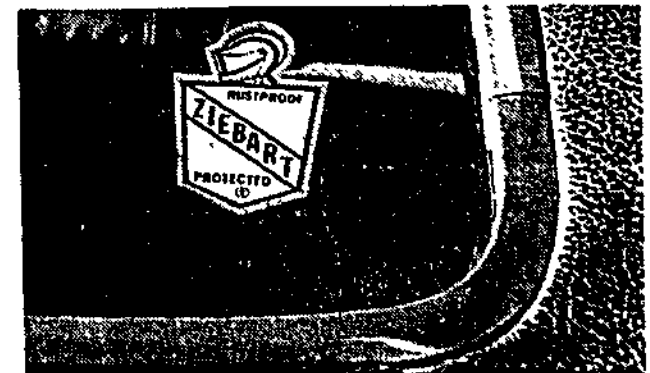

For the only time in his three-season varsity career Gross raced over and leaped up to embrace his coach. A long awaited state champ had arrived.

At Fair Lanes Bowl

Marion Remack rolled a 226-644 to highlight recent action in the Rolling Meadows Classic League. Other top bowlers were Joan Betrens, 643-101, Alice Heckel 540-210, Carol Harrison 631-213, Jan Markese 549-222, Audrey Goldbogen 521-193, Alice Schroder 521-176, and Angie Pilcher 500-172.

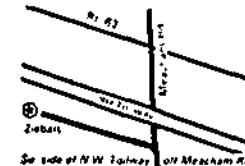

PENSIVE POSE. Forest View's John Gross and his coach Dave Theesfeld appear deep in thought as they watch introduction ceremonies prior to the championship finals at the state wrestling tournament Saturday. A short time later Gross went out and captured the 105-pound crown, becoming his school's first individual boy's state champ.

Readers react to Saturday sports coverage

Dear Sir:

Please add our names to the list of subscribers who find the new Saturday Herald Sports section a disappointment. Coverage of the various games played on Friday nights receive sketchy and skimpy treatment and make poor reading on Saturday mornings. A more in-depth sports report is what your readers are used to, even if it means waiting from Friday night to Monday morning to get it.

For a newspaper that has always maintained one of the best prep coverages available to sports followers, your Saturday sports edition "just doesn't cut it."

Dear Fans Forum:

I just want longer stories on all the basketball games?

I just want the basic facts — and the next day, not on a Monday.

I did see where you gave a great spread to the Prospect game with Arlington. That should show your readers that when the game is SIGNIFICANT the coverage will be there.

It makes no sense to play games out of proportion and some of those games over the last two or three weeks of the season were fairly insignificant with the titles already decided.

Here's a vote for your Saturday edition.

Dick Erickson
Mount Prospect

THEY LIKE NEW LOOK

Fans Forum:

Congratulations on the addition of the national sports roundup.

I don't have time in the mornings to go through long accounts of what happened and like to just get the scores and a few details.

My only question is, what took you so long?

Dick Evans
Arlington Heights

Dear Fans Forum:

The national sports coverage is a great boost to an already fine newspaper.

LAUDS SATURDAY NEWS

Dear Herald:

I've been reading the pros and cons of the Saturday paper, but I can't see why anyone would not enjoy this new edition.

It's amazing to me how anyone could complain about shorter stories in a Saturday edition when they're getting the coverage two days earlier.

As I see it, the only people who might possibly complain would be the parents who have children playing Friday nights and who see the games. They know what happened anyway so it's just a matter of filling up scrapbooks. That's not what a newspaper is all about.

Keep up the good work and I especially like the national sports briefs.

Stanley Bobak

MORE ON GIRLS BOWLING

Gentlemen:

I just want to voice my opinion on the bowling tournament in Peoria. I bowled on the Arlington High School bowling team for two years and I sympathize with the Forest View team in their loss to the Dixon High School "boys" team. I myself wouldn't wish to bowl against boys when all through the season we bowled against girls.

I feel if a school district will not have two separate teams, a boys and a girls, it's unfair to the students, but the boys and/or girls should not be allowed to participate as Dixon did. In my school district, 214, they provide well for girls sports, and for this I am grateful to be a part of these activities. If other districts do not want to spend money for the students' benefit, then I feel sorry for the students. But I do not feel that we should be the ones to take second place to a school of this nature.

5.6% increase requested in parks budget

Wheeling Parks Supt. David Phillips Thursday night released the park district's proposed fiscal 1975-76 budget, which is 5.6 per cent higher than the current budget.

The proposed budget, which was presented to park board members for their review, calls for expenditures of $280,530 in the fiscal year beginning May 1. In the fiscal year ending April 30, the district budgeted $265,660.

The current and proposed budget figures cited do not take into account Phillips' salary. The superintendent receives an annual salary of $16,684. Before the budget is approved, park board members will determine whether Phillips' salary should be adjusted.

Phillips has projected that the park district in the next fiscal year will receive $296,160 in revenue, leaving it with a cash surplus of $16,610.

He estimates revenue of $97,200 in the corporate fund and $199,960 in the recreation fund.

The corporate fund budget calls for expenditures of $26,947 for administration and $63,030 for maintenance of park district facilities.

The budget for the recreation fund calls for expenditures of $188,553. Recreation programs, the cost of operating the indoor and outdoor pools and Neptune's Den is included in this fund.

Although the park board reviewed the proposed budget Thursday night, no action was taken. Park board members will review the budget and are expected to make some revisions before approving it.

In other business, the park board:

- Approved a $50 donation to the Wheeling Instrumental League to help finance the Wheeling High School band's upcoming trip to Mexico.
- Agreed to join the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission at a cost of $270.
- Approved a low bid of $5,675 for playground equipment at North Park.

NEW FACILITIES for the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank are slowly emerging as construction continues. Bank officials are hoping that the $2.5 million building near Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue will be finished and open to the public by October. The new bank also will have drive-in facilities.

Suspect in FAA murder bound over to grand jury

Ulysses Toatley, the 57-year-old Federal Aviation Administration employee charged with murder and attempted murder in the Feb. 28 shooting of two of his coworkers, Thursday was ordered bound over to the grand jury.

Associate Judge Marvin J. Peters issued the order after a preliminary hearing in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court. Toatley stood quietly with his hands behind his back during the 45-minute hearing while Des Plaines policemen were posted throughout the courtroom.

Toatley is being held without bond in County Jail charged with the murder of Jay C. Sheridan, Carpentersville, and the attempted murder of Colby Moody Jr., Elk Grove Village, in a shooting last Friday at the FAA Des Plaines office, 2300 E. Devon.

EUGENE PINCHAM, Toatley's attorney, argued unsuccessfully that the charges against the Bloomingdale man should be dismissed because the shooting took place in a federal office and should therefore be prosecuted in a federal court.

Pincham said Des Plaines police did not have jurisdiction in the case because the shooting took place on property technically belonging to the U.S. government, even though the office space is leased.

Judge Peters denied the motion because Federal Bureau of Investigation officials were contacted at the time of the incident to clarify jurisdictional rights. The FBI told Des Plaines police at the time of the shooting that the local authority had jurisdiction in the case.

Pincham also moved to have stricken from the record testimony from Patrolman Mary Mundell and Det. Allen Freitag, who were among the first policemen to arrive on the scene. The attorney argued their testimony was based on hearsay of witnesses at the FAA office who said they saw Toatley fire the shots.

THE ATTORNEY argued that the witnesses should have been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing to give testimony rather than have it presented by the policemen. Judge Peters also denied this motion.

Toatley did not testify at the hearing and no plea was entered in the case. Police still have no motive for the shooting.

Moody was released Wednesday from Holy Family Hospital.

Fulle yields GOP reins, but vows 'I shall return...'

FLOYD T. FULLE

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULLE, 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this paign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

Hoellen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1960.

JOHN J. HOELLEN

'No intention to levy taxes'

RTA to seek $238 million for buses

The Regional Transportation Authority disclosed Thursday plans to apply for a package of $238 million in federal grants that would include money to finance 147 suburban buses and 364 bus passenger shelters.

Transit consultants told the RTA board that the capital-improvements project would require an estimated $10.2 million in RTA funds, which could be provided without levying a gasoline tax.

"At this point there is no intention to levy any taxes," said Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Almost half of the $238 million would be used for the CTA and the Chicago Urban Transit District, which is planning a downtown subway system to replace the elevated tracks.

THE BOARD WILL meet again March 13 to approve the grant applications, which must be submitted to the federal government by March 15. Included in the possible projects to be funded in the 1975 fiscal year, which ends June 30, are 50 bilevel commuter coaches and 21 new locomotives for the Rock Island R.R., 147 buses and 364 bus-passenger shelters, 200 of which would be heated. The Rock Island equipment would cost $40 million, the buses would cost $9 million and the shelters are estimated at $2 million.

Transit consultant John Doolittle recommended the grant applications and said, "The major problem is adequate bus service in suburban areas." He said

276 of the area's 444 available buses are outdated, but many of them are already scheduled to be replaced by other funding programs.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District is planning to receive 74 new buses to serve the area of the former United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

Doolittle said state plans to build several commuter parking lots in the suburbs have a good chance of being funded in the coming year. One of those lots is planned for downtown Arlington Heights.

PROGRAMS DOOLITTLE said have little chance of being funded this fiscal year include purchase of the Chicago and North Western Ry.'s rolling stock, extension of the Kennedy Expressway rapid transit line to O'Hare Airport, a proposed CTA park-and-ride facility that is facing some controversy, acquisition of Union Station by the West Suburban Mass Transit District and the balance of funds for the Chicago Subway and Loop distributor construction.

A $31 million grant request for the subway plan would be only for planning, engineering and preliminary work, Doolittle said. The proposed requests also include $12.4 million for construction of a State Street mall and busway, with reverse bus lanes on major streets that intersect State.

Pikarsky announced that a committee made up of himself and the four suburban members of the board will begin discussions with commuter railroads on purchase-of-service agreements. He also promised that the RTA would not allow commuter service on the Rock Island to be interrupted.

Passolt 'tired of questions'

Building, prosecutor posts still unfilled

by TOM VON MALDER

Wheeling Village Mgr. George Passolt said Thursday he is "tired of answering questions" about when he will appoint a new building director and a new village prosecutor.

Passolt said he will notify the village board and then the public when the appointments have been made. But he would not estimate when he would be ready to make the decisions.

The post of building director has been vacant since Feb. 7, 1974 — exactly 13 months ago. The prosecutor's job has been filled on a day-to-day basis since July 1 — just more than eight months ago.

"We've pretty well narrowed it down," he said, referring to his choice of building director.

PASSOLT SAID he has one person in mind but is waiting for the report of a consulting firm which is doing a comprehensive study of village operations, before making his choice.

The manager said he had asked the consulting firm to study a question in connection with the job of building director. When asked what that question was, Passolt assured, "I would like to say that it's none of your business."

Passolt said the consultant's report was "due any time."

The search for a village prosecutor has been "narrowed down to five or six (candidates)," Passolt said. He added that there had been numerous candidates but some have had the flu, which slowed the interviewing process.

117-m.p.h. chase brings 4 charges

A Northbrook man was charged on four traffic counts after a chase early Wednesday on Dundee Road in Wheeling, police said Thursday.

Police said the chase was initiated by police after Peter J. Trotochoud, 21, was seen driving, allegedly at 80 m.p.h., in a 40-m.p.h. zone and going through a red light at Dundee and Wolf roads.

The chase ended about 2 a.m. Wednesday when Trotochoud turned onto Huell Road, a dead-end street. Police said Trotochoud was traveling at 117 m.p.h. after the chasing police car activated its lights and siren.

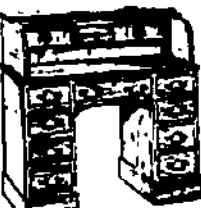

Trotochoud will appear March 25 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on two counts of speeding, disobeying a red light and attempting to elude police.

$1,128 camera gear stolen from truck

An estimated $1,128 worth of camera equipment, including two cameras, was stolen Wednesday from a truck in the K-Mart store lot, 760 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling, police said Thursday.

'No public-health impact'

MSD sewage plant gets U.S. blessing

The Metropolitan Sanitary District's proposed Des Plaines sewage treatment plant was given a clean bill of health Thursday by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"There is simply no (disease control) data available, of which we are aware, that would indicate any public health impacts whatsoever," the EPA said in a lengthy draft of an environmental impact statement that was released Thursday.

"This is by no means a closed case," stated the report, which did not include a review of the proposed plant's size.

In a letter mailed Tuesday to witnesses at previous hearings involving the plant, the EPA announced that a final, two-session public hearing is scheduled March 31 at Friendship Junior High School, 530 Elizabeth Ln., Des Plaines. The hearing sessions will be from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. until testimony ends.

A FINAL IMPACT report will be prepared after the April 7 deadline for written comments, Francis Mayo, regional EPA administrator, said in the letter.

Copies of the report will be available at local libraries, the letter stated.

"No demonstrable health hazard has been shown to exist with respect to the operation of activated sludge facilities" like the proposed plant, the report states. "USEPA believes the odor control measures planned for the O'Hare facility will prevent problems from occurring."

Federal officials reviewed nine proposed sites for the plant including two sections of O'Hare Airport, a trailer park near Elmhurst Road and the Northwest Tollway in unincorporated Cook County, three partially developed industrial tracts including vacant property in the Centex Industrial Park and a location in DuPage County.

Availability of land, acreage, proximity to residential and commercial property and location requirements eliminated

STUDENT RIGHTS are being discussed at St. Mary's School, Des Plaines. The student council, with the help of teacher Jackie Rapata, left, draws a list of rights and rules for the school. Debbie Mette, center, and other council members will work to see that the new system is successful.

Students win 'bill of rights'—without ballyhoo

by DOROTHY OLIVER

They didn't picket, lock themselves in the principal's office or stage demonstrations for the television cameras. Yet the students at St. Mary's School, Des Plaines, were successful in winning a bill of rights for freedoms they thought they were being denied.

The question of student rights came up during student council meetings early in the school year. When a student asked why he had to wear a uniform, why he was "kicked out of class" or what the school rule was regarding privacy, he'd receive a variety of answers — depending on who he asked, said Jim Walsh, president of the student council.

Council members approached Principal James Burns and asked if they could try to do something about the situation. With Burns' endorsement they worked with their faculty advisor Jackie Rapata, and drew up not only the bill of rights but also a set of student rules.

THEIR RESULTS were unveiled during an all-school assembly, with the council acting as a panel to explain the rights and rules. Students were allowed to ask any type of question and the faculty defended and explained their position.

"There was almost a sense that the faculty was on the firing line," Burns said. "There is a risk factor when you do something like this — asking people to be honest, letting the children speak out. But the kids accepted it with a greater degree of maturity than I think anyone expected."

Although changes are coming slowly, the student council members are seeing some results.

"A lot of kids stopped swearing and name-calling stopped a real lot," said Jim Walsh.

"I think the respect for fellow students is more," added Nina Azzaro, who shares the council presidency with Jim.

"Right now we're trying to get the students to change and follow the rules.

We're also trying to get students and teachers to cooperate," Jim said.

DEBBIE METTE, seventh-grade representative, said she believes most of the teachers are going along with the new rules and rights — even though some of them were offended in the beginning.

What's happening at St. Mary's fits right in with Burns' philosophy of education. The principal believes the responsibility for running a school should be shared by teachers, parents and students.

"We're working together," Burns said. "Not only is it important for us to have the input from the children, it's important for the children to know that their opinions are valuable."

And Burns believes what the students are doing today will have a long-term effect. "Once they begin examining student rights, they begin to understand, if I have rights other people have rights too. That awareness is very important."

The bills of St. Mary's...

Use of the washroom should be determined by the child's class.

Students are to enter and leave the building through the designated entrance.

Repeated rule violations will result in a conference with the student and his or her parents.

Students and teachers should not use profanity or vulgar language. Students should be courteous and polite.

Students should be respectful of the property of the school.

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULE, 668 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment to Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this campaign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

AFTER FULE'S announcement Hoellen called a press conference but refused to discuss dissent in the GOP. "I'm not going to claim a victory in this matter. The fact is that Floyd Fulle has stepped aside."

Hoellen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1968.

'No intention to levy taxes'

RTA to seek $238 million for buses

The Regional Transportation Authority disclosed Thursday plans to apply for a package of $238 million in federal grants that would include money to finance 147 suburban buses and 364 bus passenger shelters.

Transit consultants told the RTA board that the capital-improvements project would require an estimated $10.2 million in RTA funds, which could be provided without levying a gasoline tax.

"At this point there is no intention to levy any taxes," said Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Almost half of the $238 million would be used for the CTA and the Chicago Urban Transit District, which is planning a downtown subway system to replace the elevated tracks.

THE BOARD WILL meet again March 13 to approve the grant applications, which must be submitted to the federal government by March 15. Included in the possible projects to be funded in the 1975 fiscal year, which ends June 30, are 50 bi-level commuter coaches and 21 new locomotives for the Rock Island R.R., 147 buses and 364 bus-passenger shelters, 200 of which would be heated. The Rock Island equipment would cost $40 million, the buses would cost $9 million and the shelters are estimated at $2 million.

Transit consultant John Doolittle recommended the grant applications and said, "The major problem is adequate bus service in suburban areas." He said 276 of the area's 444 available buses are outdated, but many of them are already scheduled to be replaced by other funding programs.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District is planning to receive 74 new buses to serve the area of the former United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

Doolittle said state plans to build several commuter parking lots in the suburbs have a good chance of being funded in the coming year. One of those lots is planned for downtown Arlington Heights.

PROGRAMS DOOLITTLE said have little chance of being funded this fiscal year include purchase of the Chicago and North Western Ry.'s rolling stock, extension of the Kennedy Expressway rapid transit line to O'Hare Airport, a proposed CTA park-and-ride facility that is facing some controversy, acquisition of Union Station by the West Suburban Mass Transit District and the balance of funds for the Chicago Subway and Loop distributor construction.

A $31 million grant request for the subway plan would be only for planning, engineering and preliminary work, Doolittle said. The proposed requests also include $12.4 million for construction of a State Street mall and busway, with reverse bus lanes on major streets that intersect State.

Pikarsky announced that a committee made up of himself and the four suburban members of the board will begin discussions with commuter railroads on purchase-of-service agreements. He also promised that the RTA would not allow commuter service on the Rock Island to be interrupted.

Needed for tunnels, sewers to proposed plant

MSD to sue to obtain easements

The Metropolitan Sanitary District will file suit to force the City of Des Plaines to give the MSD easements under public streets.

The city in January refused the easements, needed for the tunnels and connecting sewers to lead to the proposed O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant. The MSD sought the easements in March and September 1974.

MSD Board Pres. Nicholas J. Melas said Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behr refused the easements because of the city lawsuit against the MSD over the O'Hare plant design.

The MSD board Thursday passed an ordinance establishing the right-of-way for the tunnels and sewers. The ordinance is needed for the district to begin condemnation proceedings to get the easements under the streets.

Involved are proposed easements under Oakton Street, Elmhurst Road, Lonnquist Boulevard, Mount Prospect Road, Princeton Street and Wolf Road.

IN A RELATED action, the board passed a similar ordinance for easements under publicly and privately owned land in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. The district staff wants the ordinance to authorize condemnation of the land if the district is unsuccessful in negotiating with property owners.

Among the owners of property involved are: Emmet J. and Erma Worley, two trusts held by the American National Bank and Trust Co., Stanley Krzeminski, Arthur and Emily Reese, Mount Prospect Dist. 57, Pioneer Trust and Savings Bank Trust, Herman Preuter as trustee of the "Prouter trust," a LaSalle National Bank trust, May Department Stores, Northern Illinois Gas Co., City of Des Plaines, Chicago and North Western Transportation Co. and the Mount Prospect Park District.

U.S. principles studied

An open discussion of the principles upon which the United States was founded will be sponsored by the American Studies Program at Oakton Community College from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Bill Taylor, assistant professor of political science at Oakton, will moderate the discussion.

The discussion is open to the public free of charge.

6th-grade students may be moved to elementary school

by DOB GALLAS

Bulging junior high school enrollments coupled with dwindling elementary school attendance in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 may force the district to move sixth-grade classes from junior high to elementary school buildings.

Acting Supt. Roger Bardwell has asked the Dist. 59 Board of Education to consider appointing a special study group to "examine the question."

Currently, kindergartners through fifth graders attend elementary buildings while sixth through eighth graders attend junior high buildings.

Post office draws 50 customers

More than 50 contractors have shown interest in building the Des Plaines Post Office, Post Service officials said Thursday.

Bids on the $2.6 million facility, which will be at Oakton Street and Executive Way, will be opened Thursday.

The 57,000-square-foot building is designed to allow for consolidation of the three buildings used by the postal service in Des Plaines and another office in Rosemont.

The new building has been delayed several times since 1969 when the postal seven proposed sites, the report states.

USEPA officials "found no significant environmental differences" between:

• The MSD's proposed 104-acre site at the southeast corner of Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, which is owned by the MSD.

• A 112-acre triangular parcel, also owned by the MSD, which is south of the tollway, west of Elmhurst Road and east of Higgins Road.

The MSD's proposed 104-acre site is acceptable for public funding, but is divided by Wille Road, which Des Plaines has refused to vacate.

"Some of the major concerns expressed by local residents . . . (were) the degradation of air quality due to odors being emitted from a sewage treatment plant and . . . a potential health hazard to the adjacent residential communities," the report states.

Three potential "sources of odors" — near the raw sewage pump station well, in the grit storage area and in the sludge handling area — are identified. "It is not possible to judge the exact extent of the potential odor problems resulting from the operation of the proposed plant."

"It cannot be assumed that this plant will experience the odor problems associated with other MSD facilities. If significant odor problems result from operation of the proposed plant, it would be possible to take necessary mitigative measures at that time," the report states.

THE REPORT also dismisses objections to environmental, social and economic effects of the plant made filed by the City of Des Plaines and homeowners' fears that property values in the area will decrease if the plant is constructed.

In objecting to the location of the plant, Des Plaines officials said the project violated U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development guidelines for construction near residential areas. "The handbooks do not provide specific regulations which must be followed," the report states.

Although home values may decrease during construction of the plant, "any long-term decrease will be negligible," the report states. "Once constructed and landscaped, the site should be esthetically pleasing in the context of its surroundings."

Des Plaines and the MSD have been battling over the proposed plant for nearly 10 years. The city originally contended it had the right to enforce its zoning regulations over the district, but the Illinois Supreme Court ruled the MSD did not have to follow the local zoning regulations.

A LATER SUIT attempted to use the city's home-rule authority to place restrictions on the MSD plant, but the Supreme Court also turned down the argument.

The most recent lawsuits were filed in January in U.S. District Court and this week in Circuit Court.

The federal lawsuit, which was filed by Des Plaines, seeks a court ruling on whether or not the district has to abide by local health ordinances as a condition for receiving federal funds for the project.

The MSD countered that action with another suit charging that the city is improperly using the court system to delay construction of the plant and asks $205 million in damages.

The most recent legal action was taken by the sanitary district against the city this week. It asks the Circuit Court to rule that the health ordinance, which sets down strict standards for the construction and operation of a sewage treatment plant, be declared unconstitutional, at least in connection with the construction of the O'Hare facility.

THE CITY HAS charged that the plant will be a nuisance and possibly a health hazard for nearby residents.

Recently Ald. Richard Ward, 8th, an outspoken critic of the plant, sent a report to the federal EPA charging that the entire facility might not even be needed.

Ward used sanitary district information to conclude that there are already plans for enough sewage treatment capacity to handle the expected growth of the area.

cited three junior high schools with overcrowding problems: Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd.; Elk Grove Village; Holmes Junior High School, 1900 W. Lonnquist Blvd., Mount Prospect; and Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicester Rd., Elk Grove Village.

"It will be several years before there is a significant decline in junior high school enrollment," Bardwell said in the report. "Such a decline is now evident in our 16 elementary schools and will continue."

PROPOSED MEMBERS of the group who would study the placement of sixth graders would include parents from the junior high schools, teachers, junior high and elementary administrators along with central office administrators, parents from the elementary schools and a board of education member.

The report also listed other alternatives such as a new school organization grouping kindergarten to fourth grade and fifth through eighth grade in separate buildings. Other proposals include moving some junior high programs to available space in elementary buildings, creating sixth grade "centers" at elementary buildings, or giving parents a choice to determine what is best for their child.

Bardwell said that the study, if approved, would probably take one year and changes would not take effect until at least the 1976-77 school year.

FAA murder suspect bound over to jury

Ulysses Tontley, the 57-year-old Federal Aviation Administration employee charged with murder and attempted murder in the Feb. 28 shooting of two of his coworkers, Thursday was ordered bound over to the grand jury.

Associate Judge Marvin J. Peters issued the order after a preliminary hearing in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court. Tontley stood quietly with his hands behind his back during the 45-minute hearing while Des Plaines policemen were posted throughout the courtroom.

Tontley is being held without bond in County Jail charged with the murder of Jay C. Sheridan, Carpentersville, and the attempted murder of Colby Moody Jr., Elk Grove Village, in a shooting last Friday at the FAA Des Plaines office, 2300 E. Devon.

EUGENE PINCHAM, Tontley's attorney, argued unsuccessfully that the charges against the Bloomington man should be dismissed because the shooting took place in a federal office and should therefore be prosecuted in a federal court.

Pincham said Des Plaines police did not have jurisdiction in the case because the shooting took place on property technically belonging to the U.S. government, even though the office space is leased.

Judge Peters denied the motion because Federal Bureau of Investigation officials were contacted at the time of the incident to clarify jurisdictional rights. The FBI told Des Plaines police at the time of the shooting that the local authority had jurisdiction in the case.

Pincham also moved to have stricken from the record testimony from Patrolman Mary Mundell and Det. Allen Freitag, who were among the first policemen to arrive on the scene. The attorney argued their testimony was based on hearsay of witnesses at the FAA office who said they saw Tontley fire the shots.

THE ATTORNEY argued that the witnesses should have been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing to give testimony rather than have it presented by the policemen. Judge Peters also denied this motion.

Tontley did not testify at the hearing and no plea was entered in the case. Police still have no motive for the shooting.

Moody was released Wednesday from Holy Family Hospital.

193 acres from Schaumburg

Parks to aid Centex in land-transfer plan

by JILL BETTNER

Elk Grove Village park officials, with the support of the village board, will join an effort by Centex Homes Corp. to transfer a 193-acre tract from the Schaumburg Park District into the Elk Grove Park District.

Centex submitted a petition last fall on behalf of the park district and the village to disannex the land owned by the builder between Meacham and Plum Grove roads north of the Northern Illinois Gas Co. right-of-way and west of Ill. Rte. 53. Schaumburg park commissioners responded to the petition with a lawsuit, charging the proposed disannexation is improper and the law providing for the action is unconstitutional.

THE STATE LAW, passed in 1973, allows a park district to annex a tract within its village's boundaries if the owner to be decided in court if an objection is raised.

Both park districts and Centex have or signs a petition backing the move. However, the statute requires the matter filed appearances in Circuit Court as the first step in resolving the dispute over the primarily undeveloped land.

Centex officials have indicated if the matter goes into litigation, they will bow out because of the anticipated high costs of defending the suit that could go to the Supreme Court.

The Elk Grove Village park board, also wary of expensive legal costs, has not decided whether it would take up the fight if it becomes necessary.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE Pres. Charles J. Zettek indicated the village board might offer some financial assistance.

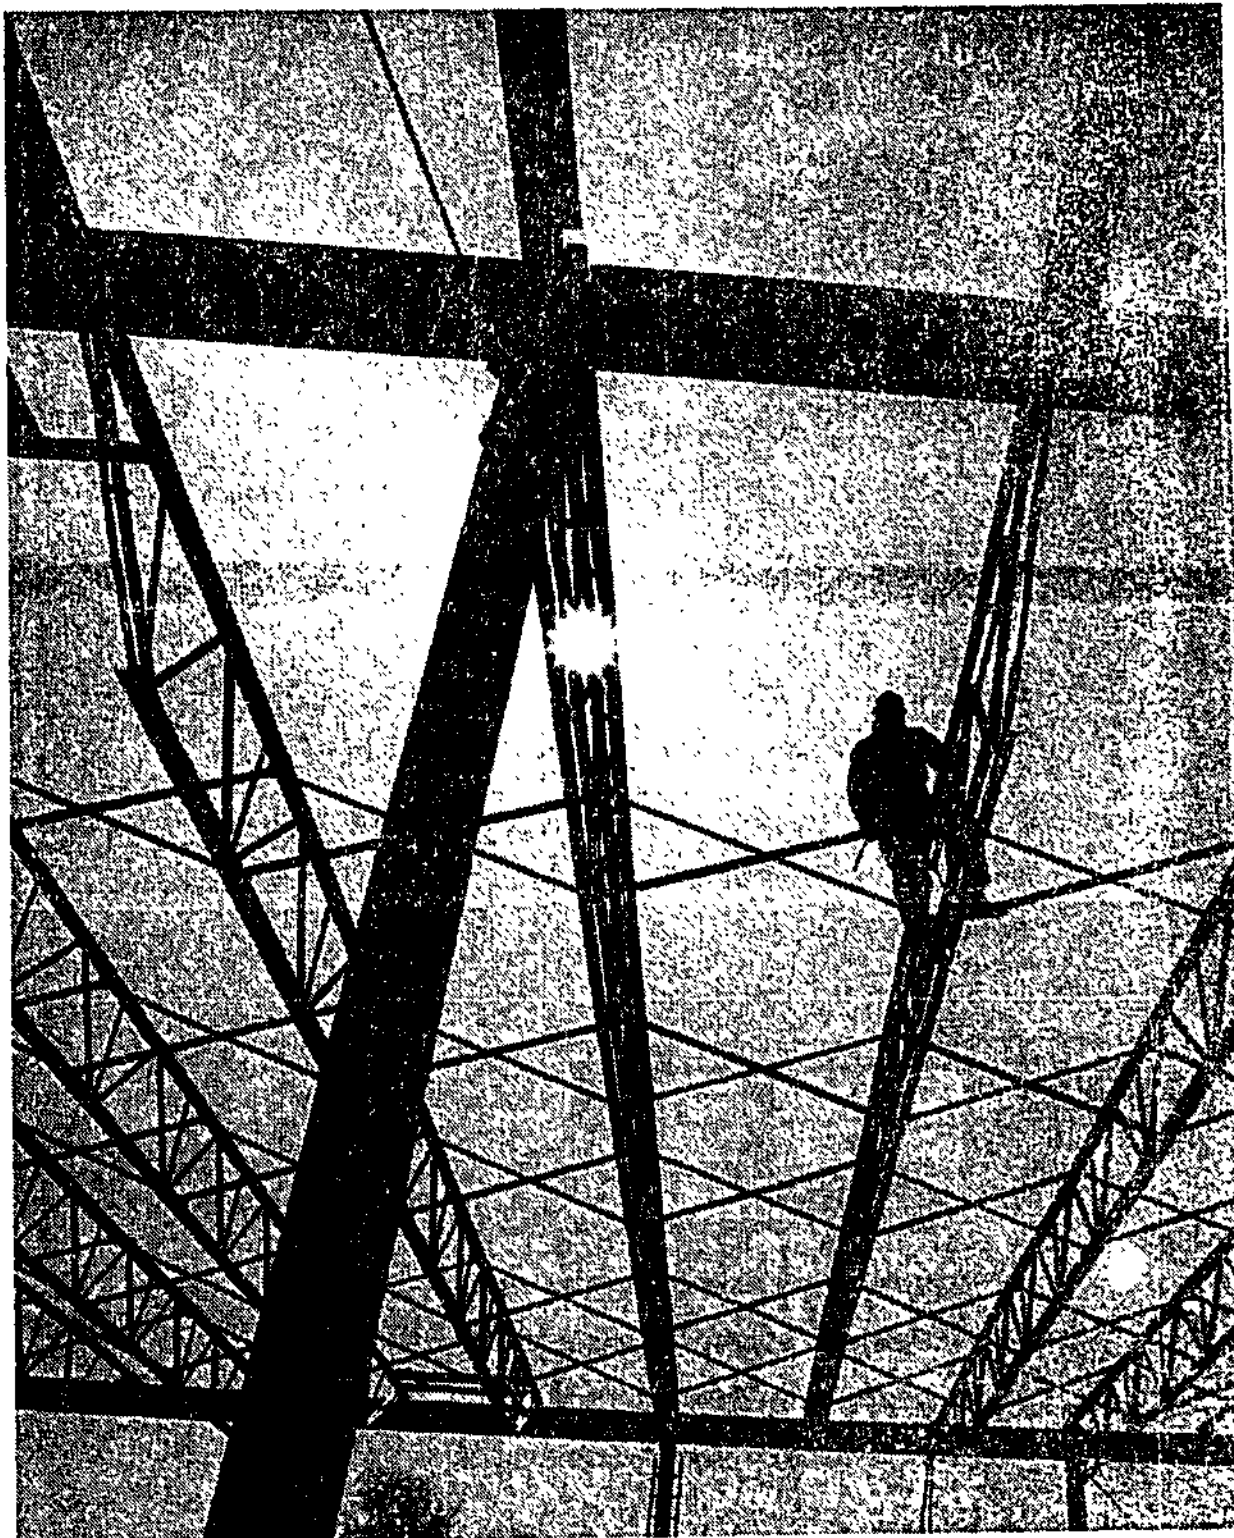

"We support the park district 100 per cent," Zettek said. "There's no money involved at present, but they might become involved in litigation and the amount we give then would depend on the cost of the litigation. We haven't made any commitment."

Members of both park boards have said they feel their districts could better serve the area where Centex proposes to build high-rise multi-family housing.

Although the land lies within the boundaries of Elk Grove Village, children in the area attend Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 and High School Dist. 211 instead of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and High School Dist. 214 as do other students in Elk Grove Village.

Schaumburg park officials have said they want a voice in the planning of creek and water-retention areas in the proposed Centex project because it borders property being considered for the Spring Valley Nature Center, a community project.

A 22,500 SQUARE-FOOT addition to the Elk Grove Village Public Works Building, 666 Landmeier Rd., soon will be under roof. Construction of the addition is expected to cost $595,000 and be completed in summer.

6th-graders may be moved to elementary schools

by BOB GALLAS

Bulging junior high school enrollments coupled with dwindling elementary school attendance in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 may force the district to move sixth-grade classes from junior high to elementary school buildings.

Acting Supt. Roger Bardwell has asked the Dist. 59 Board of Education to consider appointing a special study group to "examine the question."

Currently, kindergartners through fifth graders attend elementary buildings while sixth through eighth graders attend junior high buildings.

BARDWELL SAID there was "good reason" for the present system when it was started 10 or 12 years ago. Elementary buildings were crowded while junior high attendance was down, Bardwell said.

"But it's turned around now," he said. Bardwell cited an abundance of available rooms in elementary buildings as the student population there continues to decline, but said some junior high school buildings have 1,000 students above the optimum level.

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULLE, 668 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this paign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

AFTER FULLE'S announcement, Hoellen called a press conference but refused to discuss dissent in the GOP. "I'm not going to claim a victory in this matter. The fact is that Floyd Fulle has stepped aside."

Hollen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1968.

Officials hope Disney Park ready by summer of '76

Elk Grove Village park officials hope the new Disney Park at Wellington Avenue and Blesterfield Road will be ready by the summer of 1976.

Park Comr. Sheri Shapiro, park district representative on the Elk Grove Village Horizons 76 committee, said Thursday she would like to see the park used as a center for many of the activities planned next summer to celebrate the nation's Bicentennial and the 20th birthday of the village.

"We're talking about the kind of park people will be able to walk to and enjoy in the evenings and I think it could really be a focal point for a lot of Bicentennial programs," Mrs. Shapiro said.

THE PARK BOARD is considering an old-fashioned theme for a one-acre portion of the park that will include several large open areas, tennis courts and a replica of a small country village for children, with a jail, firehouse and trolley station.

A party house with a removable outside wall is planned as part of the country village and could be used as a bandshell for summer concerts.

Besides the small trolley train for children, the park probably will include an area with other mechanical kiddie rides.

Work is scheduled to begin this spring on the park entrance. The park board is planning more than a small wooden sign used at other parks in the village to designate Disney as the main park in the village.

Ideas for the entrance include a large sign in a small flower garden or a low semicircular wall around two sides of the sign.

A St. Louis architect is working with the park commissioners.

Suspect in FAA murder bound over to grand jury

Ulysses Toatley, the 57-year-old Federal Aviation Administration employee charged with murder and attempted murder in the Feb. 28 shooting of two of his coworkers, Thursday was ordered bound over to the grand jury.

Associate Judge Marvin J. Peters issued the order after a preliminary hearing in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court. Toatley stood quietly with his hands behind his back during the 45-minute hearing while Des Plaines policemen were posted throughout the courtroom.

Moody was released Wednesday from Holy Family Hospital.

'No public-health impact'

Sewage plant gets U.S. blessing proposed Des Plaines sewage treatment plant was given a clean bill of health Thursday by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"There is simply no (disease control) data available, of which we are aware, that would indicate any public health impacts whatsoever," the EPA said in a lengthy draft of an environmental impact statement that was released Thursday.

"This is by no means a closed case," stated the report, which did not include a review of the proposed plant's size.

In a letter mailed Tuesday to witnesses at previous hearings involving the plant, the EPA announced that a final, two-session public hearing is scheduled March 31 at Friendship Junior High School, 559 Elizabeth Ln., Des Plaines. The hearing sessions will be from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. until testimony ends.

A FINAL IMPACT report will be prepared after the April 7 deadline for written comments, Francis Mayo, regional EPA administrator, said in the letter.

Copies of the report will be available at local libraries, the letter stated.

"No demonstrable health hazard has been shown to exist with respect to the operation of activated sludge facilities" like the proposed plant, the report states.

"USEPA believes the odor control measures planned for the O'Hare facility will prevent problems from occurring."

Federal officials reviewed nine proposed sites for the plant including two sections of O'Hare Airport, a trailer park near Elmhurst Road and the Northwest Tollway in unincorporated Cook County, three partially developed industrial tracts including vacant property in the Center Industrial Park and a location in DuPage County.

Availability of land, acreage, proximity to residential and commercial property and location requirements eliminated seven proposed sites, the report states.

USEPA officials "found no significant environmental differences" between:

• The MSD's proposed 104-acre site at the southeast corner of Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, which is owned by the MSD.

• A 112-acre triangular parcel, also owned by the MSD, which is south of the tollway, west of Elmhurst Road and east of Higgins Road.

Three potential "sources of odors" — near the raw sewage pump station wet well, in the grit storage area and in the scum handling area — are identified. "It is not possible to judge the exact extent of the potential odor problems resulting from the operation of the proposed plant. It cannot be assumed that this plant will experience the odor problems associated with other MSD facilities. If significant odor problems result from operation of the proposed plant, it would be possible to take necessary mitigative measures at that time," the report states.

THE REPORT also dismisses objections to environmental, social and economic effects of the plant made filed by the City of Des Plaines and homeowners' fears that property values in the area will decrease if the plant is constructed.

In objecting to the location of the plant, Des Plaines officials said the project violated U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development guidelines for construction near residential areas. "The handbooks do not provide specific regulations which must be followed," the report states.

Elk Grove Village volunteers are conducting the Kidney Foundation of Illinois' annual "Walk for Life" campaign through March 23.

The twofold purpose of the campaign is neighbor requesting neighbor to carry the organ donor card, giving a gift of life to the more than 1,000 Illinois residents who survive only by means of the artificial kidney machine and to receive contributions to help support the programs of research, public education and service to the kidney patients, sponsored by the foundation.

The Bank of Elk Grove has agreed to receive the collections. For information about volunteering for the campaign, or the organ donor program, contact the Kidney Foundation of Illinois, 127 N. Dearborn, Chicago, or call 263-2140.

Correction

The Herald incorrectly reported Tuesday that Elk Grove Township residents must be at least 65 to use the township's free bus for senior citizens.

Outlaws X-rated movies

Village board adopts anti-obscenity law

by KURT BAER

The Hoffman Estates Village Board Thursday night passed an anti-obscenity ordinance by a 4-to-3 vote that bans obscene writing, pictures, movies, records, plays and other acts within the village.

In a meeting called just 24 hours before the enactment of the ordinance, village trustees agreed to define obscenity by applying "contemporary community standards" as they are perceived by "the average person."

Village Pres. Virginia Hayter said the meeting was called because of the scheduled opening of an X-rated movie, "Emmanuelle," at the Thunderbird Theater in the village.

Mrs. Hayter said she did not know if the ordinance would be applied against the film. She said she plans to see "Emmanuelle" in Chicago today.

"The ordinance is like the atomic bomb; it's there if you need it," Mrs. Hayter said. "I would hope it never has to be invoked."

THE ORDINANCE DEFINES work as obscene if it "appeals to prurient interest and . . . depicts or describes patently offensive representations or descriptions of nude persons, ultimate sexual acts, normal or perverted sexual conduct, whether actual or simulated."

Also deemed obscene are "patently offensive representations or descriptions of masturbation, excretory functions and lewd exhibition of the human genitals." The work also must lack "serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

Fines of $50 to $500 for each offense are specified and with the determination of a judge, the seizure and disposal of obscene material is authorized.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said the ordinance is intended to conform to U.S. Supreme Court decisions and places the ultimate decision on whether a book or movie is obscene in the hands of a judge. "Obscenities are an area not protected by the Constitution," Hofert said. He defined the "average man" referred to in the ordinance as "neither the high churchgoer nor the person who exposes himself in public and gets picked up for it."

MERELY SHOWING nude bodies on a movie screen would not necessarily be considered obscene, he said, since the ordinance requires that the material be "patently offensive."

In arguing against the ordinance, Trustee Ralph Lyerla said, "Every adult

The "coming attraction" bill on a local theater marquee sparked a hurried chain of calls late Wednesday leading to Thursday's special village board meeting on an obscenity ordinance.

The billing on the Thunderbird Theater marquee advertising the coming showing of "Emmanuelle," an X-rated movie, caught the eye of Village Pres. Virginia Hayter late Wednesday. "I walked in to see the owner of the theater but he wasn't there, so I left a message for him to call me," he said. "Then I went next door to call Mr. Hofert (Village Atty. Edward Hofert) to get his opinion on what we could do."

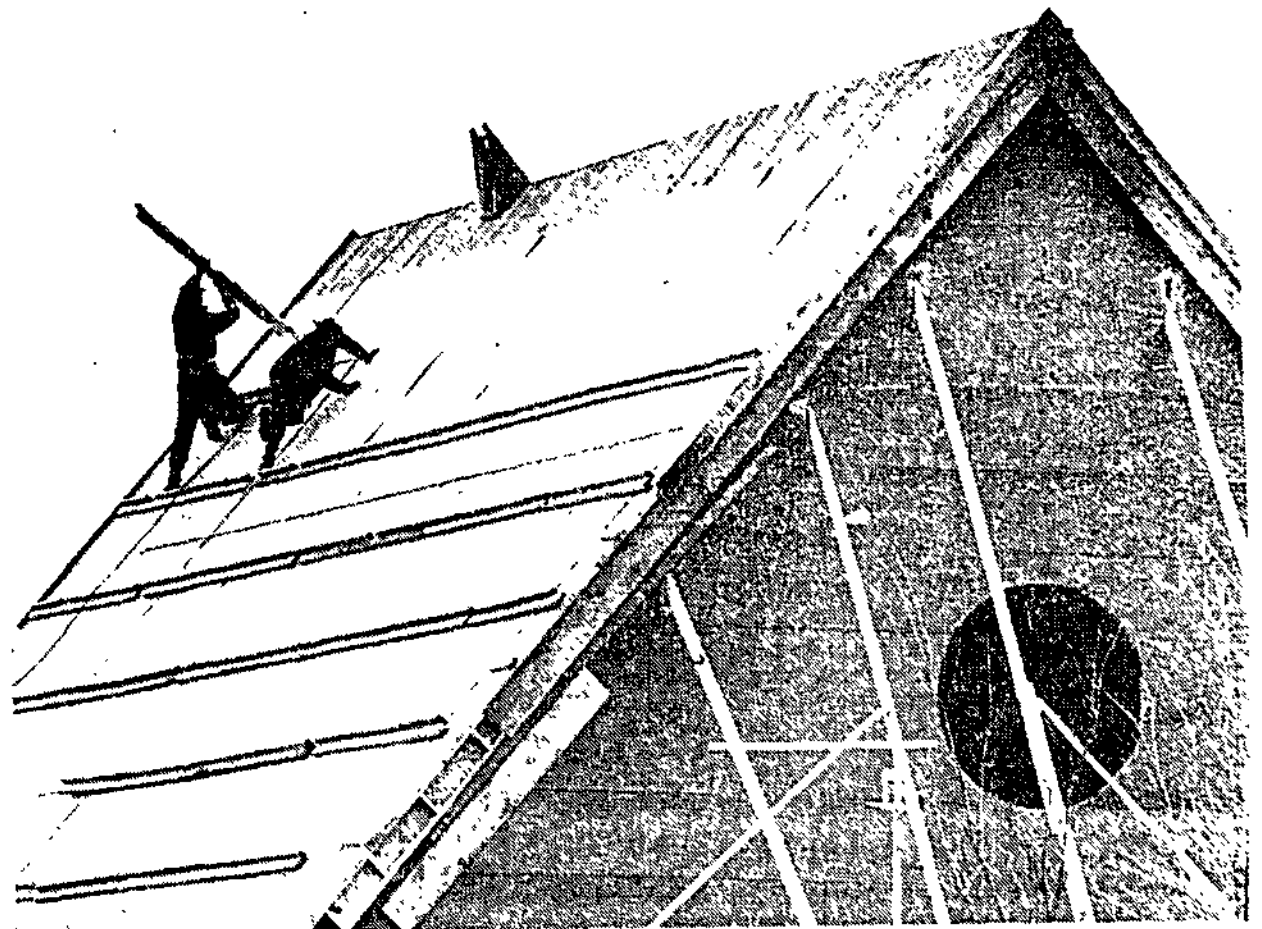

Subsequent calls were made to the village trustees to set up a special meeting Thursday, she said. By 9 p.m. a quorum was confirmed and 15 minutes later official notification of the meeting was announced.

The movie would be the first X-rated picture shown in the village, Mrs. Hayter said.

"I'm not making judgment on this movie," she added. "But I knew that sooner or later every community is faced with the need of defining community standards according to the Supreme Court decision."

"I thought it would be appropriate to

Bedard won't run for schools' post

Edward Bedard, a member of the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education, said Thursday he will not seek election to the school board in April.

Bedard, who was appointed to the board last October, said he does not have the time to devote to school district matters because of business commitments.

Four board seats must be filled in the April 12 election, two are for three-year terms and two are for one-year terms.

Incumbents Arlene Czajkowski and Dr. Edgar Feldman have filed for the three-year terms. Mrs. Czajkowski was elected to the board in 1972 and Feldman, a general surgeon, was appointed to a vacancy in October.

Robert Lang, 211 Hartford Dr., Schaumburg, a professor of education at Northern Illinois University, has filed for a one-year term.

Two persons are considering running for the school board but have not filed nominating petitions. They are Jay Hansen, a mathematics teacher at Frost Junior High School, Schaumburg, and former president of the Dist. 54 teachers' union and Sherry Reynolds, 282 Ida Rd., Hoffman Estates, retired teacher and former state education coordinator for the National Organization of Women in Illinois.

Deadline for filing nominating petitions is March 21.

Fulle yields GOP reins, but vows 'I shall return...'

FLOYD T. FULLE

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULLE, 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this paign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

Hoellen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1968.

Schools uphold nepotism policy despite ruling

A recommendation to drop the nepotism policy in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 was defeated Thursday night by the board of education.

The board's policy committee has recommended that the board abolish its policy forbidding the employment of a relative of a board of education member or an administrator but the board threw out the recommendation in a 4-to-3 vote.

The board's decision comes as a result of a Circuit Court decision this week that invalidated a teacher's contract in Dixon, Ill., because a board member voted to employ his wife.

SEVERAL BOARD members said they favored deletion of the nepotism policy because they believed it wasn't fair. "I would hope that we are getting the best qualified person" regardless of whether that person is "by an act of nature" a relative of a board member or administrator, said Arlene Czajkowski, board member.

But in light of the court ruling that apparently makes it illegal for a board member to vote on the employment of a relative, the board agreed to refine the policy in committee. The committee has been asked to consider eliminating administrator's from the policy, while still prohibiting the employment of relatives of board members.

The wife of a candidate for the board in the April 12 school elections is employed as a counselor in Dist. 54's Adams Junior High School.

Robert Lang, who has filed for a one-year term, has said he would abstain from voting on board matters directly affecting his wife. Although Lang would be in conflict with the nepotism policy if elected he said he has checked with the Illinois Office of Education and the Illinois attorney general and found his wife's employment would not be a conflict of interest.

Building plans too sketchy, developer told

The developer of North Side Industrial Park, proposed on a 20-acre site on Roselle Road north of the Northwest Tollway, has been asked to return Wednesday to the County Zoning Board of Appeals with more definite building plans.

Ray Plote, who owns the property on the east side of Roselle Road at Central Road, is asking the village to annex the property and rezone it for industrial use.

Plote this week told zoning board members he wants to construct a service station and at least one office building in the park but said he does not have definite designs for either structure.

Zoners refused to give Plote a variance that would allow construction of buildings that exceed three stories or 45 feet in height since the developer is not certain of the number or type of building the park will contain. Present ordinances do not allow buildings higher than that size.

Library gets replicas of U.S. documents

A permanent display of replicas of U.S. documents ranging from the Declaration of Independence to the Emancipation Proclamation will be given to the Schaumburg Township Public Library by the Schaumburg Exchange Club.

Members of the club offered the $600 collection to the library board. The documents will be mounted on wooden plaques.

$1,760 in tires, wheels taken from car dealer

About $1,760 worth of tires and wheels was reported stolen Thursday from three new autos outside Franklin-Weber Pontiac, 100 W. Golf Rd., Schaumburg.

Police said the tires and rims were taken after thieves jacked up the cars and left them on milk crates. The theft occurred between 9 p.m. Wednesday and a a.m. Thursday.

Park district newsletter planned

The Hoffman Estates Park District will circulate newsletters to inform the public about park board actions and district business.

The park board tentatively has approved $600 to publish the newsletter and mail it out in between the months in which the district's recreation activities brochures are distributed.

Allen Binder, park district director, said the newsletter hopefully would be distributed every three months. Final approval for the project will not come until the board adopts the 1975-76 budget.

do so at this time before the public would step in and say 'thou shalt not.'

Duncan Kennedy, owner of the Thunderbird Theater, could not be reached Thursday.

RESIDENTS CONTACTED in an informal telephone poll said they would support an ordinance restricting the showing of X-rated movies.

"Yes, I would (favor banning them)," Mrs. John Evensen, 150 Cambridge Ln., said. "I think that young kids get in to see them, they lie about their age to get in to see them. I think it promotes crime and rape. I think it's a lot of garbage. Parents wouldn't think of giving their kids garbage to eat and yet they would let them feast their eyes on it."

"I have a gut feeling that in the end we would have the morals of our community determined by the court. I don't feel I have a right to impose my moral judgment on you or on the judge and I don't think the judge has a right to impose his moral judgment on us."

Trustees Dyrle Rathman and Melvin Timmons also voted against the ordinance.

Jaycee jelly sale scheduled Saturday

Schaumburg Jaycees will conduct their annual jelly sale Saturday at three local shopping centers to benefit mentally and physically handicapped children in Illinois.

The Jaycees' project is in conjunction with the state organization sale. Proceeds will go toward development of the Illinois Jaycees Children's Camp planned for Lake Shelbyville.

The local sales will be at the Weatherway Plaza, Weathersfield Way and Roselle Road; Woodfield Commons, Springinguth and Schaumburg roads; and the Hoffman Plaza, Roselle and Higgins roads.

Jaycees will ask a $1 donation for a 10-ounce jar of grape jelly. The local goal is 600 jars.

"Well, I have children and I would just as soon they don't show them," Mrs. Thomas Tate, 131 Audubon St., said. "I would keep the theater for family entertainment."

"I don't think they should be shown," Mrs. Tomas McGuire, 105 E. Charleston Ln., said. "I just don't think we need them. I myself would not go to see them."

"Yes, I think so," Sue Luper said of banning the films. "They're stupid in the first place. The guys get their kicks from it, but I'd rather see a good movie."

THE LOCAL ordinance considered Thursday is "substantially the same" as one passed quickly a year ago in Elk Grove Village, Hofert said Thursday.

Hofert, who also is municipal attorney for Elk Grove Village, said the ordinance would not necessarily ban all X-rated films, but "if an X-rated film is obscene according to the ordinance, then it can be prevented. This ordinance is rather straightforward," he said.

The Elk Grove ordinance defines a work to be obscene if the average person would find the work, taken as a whole, appealing to a prurient, or lewd, interest.

It also deems as obscene any offensive representation of or descriptions of excretory functions and lewd exhibitions of the human genitals.

TRUSTEE Bruce Lind replied, "If people feel the ordinance is not right, they have the freedom to travel to other areas where obscenity is available."

A preamble to the ordinance states that village officials "find that obscene material impairs public health, welfare and morals of the community and that such material may be a contributing cause of sexually promiscuous behavior as well as to incite sexually criminal behavior in the community." The ordinance becomes binding 10 days after it is published. For the ordinance to have gone in to effect immediately, one more affirmative vote was needed.

Palatine, Fremd battle for regional title

Six area teams to collide tonight; three survivors move to sectionals

by ART MUGLIAN

Some people like to refer to it as the second season. Others call it March Madness. It leads to Champaign and the first big step is tonight.

The IHSAA Class AA basketball tournament will crown regional champions tonight. One of them will go on to earn the state title on March 22. Six area teams are taking that important first step tonight at Palatine, Forest View, and Rolling Meadows. All title games will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Three local squads will pack it away until next year, but the winners of the three area regionals will advance to the sectional tournaments.

The victor at Palatine will move on to a first-round confrontation Wednesday at the Elgin Sectional. The Rolling Meadows and Forest View champions will meet in the Arlington Sectional, also on Wednesday.

AT PALATINE

When it comes to rivalries, Palatine and Fremd definitely have something going. It may not be a classic McCoy/Hatfield feud or even a Giants/Dodgers struggle to the death. Not quite.

It's more like the Bulls and the Bucks. Both teams take pride in knocking each other off — in sending the crosstown challenger back across town, beaten and dragging.

Tonight when the Pirates host the Fremd Vikings for the regional title, they will relive the memories of some of those past matches. Last year, Fremd bumped Palatine in the first round of the regional after the Pirates had beaten Fremd twice during the season. In the 1973 regional finals, Palatine downed the Vikings to advance to the sectionals.

This year's Palatine team (10-12), with a victory tonight, can roll up more wins than any Pirate squad in 12 years. Leading the way is 6-5 senior Mark Mara, the MSL's second-highest scorer (21.0). Other starters will be Chris Burrus, Jim Maycan, Art Stevenson, and Kevin McKenna.

Fremd (10-13) is quicker than Palatine, but they suffer a height disadvantage. Jim Reicher, listed at 6-1, is the Vikings' tallest starter, though 6-5 Randy Vaughan is a valuable sub. Other starters for Fremd are Tim Gross, Ken Hanks, Rich Kolbe, and Kevin Lavin, who tallied 25 against Schaumburg Tuesday.

AT ROLLING MEADOWS

If the Rolling Meadows regional is decided, ultimately, by a pair of shooting guards — and it might be — then tonight's game between Maine West (14-9) and Prospect (18-4) could last all night.

Maine's 6-4 senior Glen Helden netted 20 points against Elk Grove Wednesday, not too far off his 15-point season average. On Tuesday, Prospect's 6-3 Al Black almost singlehandedly put the Knights into the title game with 38 points against Rolling Meadows.

But there's more to the game than just a couple of gunning backcourtiers — like the towering front line of Prospect's Mid-Suburban League champs, 6-9 Paul With-ey, 6-8 Doug Bonthron, and 6-3 Dave Mann.

Maine West's Warriors will also have to contend with Mike Quade, the Knights' superb playmaker. But the Warriors can hold up their end of the bargain. With the 6-3 Zuccarini brothers, Steve and Bob, and 6-5 John Clark, Maine has learned to employ some muscle under the boards.

AT FOREST VIEW

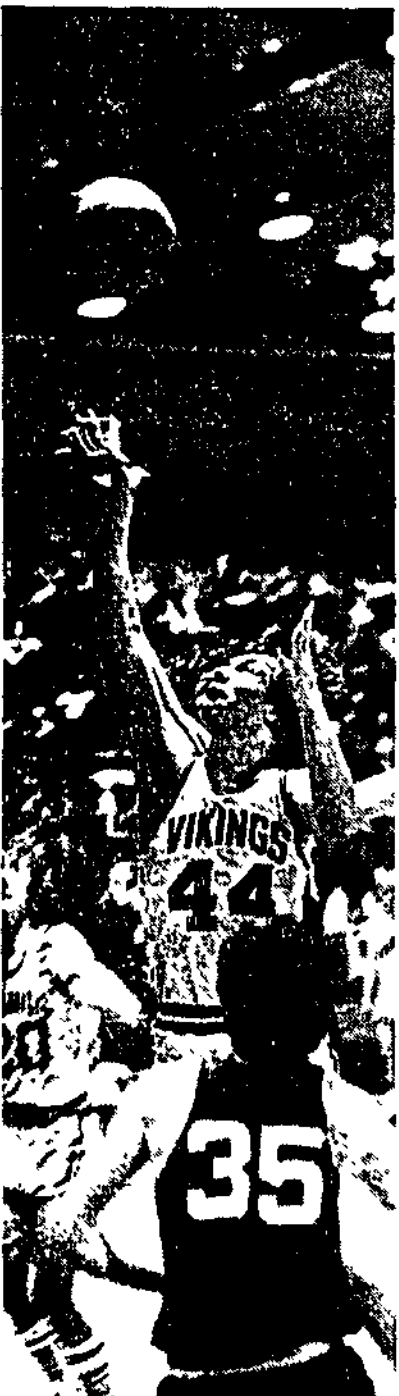

Who said lightning doesn't strike twice? It strikes the basketball court every time Arlington and Wheeling meet for a tip-off. For the seventh time in two seasons these squads will square off. And tonight's regional battle is a rematch of last year's title game, an exciting 68-63 tourney win for Wheeling.

Arlington (19-4) has handed Wheeling (19-5) two of the Wildcats' losses this year, including a 56-51 heartbreaker. The quick Cardinals rely on balanced scoring and aggressive defensive play spearheaded by a netlike full-court press. The Cards will start Terry Donahue at center, Denny Gaare and Mike Fogel at forwards, and Jerry DeSimone and John Yeazel at guards.

The taller Wheeling squad is led by 6-10 center Steve Criss and forwards Ed Kruk (6-4) and Keith Schildt (6-5). Steve Rymer and Mike Brzuszkiewicz share the guard duties. Brzuszkiewicz, a 6-3 senior, has earned his laurels this season for outstanding defensive play, though he tossed in 15 points to lead his team to a win over Forest View Wednesday.

HIGH FOR TWO is Fremd's Jim Reicher in Vikings' 68-60 victory over Schaumburg. Ed Chmiol (35) of the Saxons closes in on defense. Fremd will battle Palatine tonight for the right to advance to the sectional tournament in Elgin. (Photo by Rick Bamman)

Gym dazzler State finals at Prospect High

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

The cream has risen to the top.

The best gymnasts in Illinois, 179 in all representing 41 different schools, will descend on the Prospect High School fieldhouse, the final staging area, to determine the state gymnastics champions for 1975.

The survivors of 12 district and four sectional tournaments will begin preliminary competition today at 2:00. At that time the prelims in free exercise, side horse and high bar will be decided and later in the evening, at 7:00, the prelims in trampoline, P-Bars and still rings will take place.

The qualifiers from the preliminaries will advance to the final round to be held Saturday at 7 p.m.

If past performances are any indication, Bart Conner will have been crowned the best all-around gymnast in the state for the second year in a row after Friday's events.

The Niles West junior walked off with the title last year, piling up an average of 8.59. In this year's Niles West Sectional he scored a total of 44.80 points, highest in the state. Add to that the belief of many people that Conner had a bad day in the sectional and that spells trouble for the rest of the all-around performers.

One such performer is Hersey's Kevin Muenz, all-around champion in the Mid-Suburban League, Wheeling District and Buffalo Grove Sectional. His 8.36 sectional AA average was the third best in the state, behind Conner and Niles East's Neal Sher (8.17).

Muenz is the big gun for the Huskies in their bid to defend the state championship trophy they wrestled away from Hinsdale Central last year. Hersey won big in the Wheeling District and they won big in the Grove sectional to qualify a dozen gymnasts for the final show.

Muenz will have something to prove to the Hinsdale gymnasts and particularly Red Devil all-around specialist Breck Grigas. The Huskies lost a dual meet to Hinsdale late in the season and Muenz had one of the worst nights of his career, suffering breaks on his side horse and P-Bars routines.

Those flubs pulled Muenz's average down to 7.82 and cost him the all-around championship to Grigas' 8.19.

Grigas came out of the Riverside-Brookfield Sectional with an AA average, just a .10 of a point shy of Muenz. The duel between Muenz, Grigas and Sher for second place could be the highlight of the all-around competition.

Matt Damore, Elk Grove's all-arounder, was the only other gymnast from the area to rank in the top 10 sectional scores with an average of 8.00 with Damore, Mike Schmidt of Evanston, Craig Martin of Maine South, Conner and Sher five of the top ten all-around scores coming out of the Niles West sectional.

The question of team supremacy may hinge on whether Niles West has any gymnasts other than Conner. The Indians have qualified 13 men for the finals and only Hinsdale Central, with 15, qualified more.

FLOOR EXERCISE

Keith Oehlson will be tumbling for the last time in a Hersey uniform. His 8.95 score won the Buffalo Grove Sectional handily but was only the third best score in the state behind Conner and Les Moore of Rich Central.

Oehlson has shown marked improvement over the Hinsdale Central meet where he lost the free ex event title to Steve Economides 8.8 to 8.4. In the sectional, Economides hit the score again to rank fifth in the state.

Prospect's Doug Zahour will be the 31st man off the free ex launch pad in the prelims Friday. His 8.60 in the sectional would have given him a championship if Conner hadn't been around.

Tumbling for the Knights also will be Dan Bartlett, who threw a 7.10 routine in the sectional. Rolling Meadows will be represented by Alex Gimbut, a third place medalist at 8.35 in the Buffalo Grove sectional.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Oehlson 3. Economides.

SIDE HORSE

Tim Connelly could bring the Mid-Suburban League a state championship on the side horse, an event he has dominated throughout the year. Connelly with a score of 8.90 leads a trio of side horse specialists at the top of the state heap who all came out of the Niles West sectional.

Hinsdale Central's Paul Black is a very real threat to ride everybody into oblivion on the event. A sectional champ, and fourth best in the state at 8.65, Black went as high as 9.15 to win the event in the Hersey dual meet.

If Bartlett hits his routine he could sneak onto the winner's stand for Prospect. His 8.50 sectional score brought him a fourth place medal and was seventh best in the state.

In addition to Connelly, the MSL has four specialists competing on the side horse. Dave Gurka of Meadows and Gordon Schmidt of Arlington tied for the event championship in the Buffalo Grove sectional at 8.25. Wheeling's Jeff Kee took a fifth at 7.95 and Hersey's Jeff Salcedo a fourth at 8.00.

Order of finish: 1. Connelly 2. Black 3. Conner.

HORIZONTAL BAR

This event belongs to Conner, who will be trying to make up for what was his worst event in the state finals last year when he scored 7.35 to tie for fifth.

The artful Indian was judged at 9.30 in the sectional to beat Sher by .40 of a point. The MSL placed four gymnasts in the top 10 in the state on this event. Gene Christensen, and Kevin Muenz third at 8.85, Matt Damore fifth at 8.70 and Doug Zahour seventh at 8.60.

Other area specialists qualifying for the state meet on the high bar are Hersey's Brian Covelli, who took a fourth in the sectional at 8.30, Elk Grove's Tom Balla, who tied for sixth at Niles West with an 8.50 and Arlington's Drew Parlee, who tied for second at Buffalo Grove with an 8.40.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Christensen 3. Sher.

'They ain't nothin' but a five-ring circus'

A story that was buried for many years has surfaced again.

It is a fascinating story that can be told now with a deeper appreciation for the problems of the time.

It is the story of the first all-black basketball team to ever reach the championship game of any state tournament in the nation.

For the past two issues of Chicago, a monthly magazine, Ira Berkow has probed the story of the legendary DuSable High School basketball team of 1954. He has succeeded admirably with a well-written examination of a team that did indeed make history.

DuSable did not win the state championship. They lost to Mt. Vernon, 76-70, in one of the most emotional, dramatic and bizarre state UGA games ever played. But the team amazed the city of Chicago and state of Illinois and its fame spread nationally.

The timing is right for such a story. Youngsters throughout Illinois currently are battling for advancement on the state tournament ladder. This is "March Madness" in high school basketball, 1973 style.

Berkow's articles deal with "March Madness," 1954 style and the problems of a group of black athletes from Chicago who helped revolutionize the game with their full-court fast break and full-court zone press defense.

Veteran coach Duster Thomas of Pinckneyville, the tournament favorite in 1954, and the great exponent of rigidly patterned play, said after watching Du-

Sable, "They ain't nothin' but a five-ring circus."

No one had ever seen anything like this run-and-shoot team before, with their cheerleaders' original and jazzy cheers, and their warm-up uniforms with the flowing capes, and their incessant running, running, running.

You have to understand the time to appreciate the significance of the DuSable story, and the difficulties these boys encountered. This was a seminal year for blacks in America, in sports and otherwise.

By odd circumstance, the DuSable team of Chicago emerged at the confluence of national black history: In May of 1954, two months after the state championship game in Illinois, the U.S. Supreme Court handed down the landmark Brown vs. Board of Education decision, ruling public school segregation unconstitutional.

Twenty years later, Jim Brown, who coached that DuSable team, said, "We coincided with the climate of the times."

The players knew what kind of coach Brown was. He spent long hours with them in practice, on weekends, in the summer, working on their skills. He could be volatile and once threw a paddle at star Sweet Charlie Brown, who returned the fire. Both respected and understood each other better after that.

The head coach, who also was black, preached to his players, boys from the slums, that they should try to win all the time. "I said second was nothin'," he remembered. "Especially if you're black."

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

If you're first, then maybe you got a chance.

DuSable was a team of extraordinary talent. There were such stars as Sweet Charlie, later to make All-America with Elgin Baylor at Seattle University; Paxton (Super Lump) Lumpkin, later to spend several years with the Harlem Globetrotters; and Shellie McMillon, later to star at Bradley and play with the Detroit Pistons.

Lumpkin was the cousin of Leon Hilliard, primary dribbler of the Globetrotters, and when DuSable was involved in a laughter, with a comfortable margin, students would begin to chant "Showtime, showtime." Lumpkin would respond by dribbling for several minutes with the other teams in pursuit.

It was this run-and-shoot, crowd-pleasing team that journeyed to Champaign for the state tournament in 1954. Not far outside Chicago, the team bus stopped for hamburgers. The owner of the restaurant refused to have the busload of blacks sit in his establishment.

Charlie Brown said later that from that moment at the restaurant until the team returned to Chicago on Sunday he felt his blackness "every minute of every hour of every day."

The atmosphere at the state tourney in 1954 was heavily southern Illinois, since it was run by men from that area, and most of the teams were rural.

DuSable rolled over Bowen, a small township school, by 23 points, and then coasted past Quincy, 80-66, in the quarterfinals. They destroyed Edwardsville 89-73 on Saturday afternoon.

Mount Vernon, a team from southern Illinois, was the final opponent and the referees were from East St. Louis and Alton. To this day, there is bitterness on the part of the DuSable players, who thought the southern Illinois referees stole the game from them.

DuSable was leading much of the game and had a one-point advantage until the final 90 seconds. Then a series of foul calls against DuSable, and the capitalizing free throws by Mt. Vernon, iced the game. Three DuSable starters fouled out, and another had four fouls. No Mt. Vernon player had more than three fouls. And in the closing minutes Charlie Brown hit three baskets — each of which was called no good for traveling.

"Charlie," yelled Coach Brown from the sidelines, "don't dribble, don't fake, just shoot!"

There's an unfortunate tendency to blame the officials for many defeats, but the circumstances surrounding this particular game obviously were very unusual. It was even more unusual that a man, a white man, had come to the door of the DuSable dressing room before the game and said he knew something. He said he knew DuSable was the better team, but they would not win the game. Coach Brown hustled him away.

It was a bitter defeat for this powerful DuSable team, but Coach Brown insisted that they take losing as they took winning, gracefully. It was difficult, very difficult.

Last May, over 20 years later, when the Illinois state high school coaches named the 1954 DuSable team in toto to be in its hall of fame, the players refused to come to the honoring banquet.

Coach Brown came to the banquet and accepted the plaque. He no longer coaches at DuSable. He is district supervisor of sports, recreation and safety for one-fourth of the Chicago public high schools. He remains active in working for more black coaches and more black officials.

"I accepted the plaque," he said, "because it's a new day. And I think it was a symbol of how far many of us have come."

State funds urged to help on ambulance

The Rolling Meadows City Council finance committee Thursday night voted to recommend applying for state funds to buy an ambulance, even though it means the vehicle will not be as large as city paramedics prefer.

The council recommendation will be taken to the full council Tuesday. The application is to be ready for filing, March 14.

Through a federal grant program, the state may reimburse the city for up to 70 per cent of the cost, to a maximum of $12,500.

Following state specifications, to qualify for state funds, the total ambulance cost would be about $16,000 or $17,000, Firefighter William P. Schmidt said. If the state approves funding, the city then could be reimbursed for $11,200 to $11,900, and city cash outlay would be about $5,000. The city would spend about $9,000 more for paramedic equipment, which is not covered in the matching fund programs.

The ambulance preferred by the paramedics, providing greater interior height and width and dual wheels, would cost about $19,000 to $20,000, Schmidt said. The state would not fund any of that amount, however, he said.

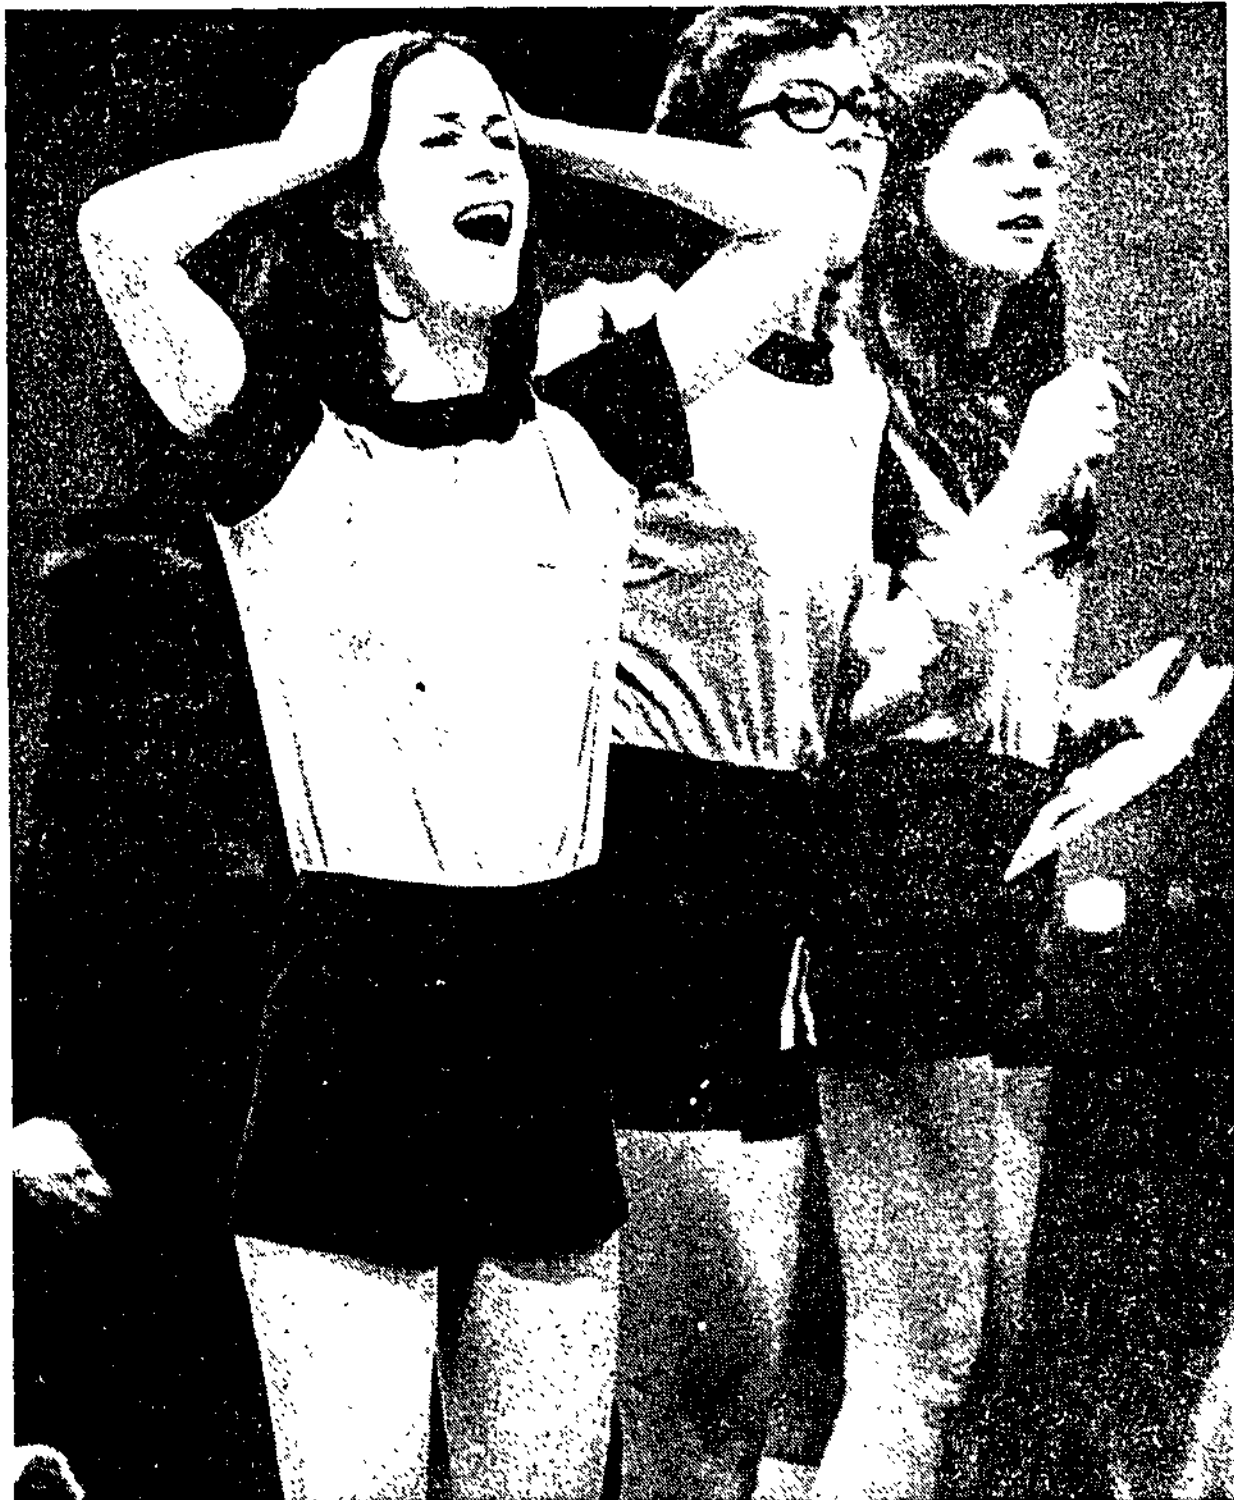

SCHMIDT SAID the paramedics hoped for the more-expensive vehicle, because it would allow them to stand erect while caring for patients. It would be less prone to sway and it would provide a smoother ride.

The larger ambulance would permit treatment inside the vehicle, rather than outside where weather conditions might not be favorable, Schmidt said.

Committee members agreed with the paramedics' reasons for wanting the larger vehicle, although the state-funded ambulance still will be a van-type vehicle. They questioned the logic of the state in adopting inflexible specifications for vehicle funding, but noted the specifications originally were prepared by federal personnel in establishing the matching fund program.

But the slightly larger height and width dimensions are not such crucial points as to justify not seeking the state funds, suggested Ald. William Ahrens, 2nd and Schmidt concurred. Ald. James Huddleston, 4th, also suggested the city might be able to mount dual wheels after it receives state funding, with minor modifications to the vehicle. This would increase ride stability, he suggested.

If the state does not approve the funding, the city still can reconsider purchasing the other larger ambulance, the committee agreed.

RTA to seek $238 million for buses

The Regional Transportation Authority disclosed Thursday plans to apply for a package of $238 million in federal grants that would include money to finance 147 suburban buses and 364 bus passenger shelters.

Transit consultants told the RTA board that the capital-improvements project would require an estimated $10.2 million in RTA funds, which could be provided without levying a gasoline tax.

"At this point there is no intention to levy any taxes," said Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Almost half of the $238 million would be used for the CTA and the Chicago Urban Transit District, which is planning a downtown subway system to replace the elevated tracks.

THE BOARD WILL meet again March 13 to approve the grant applications, which must be submitted to the federal government by March 15. Included in the possible projects to be funded in the 1975 fiscal year, which ends June 30, are 50 bilevel commuter coaches and 21 new locomotives for the Rock Island R.R., 147 buses and 364 bus-passenger shelters, 200 of which would be heated. The Rock Island equipment would cost $40 million, the buses would cost $9 million and the shelters are estimated at $2 million.

Transit consultant John Doolittle recommended the grant applications and said, "The major problem is adequate bus service in suburban areas." He said 276 of the area's 444 available buses are outdated, but many of them are already scheduled to be replaced by other funding programs.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District is planning to receive 74 new buses to serve the area of the former United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

Doolittle said state plans to build several commuter parking lots in the suburbs have a good chance of being funded in the coming year. One of those lots is planned for downtown Arlington Heights.

PROGRAMS DOOLITTLE said have little chance of being funded this fiscal year include purchase of the Chicago and (Continued on Page 5)

FLOYD T. FULLE

Fulle yields GOP reins, but vows 'I shall return...'

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference. Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULLE, 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this, paign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

Hoellen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1968.

Palatine, Fremd battle for regional title

Six area teams to collide tonight; three survivors move to sectionals

by ART MUGALIAN

Some people like to refer to it as the second season. Others call it March Madness. It leads to Champaign and the first big step is tonight.

The IHSAA Class AA basketball tournament will crown regional champions tonight. One of them will go on to earn the state title on March 22. Six area teams are taking that important first step tonight at Palatine, Forest View, and Rolling Meadows. All title games will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Three local squads will pack it away until next year, but the winners of the three area regionals will advance to the sectional tournaments.

The victor at Palatine will move on to a first-round confrontation Wednesday at the Elgin Sectional. The Rolling Meadows and Forest View champions will meet in the Arlington Sectional, also on Wednesday.

AT PALATINE

When it comes to rivalries, Palatine and Fremd definitely have something going. It may not be a classic McCoy/Hatfield feud or even a Giants/Dodgers struggle to the death. Not quite.

It's more like the Bulls and the Bucks. Both teams take pride in knocking each other off — in sending the crosstown challenger back across town, beaten and dragging.

Tonight when the Pirates host the Fremd Vikings for the regional title, they will relive the memories of some of those past matches. Last year, Fremd bumped Palatine in the first round of the regional after the Pirates had beaten Fremd twice during the season. In the 1973 regional final, Palatine downed the Vikings to advance to the sectionals.

This year's Palatine team (10-12), with a victory tonight, can roll up more wins than any Pirate squad in 12 years. Leading the way is 6-5 senior Mark Mara, the MSL's second-highest scorer (21.0). Other starters will be Chris Burrus, Jim Maycan, Art Stevenson, and Kevin McKenna.

Fremd (10-13) is quicker than Palatine, but they suffer a height disadvantage. Jim Recher, listed at 6-1, is the Vikings' tallest starter, though 6-5 Randy Vaughan is a valuable sub. Other starters for Fremd are Tim Gross, Ken Hanks, Rich Kolze, and Kevin Lavin, who tallied 25 against Schaumburg Tuesday.

AT ROLLING MEADOWS

If the Rolling Meadows regional is decided, ultimately, by a pair of shooting guards — and it might be — then tonight's game between Maine West (14-9) and Prospect (18-4) could last all night.

Maine's 6-4 senior Glen Helden netted 20 points against Elk Grove Wednesday, not too far off his 18-point season average. On Tuesday, Prospect's 6-3 Al Black almost singlehandedly put the Knights into the title game with 38 points against Rolling Meadows.

But there's more to the game than just a couple of gunning backcourtors — like the towering front line of Prospect's Mid-Suburban League champs, 6-9 Paul With-ey, 6-8 Doug Bonthron, and 6-3 Dave Mann.

Maine West's Warriors will also have to contend with Mike Quade, the Knights' superb playmaker. But the Warriors can hold up their end of the bargain. With the 6-3 Zuccarini brothers, Steve and Bob, and 6-5 John Clark, Maine has learned to employ some muscle under the boards.

AT FOREST VIEW

Who said lightning doesn't strike twice? It strikes the basketball court every time Arlington and Wheeling meet for a tip-off. For the seventh time in two seasons these squads will square off. And tonight's regional battle is a rematch of last year's title game, an exciting 68-63 tourney win for Wheeling.

Arlington (19-5) has handed Wheeling (19-5) two of the Wildcats' losses this year, including a 56-51 heartbreaker. The quick Cardinals rely on balanced scoring and aggressive defensive play spearheaded by a netlike full-court press. The Cards will start Terry Donahue at center, Denny Gaere and Mike Fogel at forwards, and Jerry DeSimone and John Yenzel at guards.

The taller Wheeling squad is led by 6-10 center Steve Criss and forwards Ed Kruk (6-4) and Keith Schildt (6-5). Steve Rymer and Mike Brzuskiewicz share the guard duties. Brzuskiewicz, a 6-3 senior, has earned his laurels this season for outstanding defensive play, though he tossed in 15 points to lead his team to a win over Forest View Wednesday.

Gym dazzler

State finals at Prospect High

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

The cream has risen to the top.

The best gymnasts in Illinois, 179 in all representing 41 different schools, will descend on the Prospect High School fieldhouse, the final staging area, to determine the state gymnastics champions for 1975.

The survivors of 12 district and four sectional tournaments will begin preliminary competition today at 2:00. At that time the prelims in free exercise, side horse and high bar will be decided and later in the evening, at 7:00, the prelims in trampolines, P-Bars and still rings will take place.

The qualifiers from the preliminaries will advance to the final round to be held Saturday at 7 p.m.

If past performances are any indication, Bart Conner will have been crowned the best all-around gymnast in the state for the second year in a row after Friday's events.

The Niles West junior walked off with the title last year, piling up an average of 8.59. In this year's Niles West Sectional he scored a total of 44.80 points, highest in the state. Add to that the belief of many people that Conner had a bad day in the sectional and that spells trouble for the rest of the all-around performers.

One such performer is Hersey's Kevin Muenz, all-around champion in the Mid-Suburban League, Wheeling District and Buffalo Grove Sectional. His 8.36 sectional AA average was the third best in the state, behind Conner and Niles East's Neal Sher (8.47).

Muenz is the big gun for the Huskies in their bid to defend the state championship trophy they wrestled away from Hinsdale Central last year. Hersey won big in the Wheeling District and they won big in the Grove sectional to qualify a dozen gymnasts for the final show.

Muenz will have something to prove to the Hinsdale gymnasts and particularly Red Devil all-around specialist Brock Grigas. The Huskies lost a dual meet to Hinsdale late in the season and Muenz had one of the worst nights of his career, suffering breaks on his side horse and P-Bars routines.

Those flubs pulled Muenz's average down to 7.92 and cost him the all-around championship to Grigas' 8.19.

Grigas came out of the Riverside-Brookfield Sectional with an AA average, just a .10 of a point shy of Muenz. The duel between Muenz, Grigas and Sher for second place could be the highlight of the all-around competition.

Matt Damore, Elk Grove's all-arounder, was the only other gymnast from the area to rank in the top 10 sectional scores with an average of 8.00 with Damore, Mike Schmidt of Evanston, Craig Martin of Maine South, Conner and Sher five of the top ten all-around scores coming out of the Niles West sectional.

The question of team supremacy may hinge on whether Niles West has any gymnasts other than Conner. The Indians have qualified 13 men for the finals and only Hinsdale Central, with 15, qualified more.

FLOOR EXERCISE

Keith Oehlsen will be tumbling for the last time in a Hersey uniform. His 8.95 score won the Buffalo Grove Sectional handsily but was only the third best score in the state behind Conner and Les Moore of Rich Central.

Oehlsen has shown marked improvement over the Hinsdale Central meet where he lost the free ex event title to Steve Economides 8.8 to 8.4. In the sectional, Economides hit the score again to rank fifth in the state.

Prospect's Doug Zahour will be the 31st man off the free ex launch pad in the prelims Friday. His 8.60 in the sectional would have given him a championship if Conner hadn't been around.

Tumbling for the Knights also will be Dan Bartlett, who threw a 7.10 routine in the sectional. Rolling Meadows will be represented by Alex Gimbut, a third place medalist at 8.35 in the Buffalo Grove sectional.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Oehlsen 3. Economides.

SIDE HORSE

Tim Connelly could bring the Mid-Suburban League a state championship on the side horse, an event he has dominated throughout the year. Connelly with a score of 8.90 leads a trio of side horse specialists at the top of the state heap who all came out of the Niles West sectional.

Hinsdale Central's Paul Black is a very real threat to ride everybody into oblivion on the event. A sectional champ, and fourth best in the state at 8.65, Black went as high as 9.15 to win the event in the Hersey dual meet.

If Bartlett hits his routine he could sneak onto the winner's stand for Prospect. His 8.50 sectional score brought him a fourth place medal and was seventh best in the state.

In addition to Connelly, the MSL has four specialists competing on the side horse. Dave Gurka of Meadows and Gordon Schmidt of Arlington tied for the event championship in the Buffalo Grove sectional at 8.25. Wheeling's Jeff Koo took a fifth at 7.95 and Hersey's Jeff Salcedo a fourth at 8.00.

Order of finish: 1. Connelly 2. Black 3. Conner.

HORIZONTAL BAR

This event belongs to Conner, who will be trying to make up for what was his worst event in the state finals last year when he scored 7.55 to tie for fifth.

The artful Indian was judged at 9.20 in the sectional to beat Sher by .40 of a point. The MSL placed four gymnasts in the top 10 in the state on this event. Gene Christensen, and Kevin Muenz third at 8.85, Matt Damore fifth at 8.70 and Doug Zahour seventh at 8.60.

Other area specialists qualifying for the state meet on the high bar are Hersey's Brian Covelli, who took a fourth in the sectional at 8.30, Elk Grove's Tom Balla, who tied for sixth at Niles West with an 8.50 and Arlington's Drew Parlee, who tied for second at Buffalo Grove with an 8.40.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Christensen 3. Sher.

non player had more than three fouls. And in the closing minutes Charlie Brown hit three baskets — each of which was called no good for traveling.

"Charlie," yelled Coach Brown from the sidelines, "don't dribble, don't fake, just shoot!"

There's an unfortunate tendency to blame the officials for many defeats, but the circumstances surrounding this particular game obviously were very unusual. It was even more unusual that a man, a white man, had come to the door of the DuSable dressing room before the game and said he knew something. He said he knew DuSable was the better team, but they would not win the game. Coach Brown hustled him away.

It was a bitter defeat for this powerful DuSable team, but Coach Brown insisted that they take losing as they took winning, gracefully. It was difficult, very difficult.

Last May, over 20 years later, when the Illinois state high school coaches named the 1954 DuSable team in toto to be in its hall of fame, the players refused to come to the honoring banquet.

Coach Brown came to the banquet and accepted the plaque. He no longer coaches at DuSable. He is district supervisor of sports, recreation and safety for one-fourth of the Chicago public high schools. He remains active in working for more black coaches and more black officials.

Hall is not out of the realm of possibility, although Kropp has a stronger chance of winning than Hall has of rising to second.

If Kropp is to take the championship he will have to out duel a strong field that includes New Trier West's Brewster McFarland, who posted the state's best score of 8.95, and York's Gary Rust, who was ranked fourth 8.60.

Kropp himself was third with 8.70. Hall was the class of the Buffalo Grove sectional next to Kropp and placed second, a half point below the Hersey champion. His best still did not place him in the top ten of the state, though.

Elk Grove's Scott Harriott, fifth at Niles West with 8.20, plus Jim Losito of Meadows and Gregg Manning of Hersey, who tied for third at Buffalo Grove at 8.00, round out the list of area competitors on the tramp.

Order of finish: 1. Rust 2. Kropp 3. McFarland.

PARALLEL BARS

Conner, who set a national P-Bars record of 9.60 in the sectional, and Neal Sher, who fired a 9.20, will fight it out among themselves for the state championship of this event.

The MSL is well represented on this event with five individuals placed in the top ten in the state. Leading that pack are Christensen and Prospect's Kurt Cederberg, who tied for fourth in the sectional with an 8.70 mark. Kevin Muenz is ranked sixth in the state with an 8.65 while Elk Grove's duo of Damore and Jim Schwartz are tied for ninth at 8.55.

Prospect also has Jim Tangney qualified on the event after his 8.35 score in the sectionals.

Order of finish: 1. Conner 2. Sher 3. Cederberg.

STILL RINGS

You have to go all the way to sixth in the state to find the first area competitor with the marks to challenge the best in the state on the rings. Prospect's Glen Wilke held off Myron Fletcher of Niles North to win the sectional title with an 8.55 score.

Oak Park's Barry Schmidt is the best in the state by .30 of a point, posting a 9.00 in the sectionals. Conner had a few minor slips in his sectional routine and fell to 8.40, just barely out of the top ten. He should go higher in the state finals.

Dave Gauger, and Dave Bycroft of Meadows, and Dale Brumgraber of Wheeling head up the list of MSL specialists on the still rings.

Order of finish: 1. Schmidt 2. Conner 3. Velguth (Hinsdale)

Radio coverage at Forest View

The championship game tonight in the Forest View Regional between Wheeling and Arlington will be broadcast on WWM-FM (92.7).

Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk and WM Sports Director Howard Balson will be at the microphones with the pre-game report at 7:20 p.m. at 92.7 on the FM dial. Tipoff is 7:30 p.m.

WM's only high school basketball broadcast next week will be Friday, March 14, at the championship of the Arlington Sectional. This will be a taped delay following the Chicago Cougars' hockey coverage, with Frisk and Herald Associate Sports Editor Paul Logan at the microphones.

WM plans live coverage of the Evanson Super-Sectional on Tuesday, March 18, with Frisk and Balson calling the action.

State funds urged to help on ambulance

The Rolling Meadows City Council finance committee Thursday night voted to recommend applying for state funds to buy an ambulance, even though it means the vehicle will not be as large as city paramedics prefer.

The council recommendation will be taken to the full council Tuesday. The application is to be ready for filing, March 14.

Through a federal grant program, the state may reimburse the city for up to 70 per cent of the cost, to a maximum of $12,500.

Following state specifications, to qualify for state funds, the total ambulance cost would be about $16,000 or $17,000. Firefighter William P. Schmidt said. If the state approves funding, the city then could be reimbursed for $11,200 to $11,900, and city cash outlay would be about $5,000. The city would spend about $9,000 more for paramedic equipment, which is not covered in the matching fund programs.

The ambulance preferred by the paramedics, providing greater interior height and width and dual wheels, would cost about $19,000 to $20,000, Schmidt said. The state would not fund any of that amount, however, he said.

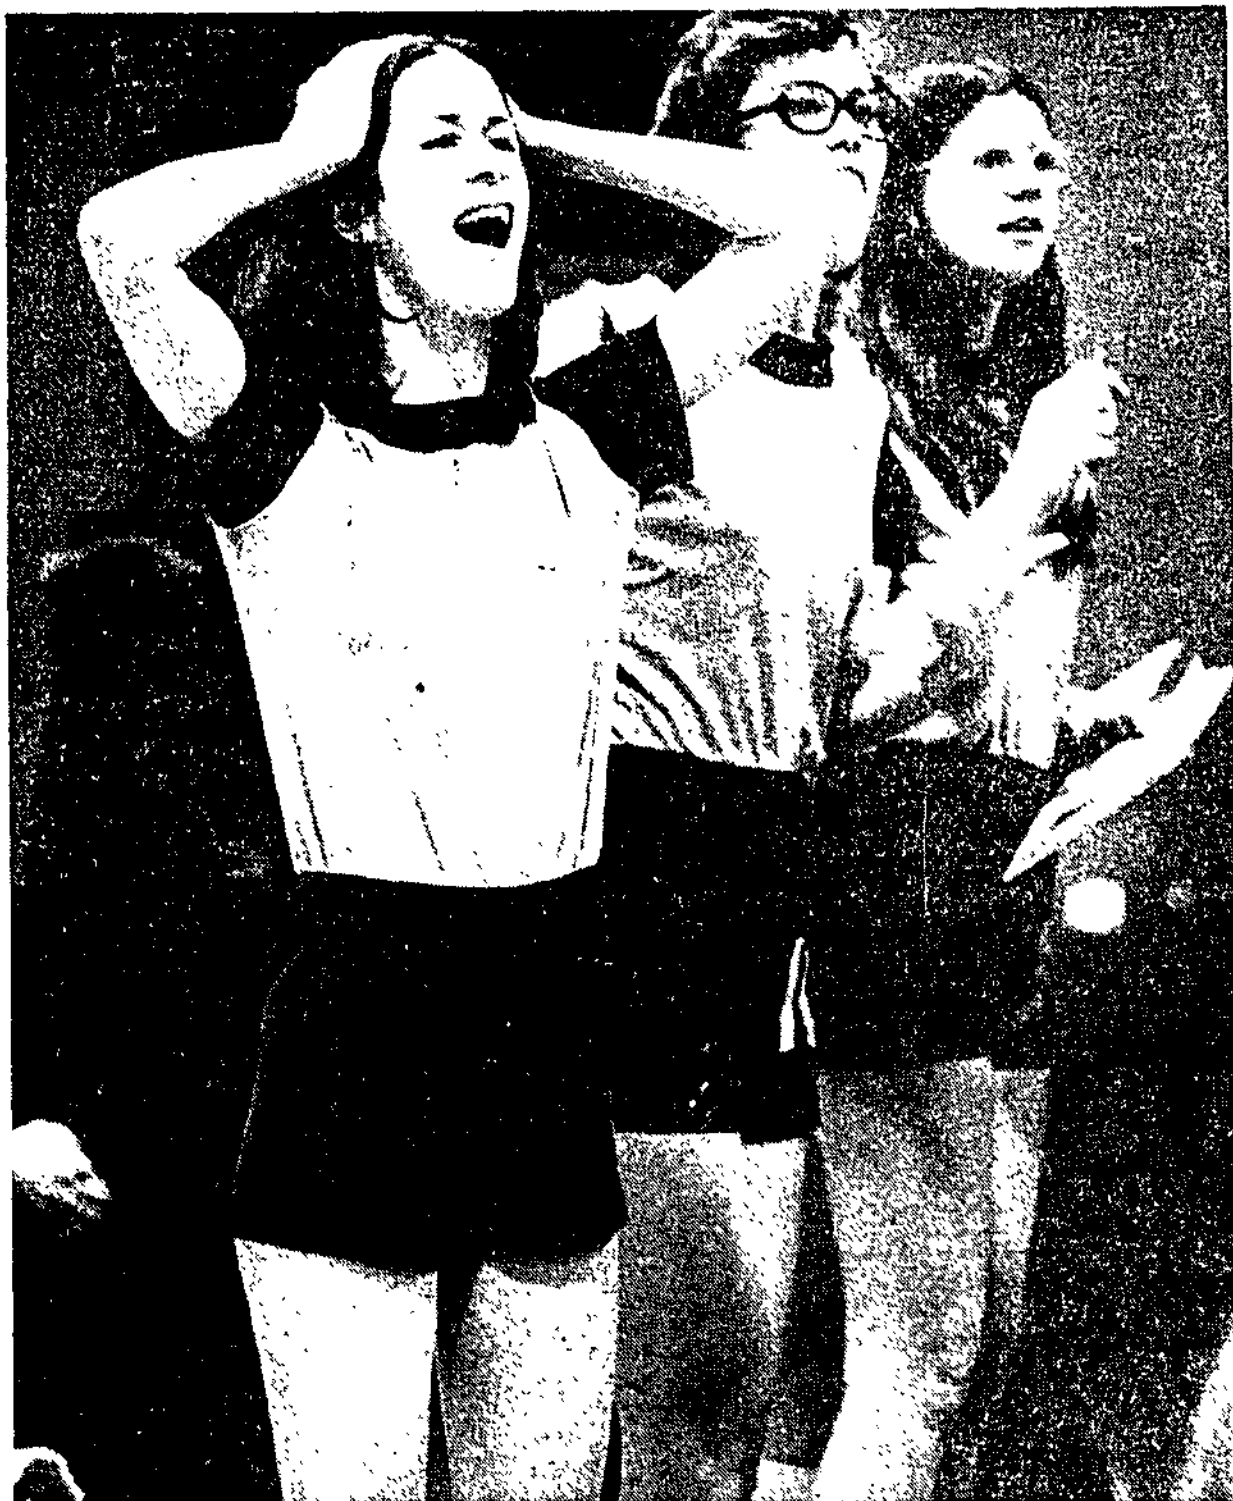

SCHMIDT SAID the paramedics hoped for the more expensive vehicle, because it would allow them to stand erect while caring for patients. It would be less prone to sway and it would provide a smoother ride.

The larger ambulance would permit treatment inside the vehicle, rather than outside where weather conditions might not be favorable, Schmidt said.

Committee members agreed with the paramedics' reasons for wanting the larger vehicle, although the state-funded ambulance still will be a van-type vehicle. They questioned the logic of the state in adopting inflexible specifications for vehicle funding, but noted the specifications originally were prepared by federal personnel in establishing the matching fund program.

But the slightly larger height and width dimensions are not such crucial points as to justify not seeking the state funds, suggested Ald. William Ahrens, 2nd and Schmidt concurred. Ald. James Huddleston, 4th, also suggested the city might be able to mount dual wheels after it receives state funding, with minor modifications to the vehicle. This would increase ride stability, he suggested.

If the state does not approve the funding, the city still can reconsider purchasing the other larger ambulance, the committee agreed.

RTA to seek $238 million for buses

The Regional Transportation Authority disclosed Thursday plans to apply for a package of $238 million in federal grants that would include money to finance 147 suburban buses and 364 bus passenger shelters.

Transit consultants told the RTA board that the capital-improvements project would require an estimated $10.2 million in RTA funds, which could be provided without levying a gasoline tax.

"At this point there is no intention to levy any taxes," said Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Almost half of the $238 million would be used for the CTA and the Chicago Urban Transit District, which is planning a downtown subway system to replace the elevated tracks.

THE BOARD WILL meet again March 13 to approve the grant applications, which must be submitted to the federal government by March 15. Included in the possible projects to be funded in the 1975 fiscal year, which ends June 30, are 50 bilevel commuter coaches and 21 new locomotives for the Rock Island R.R., 147 buses and 364 bus-passenger shelters, 200 of which would be heated. The Rock Island equipment would cost $40 million, the buses would cost $9 million and the shelters are estimated at $2 million.

Transit consultant John Doolittle recommended the grant applications and said, "The major problem is adequate bus service in suburban areas." He said 276 of the area's 444 available buses are outdated, but many of them are already scheduled to be replaced by other funding programs.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District is planning to receive 74 new buses to serve the area of the former United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

Doolittle said state plans to build several commuter parking lots in the suburbs have a good chance of being funded in the coming year. One of those lots is planned for downtown Arlington Heights.

PROGRAMS DOOLITTLE said have little chance of being funded this fiscal year include purchase of the Chicago and (Continued on Page 5)

FLOYD T. FULLE

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULLE, 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this paign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

AFTER FULLE'S announcement, Hoellen called a press conference but refused to discuss dissent in the GOP. "I'm not going to claim a victory in this matter. The fact is that Floyd Fulle has stepped aside."

Hoellen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1963.

Skating spree raises $3,000

The Rolling Meadows Hockey Club expects to receive about $3,000 from the skate-a-thon fund-raiser held Wednesday night in the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex.

"It was considered a success," although more funds may be needed, said Ann Sanders, chairman of the skate-a-thon committee.

About 90 youngsters, mostly boys, skated laps around the ice rink to raise money for travel expenses for all-star teams in five divisions. The teams travel throughout the suburbs and participate in a state hockey tournament. Each skater had arranged pledges of contributions from five or more sponsors for each lap around the rink, and they skated for an hour toward a maximum of 100 laps.

Each of the skaters received a free skating pass from the Rolling Meadows Park District, but the skater bringing in the highest contribution total will receive a 10-speed bike. The top skater in each of five age categories will receive a $10 gift certificate from the pro shop in the sports complex.

A WAVE, a jaunty swing of the arm, and they're off, on Meadows Sports Complex. Members and friends of the the first of 100 laps around the rink of the Rolling city's hockey league skated Wednesday to raise money.

Police athletic group to open boxing program

Rolling Meadows boys 10 to 20 are invited to join a new boxing program to be sponsored by the newly organized Rolling Meadows Police Athletic Assn.

The association is to be chartered as a nonprofit corporation, and eventually could be expanded to include other sports training projects such as bowling, said Mayor Roland J. Meyer, adviser to the new organization.

The association was started by men in the police department who enjoy boxing and want to help young men in the community learn its fine points.

Police Det. Michael Condroski, a former Golden Gloves amateur boxing contender, will coach the program. Condroski has taught karate and boxing and now is working to open the program to more boys. Also coaching will be police communications supervisor Donald Capellen and Ray Weber.

A membership charge of $3 would cover the cost of punching bags, gloves, mouthpieces and jerseys and also pay for liability insurance. A parental consent form will be required for every participant.

THE ASSOCIATION already has started workout sessions three nights per week in the basement wrestling area of Rolling Meadows High School. Boys enrolled participated in their first nondecision exhibition matches March 1, boxing against members of the Mount Prospect Boxing Club in the Mount Prospect Park District Lions Park Recreation Center.

"The experience was very valuable to the young boxers," said Condroski, who added that another meet is scheduled for 6 p.m. March 14 in Mount Prospect. Matches at this meet will be judged, and the winners will be announced. The bouts are open to the public.

Local boys already scheduled to compete in boxing matches are Dan Condroski, 10; Jim Feltz, 12; Tom Feltz, 13; Jim Hutchins, 13; Mike Condroski, 13; Jim Weber, 14; Dave Sloan, 14; Mark McMahon, 14; John Zabba, 14; Tim Mertins, 14; Brian Mertins, 14; Jim Hall, 14; Jeff Crites, 14; Joe Fiebig, 16; Dave O'Connor, 15; Kevin Mertins, 16; Dave Friske, 17; Tom Piccolo, 18, and Gary Crites, 18.

Suspect in FAA murder bound over to grand jury

Ulysses Tontley, the 57-year-old Federal Aviation Administration employee charged with murder and attempted murder in the Feb. 28 shooting of two of his coworkers, Thursday was ordered bound over to the grand jury.

Associate Judge Marvin J. Peters issued the order after a preliminary hearing in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court. Tontley stood quietly with his hands behind his back during the 45-minute hearing while Des Plaines policemen were posted throughout the courtroom.

Tontley is being held without bond in County Jail charged with the murder of Jay C. Sheridan, Carpentersville, and the attempted murder of Colby Moody Jr., Elk Grove Village, in a shooting last Friday at the FAA Des Plaines office, 2300 E. Devon.

EUGENE PINCHAM, Tontley's attorney, argued unsuccessfully that the charges against the Bloomington man should be dismissed because the shooting took place in a federal office and should therefore be prosecuted in a federal court.

Pincham said Des Plaines police did not have jurisdiction in the case because the shooting took place on property technically belonging to the U.S. government, even though the office space is leased.

Judge Peters denied the motion because Federal Bureau of Investigation officials were contacted at the time of the incident to clarify jurisdictional rights. The FBI told Des Plaines police at the time of the shooting that the local authority had jurisdiction in the case.

Pincham also moved to have stricken from the record testimony from Patrolman Mary Mundell and Det. Allen Freitag, who were among the first policemen to arrive on the scene. The attorney argued their testimony was based on hearsay of witnesses at the FAA office who said they saw Tontley fire the shots.

THE ATTORNEY argued that the witnesses should have been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing to give testimony rather than have it presented by the policemen. Judge Peters also denied this motion.

Tontley did not testify at the hearing and no plea was entered in the case. Police still have no motive for the shooting.

Moody was released Wednesday from Holy Family Hospital.

Five ecology awards to be presented

The Rolling Meadows recycling, ecology and beautification committee will present five ecology-recognition certificates to area residents at the March 25 city council meeting.

Awards are being given to businesses, industries, complexes, churches, schools and homeowners for efforts in maintaining their premises. The REB committee plans to make these awards four times each year.

Judging the first round of awards were chairman a Marietta Alton; Virginia Tuttle; Harry O'Brien, director of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce; Louis Schriener, director of horticulture cooperative education classes for High School Dist. 214, and Roland Stehn, outdoor education coordinator for Dist. 214.

Evelyn Drummond, REB chairman, said winners were judged on landscaping, maintenance, appearance of building, contribution to environmental beauty, and contribution to the community.

Each winner will receive a recognition plaque and an ecology flag.

Youth wins chess tourney

Matthew Morris, 11, of Rolling Meadows, was named Illinois state champion in a recent chess tournament for boys in sixth grade or younger in Hillside.

New titles at the library

"Billie Jean King's Secrets of Winning Tennis" is among new nonfiction works at the Rolling Meadows Public Library.

Other books include "Guinness Sports Record Book, 1974-75," Norris McWhirter; "How to Buy a Used Car," Charles R. Jackson; "Shake Down the Thunder!" Wells Twombly; "The Ku Klux Klan," William Randal, and "High Blood Pressure," Frank A. Finerty.

Additional titles include "Abominable Snowmen: Legend Come to Life," Ivan Sanderson; "How to Tie Freshwater Flies," Kenneth E. Bay, and "American Heart Association Cookbook," Ruth Eshleman.

Youth, 17, fined in traffic case

Brian K. Rhoades, 17, of 4732 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, was fined $50 Wednesday after he pleaded guilty to disobeying a red light Nov. 17 in Mount Prospect.

Rhoades was sent to a drug-abuse program on an additional possession of marijuana charge. The charge is pending until he completes the program.

A third charge of possession of an altered driver's license against Rhoades was dropped. He appeared in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

'Cleanup day' yields to Saturday series

The annual spring cleanup day in Rolling Meadows will be replaced this year by a series of cleanup Saturdays, said Evelyn Drummond, recycling, ecology and beautification chairman.

Mrs. Drummond said an ongoing spring cleanup would be more effective. REB hopes to have Scout and youth groups signed up for two Saturdays each month beginning in April. Each group will concentrate on one area for several hours, she said, rather than trying to clean the whole city in a day.

Volunteer help will also be used to spread weed killer on traffic islands during the spring, she said.

Any group interested in volunteering for a cleanup Saturday may call Martha Atherton of the REB committee at 397-4643.

RTA to seek $238 million for buses

North Western Ry.'s rolling stock, extension of the Kennedy Expressway rapid transit line to O'Hare Airport, a proposed CTA park-and-ride facility that is facing some controversy, acquisition of Union Station by the West Suburban Mass Transit District and the balance of funds for the Chicago Subway and Loop distributor construction.

A $31 million grant request for the subway plan would be only for planning, engineering and preliminary work. Doan said. The proposed requests also include $12.4 million for construction of a State Street mall and busway, with reverse bus lanes on major streets that intersect State.

Pikarsky announced that a committee made up of himself and the four suburban members of the board will begin discussions with commuter railroads on purchase-of-service agreements. He also promised that the RTA would not allow commuter service on the Rock Island to be interrupted.

Two lawsuits weighed to get streets fixed

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The Palatine Township Highway Commissioner and about 50 Pinehurst Manor residents are planning to file separate lawsuits against the subdivision developer because street resurfacing has not been completed.

Robert Bergman, highway commissioner, said the developer of the Pinehurst Manor subdivision, northeast of Hickies and Dundee roads, has not completed six streets since the subdivision was finished in 1969.

Bergman said about 50 residents of Capri Drive, Aster Avenue, Holly Way, Gardenia Lane and Ivy Place have been "continually inconvenienced" because the streets have not been resurfaced.

Five years of winter sleet and freezing temperatures have eaten away portions of the streets, and residents damaged their cars in the large chuckholes left behind, Bergman said.

THE DEVELOPER. Laurel Development Co., Arlington Heights, never posted a performance and completion bond with the township to insure the completion of the subdivision, Bergman said.

State law requires developers to post the bond after they receive zoning and planning approval from the county. The bond equals the total cost of the improvement work, and is returned to the developer when the work is completed.

The county board "usually checks to make sure that the developer has posted the bond with the township before the construction begins," Bergman said.

"In this case I feel that either the county or the developer is getting away with something that is not legal. We have never been notified by the county as to whether the bond was posted with someone else or whether it was waived," Bergman said.

SHARON WHEAT, president of the Pinehurst Manor Homeowners' Assn., said residents on streets which have not been resurfaced are raising funds for the lawsuit.

The residents have contributed $550 and plan to sponsor a neighborhood rummage sale next month to raise the remaining funds, she said.

"People don't really like the idea of spending their own money to pay for this lawsuit. They feel as though they have the streets coming to them. The developer has given us one excuse after another and we're tired of it," Mrs. Wheat said.

Lake Louise PTA forming ecology committee

'Wee Willy the Watt Watcher' school-bound

Wee Willy the Watt Watcher is coming to Lake Louise School in Palatine this spring to help students learn to conserve energy.

The Wee Willy Watt Watcher Club is being organized by the ecology committee of the Lake Louise PTA in conjunction with the Palatine Watt Watchers, an energy-conservation club formed by 11 families last October.

Letters were sent to parents Thursday asking them to allow their children to join the club for first through third graders at Lake Louise School.

The purpose of the club is to teach children about energy — where it comes from, what it is used for, why it must be conserved and what the students can do to help. Each month the club will hold a "kilowatt hour" during the play period after lunch.

Each kilowatt hour will include a story of Wee Willy and his adventures, the Wee Willy song and a project for the month. Each child who completes the project will receive a rock with an emblem of Wee Willy as a reward.

AS THE FIRST PROJECT, club members will make an inventory of the appliances in their home and how many kilowatt hours of electricity their family used, according to the February electric bill.

The Palatine Watt Watchers have received letters of recognition from President Ford and the Federal Energy Administration for their energy-saving efforts.

The group will be the focus of an energy-conservation study examining how people's lifestyles are changed by energy-conservation measures. The study was proposed by a professor of political science at the University of Illinois at Chicago Circle and is expected to receive funding by the Federal Energy Administration this spring.

Fulle yields GOP reins, but vows 'I shall return...'

FLOYD T. FULLE

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

Fulle, 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this campaign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

AFTER FULLE'S announcement, Hoellen called a press conference but refused to discuss dissent in the GOP. "I'm not going to claim a victory in this matter. The fact is that Floyd Fulle has stepped aside."

Hollen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $33,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1968.

'No intention to levy taxes'

RTA to seek $238 million for buses

The Regional Transportation Authority disclosed Thursday plans to apply for a package of $238 million in federal grants that would include money to finance 147 suburban buses and 364 bus passenger shelters.

Transit consultants told the RTA board that the capital-improvements project would require an estimated $10.2 million in RTA funds, which could be provided without levying a gasoline tax.

"At this point there is no intention to levy any taxes," said Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Almost half of the $238 million would be used for the CTA and the Chicago Urban Transit District, which is planning a downtown subway system to replace the elevated tracks.

THE BOARD WILL meet again March 13 to approve the grant applications, which must be submitted to the federal government by March 15. Included in the possible projects to be funded in the 1975 fiscal year, which ends June 30, are 50 bilevel commuter coaches and 21 new locomotives for the Rock Island R.R., 147 buses and 364 bus-passenger shelters, 200 of which would be heated. The Rock Island equipment would cost $40 million, the buses would cost $9 million and the shelters are estimated at $2 million.

Transit consultant John Doolittle recommended the grant applications and said, "The major problem is adequate bus service in suburban areas." He said

276 of the area's 444 available buses are outdated, but many of them are already scheduled to be replaced by other funding programs.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District is planning to receive 74 new buses to serve the area of the former United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

Doolittle said state plans to build several commuter parking lots in the suburbs have a good chance of being funded in the coming year. One of those lots is planned for downtown Arlington Heights.

PROGRAMS DOOLITTLE said have little chance of being funded this fiscal year include purchase of the Chicago and North Western Ry.'s rolling stock, extension of the Kennedy Expressway rapid transit line to O'Hare Airport, a proposed CTA park-and-ride facility that is facing some controversy, acquisition of Union Station by the West Suburban Mass Transit District and the balance of funds for the Chicago Subway and Loop distributor construction.

A $31 million grant request for the subway plan would be only for planning, engineering and preliminary work, Doolittle said. The proposed requests also include $12.4 million for construction of a State Street mall and busway, with reverse bus lanes on major streets that intersect State.

The developer, Lawrence Terzo, has told residents he has been unable to finish resurfacing the streets "because the weather was bad, because it couldn't get the right materials, and because there were large trucks using the streets as a thoroughfare," Mrs. Wheat said.

Terzo was not available for comment. THE RESIDENTS and Bergman will file their suits within a month.

Bergman has requested that the office of State's Atty. Bernard Carey "investigate" the situation and "offer any assistance they can to us," Bergman said.

Bergman said he expects to hear from Carey's office within a week, although "his office probably won't be able to offer us much assistance. It will probably be up to me and the residents to clear this matter up," Bergman said.

Gun-control lecture set

Charles Smith, a lecturer from Watts, Calif., will speak against the federal government's program for control and confiscation of privately-owned firearms at an 8 p.m. lecture March 14 at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, 920 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

"Are Guns to Blame?" will be the title of the talk, which is being sponsored by the "Chicagoand Support Your Local Police Committees."

Tickets are $1.50 for students, $2 in advance or $2.50 the night of the speech for adults. Tickets can be obtained by contacting Robert Gillin, 512 Braeside Dr., Arlington Heights, at 255-2859, or William Carrick, Route 2, Box 247, Long Grove, at 634-3350.

Suspect in FAA murder bound over to grand jury

Ulysses Toatley, the 57-year-old Federal Aviation Administration employee charged with murder and attempted murder in the Feb. 28 shooting of two of his coworkers, Thursday was ordered bound over to the grand jury.

Associate Judge Marvin J. Peters issued the order after a preliminary hearing in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court. Toatley stood quietly with his hands behind his back during the 45-minute hearing while Des Plaines policemen were posted throughout the courtroom.

Toatley is being held without bond in County Jail charged with the murder of Jay C. Sheridan, Carpentersville, and the attempted murder of Colby Moody Jr., Elk Grove Village, in a shooting last Friday at the FAA Des Plaines office, 2300 E. Devon.

EUGENE PINCHAM, Toatley's attorney, argued unsuccessfully that the charges against the Bloomington man should be dismissed because the shooting took place in a federal office and should therefore be prosecuted in a federal court.

Pincham said Des Plaines police did not have jurisdiction in the case because the shooting took place on property technically belonging to the U.S. government, even though the office space is leased.

Judge Peters denied the motion because Federal Bureau of Investigation officials were contacted at the time of the incident to clarify jurisdictional rights. The FBI told Des Plaines police at the time of the shooting that the local authority had jurisdiction in the case.

Pincham also moved to have stricken from the record testimony from Patrolman Mary Mundell and Det. Allen Freitag, who were among the first policemen to arrive on the scene. The attorney argued their testimony was based on hearsay of witnesses at the FAA office who said they saw Toatley fire the shots.

THE ATTORNEY argued that the witnesses should have been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing to give testimony rather than have it presented by the policemen. Judge Peters also denied this motion.

Toatley did not testify at the hearing and no plea was entered in the case. Police still have no motive for the shooting.

Moody was released Wednesday from Holy Family Hospital.

MSD sewage plant gets U.S. blessing

MSD plans suit to get easements

The Metropolitan Sanitary District will file suit to force the City of Des Plaines to give the MSD easements under public streets.

The city in January refused the easements, needed for the tunnels and connecting sewers to lead to the proposed O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant. The MSD sought the easements in March and September 1974.

MSD Board Pres. Nicholas J. Melas said Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behr refused the easements because of the city lawsuit against the MSD over the O'Hare plant design.

The MSD board Thursday passed an ordinance establishing the right-of-way for the tunnels and sewers. The ordinance is needed for the district to begin condemnation proceedings to get the easements under the streets.

Involved are proposed easements under Oakton Street, Elmhurst Road, Lomquist Boulevard, Mount Prospect Road, Princeton Street and Wolf Road.

IN A RELATED action, the board passed a similar ordinance for easements under publicly and privately owned land in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. The district staff wants the ordinance to authorize condemnation of the land if the district is unsuccessful in negotiating with property owners.

Among the owners of property involved are: Emmet J. and Erma Worley, two trusts held by the American National Bank and Trust Co., Stanley Krzeminski, Arthur and Emily Reese, Mount Prospect Dist. 57, Pioneer Trust and Savings Bank Trust, Herman Preuter as trustee of the "Prouter trust," a LaSalle National Bank trust, May Department Stores, Northern Illinois Gas Co., City of Des Plaines, Chicago and North Western Transportation Co. and the Mount Prospect Park District.

The Metropolitan Sanitary District's proposed Des Plaines sewage treatment plant was given a clean bill of health Thursday by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"There is simply no (disease control) data available, of which we are aware, that would indicate any public health impacts whatsoever," the EPA said in a lengthy draft of an environmental impact statement that was released Thursday.

"This is by no means a closed case," stated the report, which did not include a review of the proposed plant's size.

In a letter mailed Tuesday to witnesses at previous hearings involving the plant, the EPA announced that a final, two-session public hearing is scheduled March 31 at Friendship Junior High School, 550 Elizabeth Ln., Des Plaines. The hearing sessions will be from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. until testimony ends.

A FINAL IMPACT report will be prepared after the April 7 deadline for written comments, Francis Mayo, regional EPA administrator, said in the letter.

Copies of the report will be available at local libraries, the letter stated.

"No demonstrable health hazard has been shown to exist with respect to the operation of activated sludge facilities" like the proposed plant, the report states. "USEPA believes the odor control measures planned for the O'Hare facility will prevent problems from occurring."

Federal officials reviewed nine proposed sites for the plant including two sections of O'Hare Airport, a trailer park near Elmhurst Road and the Northwest Tollway in unincorporated Cook County, three partially developed industrial tracts including vacant property in the Centex Industrial Park and a location in DuPage County.

Students help 'pros' in selecting books for their libraries

Crisp new bookcovers confronted curious eyes last week as students in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 had an opportunity to help select books for their school libraries.

Each year the district asks two students from each elementary class and a group of junior high students to spend a morning looking through new books for the district to buy.

"It shows us what the kids are trying to tell us," said Shirley Gunderson, learning-resource center director. "We as professionals are pretty sure about what we want in our selections, but they tell us more."

THE DISTRICT has been holding these sessions for the past 10 years. Books arrive from 55 publishers and this year filled 19 cases. Students look over the books and write down titles of those they believe should be added to the library. They also must act as representatives from their class and look for books fellow students and teachers request.

Mrs. Gunderson said there are perennial favorites, such as books on sports and horses, but she remembers the year several students wanted books on ESP and lunar modules.

This year one 9-year-old asked for books on "poltergeists," ghosts and the supernatural. Students also ask if children's author Beverly Cleary has written any new books and this year many of the elementary students were ecstatic to find out a new book about Laura Ingall Wilder was among the selections.

"In a sense it's also a good learning experience because they learn how one chooses books," she said. Two boys came up and asked her if those books could be bought and were excited when they found out they could go to the bookstore and ask for them.

From the students' suggestions and the library directors' recommendations, the district compiles a list of books to purchase.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS. With so many new books to choose from, Westbrook School student Brian White has a hard time deciding which books are best. Brian and about 200 other students helped select books for the district to buy.

Fulle yields GOP reins, but vows 'I shall return...'

County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

MSD sewage plant: 'no adverse health impact'

ity to residential and commercial property and location requirements eliminated seven proposed sites, the report states.

USEPA officials "found no significant environmental differences" between:

- The MSD's proposed 104-acre site at the southeast corner of Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, which is owned by the MSD.

- A 112-acre triangular parcel, also owned by the MSD, which is south of the tollway, west of Elmhurst Road and east of Higgins Road.

The MSD's proposed 104-acre site is acceptable for public funding, but is divided by Wille Road, which Des Plaines has refused to vacate.

"Some of the major concerns expressed by local residents... (were) the degradation of air quality due to odors being emitted from a sewage treatment plant and... a potential health hazard to the adjacent residential communities," the report states.

Three potential "sources of odors" — near the raw sewage pump station wet well, in the grit storage area and in the sludge handling area — are identified. "It is not possible to judge the exact extent of the potential odor problems resulting from the operation of the proposed plant."

"It cannot be assumed that this plant will experience the odor problems associated with other MSD facilities. If significant odor problems result from operation of the proposed plant, it would be possible to take necessary mitigative measures at that time," the report states.

THE REPORT also dismisses objections to environmental, social and economic effects of the plant made filed by the City of Des Plaines and homeowners' fears that property values in the area will decrease if the plant is constructed.

In objecting to the location of the plant, Des Plaines officials said the project violated U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development guidelines for construction near residential areas. "The handbooks do not provide specific regulations which must be followed," the report states.

Although home values may decrease during construction of the plant, "any long-term decrease will be negligible," the report states. "Once constructed and landscaped, the site should be esthetically pleasing in the context of its surroundings."

Des Plaines and the MSD have been battling over the proposed plant for nearly 10 years. The city originally contended it had the right to enforce its zoning regulations over the district, but the Illinois Supreme Court ruled the MSD did not have to follow the local zoning regulations.

A LATER SUIT attempted to use the city's home-rule authority to place restrictions on the MSD plant, but the Supreme Court also turned down the argument.

The most recent lawsuits were filed in January in U.S. District Court and this week in Circuit Court.

The federal lawsuit, which was filed by Des Plaines, seeks a court ruling on whether or not the district has to abide by local health ordinances as a condition for receiving federal funds for the project.

The MSD countered that action with another suit charging that the city is improperly using the court system to delay construction of the plant and asks $205 million in damages.

The most recent legal action was taken by the sanitary district against the city this week. It asks the Circuit Court to rule that the health ordinance, which sets down strict standards for the construction and operation of a sewage treatment plant, be declared unconstitutional, at least in connection with the construction of the O'Hare facility.

THE CITY HAS charged that the plant will be a nuisance and possibly a health hazard for nearby residents.

Recently Ald. Richard Ward, 8th, an outspoken critic of the plant, sent a report to the federal EPA charging that the entire facility might not even be needed.

Ward used sanitary district information to conclude that there are already plans for enough sewage treatment capacity to handle the expected growth of the area.

Library asks contract to raze school

The Mount Prospect Public Library Board recommended Thursday night that a $26,200 contract be awarded to Brandenburg Demolition Inc., Chicago, to tear down Central School to make way for the new $3.2 million library.

The demolition and site clearance is expected to start March 27. Completion of the demolition and site preparation for the new library is to be completed within 30 days.

Village officials are expected to award the contract at their meeting Tuesday night.

The Brandenburg bid was slightly below the $30,000 estimate for the work.

LIBRARY OFFICIALS reviewed eight bids ranging as high as $37,800 from a Wheaton firm.

The 2.6-acre school site is at the southeast corner of Central Road and Main Street. The 48-year-old building will be razed to make room for the new 45,500-square-foot library expected to be completed by summer of 1976.

Library board members set a March 20 meeting date to discuss building plans and set a date for the groundbreaking ceremony.

In other action, the library board approved a fiscal 1975-76 budget of $330,778, about 1.45 per cent higher than the current $316,500 budget.

Board members approved the budget after an hour-long executive session called by member Robert Nordli to discuss salaries.

AFTER THE executive session the board voted to reject an earlier proposed budget figure of $320,778 and opted instead for the $330,778 total.

Largest fund increase went for salaries with an average 7 per cent salary increase for all employees.

Other funds remained almost the same as last year's totals.

Treasurer Jack Anderson said the committee pared down some funds in an effort to hold down the budget. "At the same time we maintained the integrity of library services," he said.

Purpose of the meeting is to elect new officers.

Taxpayer losing 'voice,' Hendricks charges

by LYNN ASINOF

Trustee Richard N. Hendricks Thursday issued a campaign platform that charged the taxpayer has lost his voice in determining whether Mount Prospect should undertake expensive improvement projects.

In an obvious allusion to plans for the new $3.2 million public library, Hendricks said if reelected he will fight for the return of the taxpayers' right to vote on projects that "involve a capital expenditure of a nonessential nature."

Hendricks was the only board member to vote against the library, which was approved without a referendum and is to be financed with bonds issued under the village's home rule powers.

Although Hendricks was elected two years ago on a ticket headed by Mayor Robert D. Telchert, he has frequently opposed Telchert and other board members and his platform reflects his opposition to several board decisions and policies. He went on record as opposing the board's issuance of additional liquor licenses, charging this practice is currently "excessive and inordinate."

IN HIS PLATFORM Hendricks also promises to "continue to fight for restraint in the increase of our annual spiraling budget." He promised to eliminate "substantial expenditures" such as the village calendar, which costs about $6,000.

Hendricks is the only incumbent seeking election who is not on the United Citizens Party slate.

Hendricks, however, agreed with the other three incumbent candidates in supporting the present form of village government. Although he is running as an independent, Hendricks agreed with members of the United Citizens Party that an aldermanic or district form of government "fractures a community rather than melds it."

The platform was apparently prompted by Hendricks' campaign organization. Hendricks last month said he was hesitant about issuing a "formal platform," and instead would run on his voting record. He said, however, he would put the matter to a vote before his campaign organization, which then decided to devise a platform.

HENDRICKS SAID this approach represents a substantial departure from his campaign four years ago when he was defeated in his bid for a board seat. "Four years ago I ran completely on my own," Hendricks said. This time he said he is relying on his campaign organization rather than making decisions on his own.

The trustee said this fits in with his feelings about public office. He said his philosophy is "that the office that I have been elected to does not belong to me, but to the people." He pledged to continue to "truly represent the residents of Mount Prospect."

Members of the United Citizens Party ticket are incumbents George B. Anderson, Marie L. Caylor and O. T. Gustus, zoning board chairman Carolyn H. Krause and newcomer Edward G. Wells.

Other independents seeking four-year terms are former mayoral candidate Michael H. Minton and Theodore J. Wattenberg, a member of the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education. Seeking two-year terms are Leo Floros, Edward B. Rhea Jr. and Norma Murauskis.

Solution to budget funding?

Trustee to seek utility-tax repeal

by KURT BAER

Trustee David Griffin said Thursday he will move to repeal Arlington Heights' 5 per cent utility tax in order to clarify a controversy concerning how to finance the 1975-76 village budget.

"The budget has really brought the utility tax — taxes every resident pays on telephone, gas bills and other utilities — right to the forefront," Griffin, Caucus candidate for village president, said. "And I intend to ask that it be repealed as soon as the project we're already committed to are funded."

Wednesday night, the chairman of the village board's finance committee, Trustee Frank Palmatier, proposed that a portion of the $13 million annual fund be used to pay part of the general operating cost of village government to avoid raising the village property tax.

IN THE PAST, the utility tax has been used exclusively for major capital projects like water wells and reservoirs, sewers and public buildings.

But without using the utility tax, or federal revenue-sharing funds, the proposed budget would mean a tax increase of approximately $8 to $12 per house based on an equalized assessed valuation of $10,000. The amount of the tax increase would depend on which of many proposed programs are included in the $6.1 million budget.

Palmatier says that using part of the utility tax for the general budget is a financial necessity. The only alternative, is to continue every year to raise the real estate tax, or cut programs, he said.

Griffin, however, says that to begin using the utility tax to fund day-to-day cost of village government will make the six-year-old tax a permanent part of life in Arlington Heights. He and some other trustees have called Palmatier's proposal a "shell game."

"Using one tax to try and convince a guy that he's not paying another tax — boy that's an artwork," Griffin says. "either we need one tax or another. If we remove the utility tax, then we can decide whether we've got to raise the property tax."

IN RECENT months, rising utility rates have automatically increased the total tax dollars paid by a homeowner so that, in some instances, a year's total utility tax now nearly equals the village's share of the property tax, about $88.

During the finance committee's budget meeting Wednesday night Griffin said that the village must be cautious or it will provoke a "taxpayers' revolt" that could lead to a referendum rescinding Arlington Heights' home-rule powers.

"We've got a duty to maintain the confidence of the taxpayer of the Village of Arlington Heights and there comes a limit to the taxes a man will pay. I think we'd better be very careful about using these home-rule powers," he said.

Home rule, automatically granted Arlington Heights by the 1972 Illinois Constitution, permits the village to issue general obligation bonds without referendum, create new license fees and taxes.

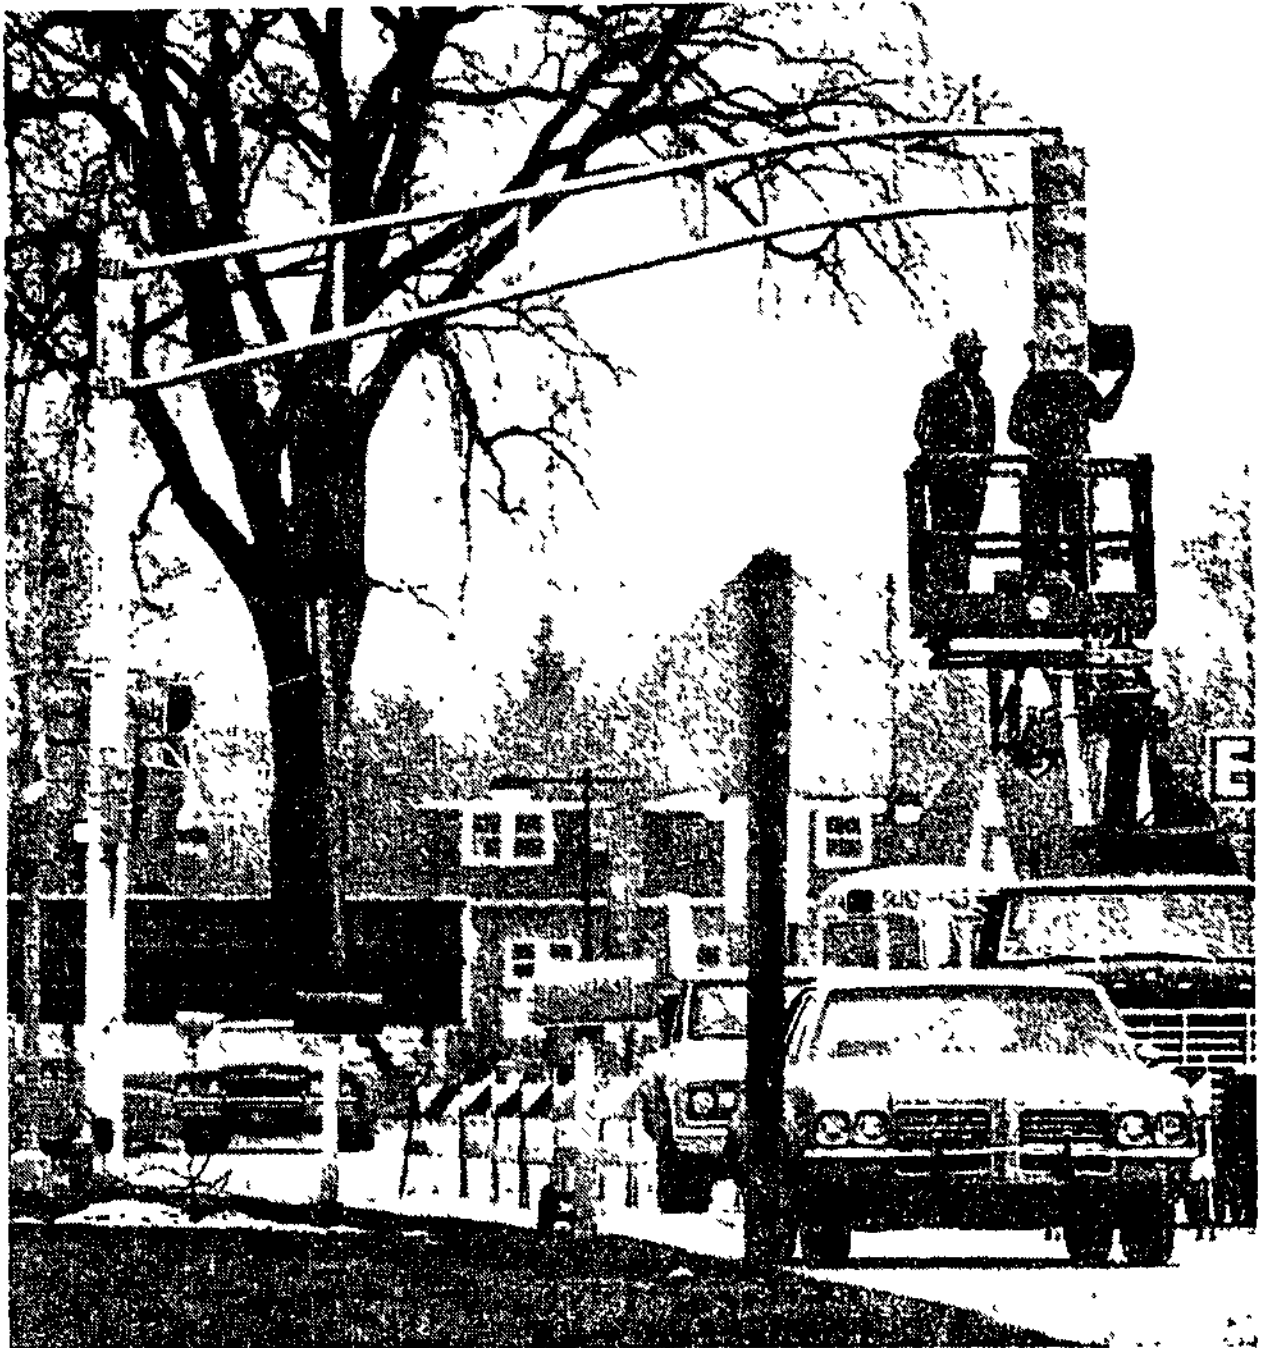

"If people get the idea that we're going to abuse these powers, I think there will be a referendum. I'm deadly serious about it," Griffin said.

Article 7, Section 6 of the state constitution provides for a referendum to rescind home-rule status. "I think this would be a disaster for Arlington Heights," says Griffin.

BUDGET PROPOSALS that would encumber village utility taxes for more than one year also have Griffin worried. "Flood control, the Arlington Heights Road underpass, another water tank and well and an $800,000 public works garage ... I think we have to stop and say, 'Do we really need these items right now? We just can't say to people that we're going to do everything at once,'" he says.

Palmatier's proposal is to sell general obligation bonds to pay for the public works garage using utility tax income to pay off the bonds. He also would transfer utility tax to fund youth and senior-citizen programs and to reduce the projected real estate tax to its present level. A total of about $400,000, or one third of the anticipated 1975-76 utility tax revenue, would be used in Palmatier's plan.

Debate concerning how to finance the village budget, what programs to fund, whether the public works garage should be built, and the future of the utility tax will be renewed when the entire budget is presented for discussion by the village board on March 17.

FINAL ADJUSTMENTS have been made on traffic lights the village at Arlington Heights Road and White Oak installed to ease traffic problems in the southern end of Street as cars detour the workmen's roadblocks.

Fulle yields GOP reins, but vows 'I shall return...'

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle relinquished control of the GOP organization Thursday to concentrate on plans for a defense at his federal extortion trial.

"After my personal matter has been resolved and wiped from the books, I shall return to full active participation in the operation of the central committee," Fulle said at a Chicago press conference.

Fulle criticized GOP mayoral candidate John J. Hoellen of Chicago and other Republicans for demanding his resignation. Hoellen called his own press conference later Thursday and returned the criticism.

"Floyd Fulle is not involved in my campaign," Hoellen said. "I am not involved in his indictment. I feel sorry for him. I don't want to get in a fight with him."

FULLE, 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, was indicted Feb. 13 on federal charges of extortion, income-tax fraud and perjury.

"I will leave no stone unturned to prove my innocence," Fulle said. "This necessitates an added demand on my time."

"I am not going to resign as chairman. However, I am taking an alternate course," he said.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN Lou Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman, will assume "day-to-day" leadership of the county organization, Fulle said. Kasper, chief clerk of State's Atty. Bernard Carey's civil division, also is head of the GOP Chicago committeeman's organization.

"Some media have referred to this as a leave of absence," a reporter said.

"I say that I am curtailing my day-to-day activities as county chairman temporarily," Fulle said.

Fulle said that since he was named party chairman in January 1974, power to "make unilateral decisions" has been removed and that "no decisions of any magnitude or policymaking whatsoever are made without the approval of the executive committee."

Fulle refused to speculate about his return to the GOP position. He has given no indication that he will step down from his position as a member of the County Board. He said he will continue party participation as committeeman from Maine Township.

THE DECISION to pass control to Kas-

per was supported by Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, former county chairman Timothy Sheehan and Hal Tyrrell, Proviso Township committeeman, Fulle said.

"Does your indictment rob Hoellen of raising the issue of corruption in this paign?" a reporter asked Fulle.

"I don't think so. Corruption has been overdone a little bit," Fulle said. "How can you say that corruption is a major issue when the Democrats keep riding into power? On Nov. 5 we hit corruption as a major issue and it didn't have any major impact."

Fulle called Chicago a "meat-and-potatoes town. People want services. Seventy-two per cent of the county budget is devoted to safety of people and property."

"We have to win some offices that have patronage," Fulle said. "Two things make a party a success — people and money."

"So you want to build a machine like the Democrats," a reporter asked.

"I prefer to call it an organization," Fulle said.

Fulle refused to predict that Hoellen

will defeat Mayor Richard J. Daley April 1. "No person in an elected position is untouchable. I think John can run a viable campaign," he said.

AFTER FULLE'S announcement Hoellen called a press conference but refused to discuss dissent in the GOP. "I'm not going to claim a victory in this matter. The fact is that Floyd Fulle has stepped aside."

Hoellen disagreed with Fulle's assertion that the GOP must build a patronage base. "If victory comes, it will come from the people," he said after calling his "Rollin' with Hoellen" campaign a "crusade for decency."

Fulle refused to answer most questions about his indictment, but he did admit that his Florida vacation home was purchased from Joseph Zizzo, former Harwood Heights village president. Fulle insisted that the purchase price was $35,000 not $45,000 as charged in a perjury count of the Feb. 13 indictment.

Fulle denied that county apartment zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 influenced the purchase price of the home, which Zizzo had bought for $40,000 in 1968.

'No intention to levy taxes'

RTA to seek $238 million for buses

The Regional Transportation Authority disclosed Thursday plans to apply for a package of $238 million in federal grants that would include money to finance 147 suburban buses and 364 bus passenger shelters.

Transit consultants told the RTA board that the capital-improvements project would require an estimated $10.2 million in RTA funds, which could be provided without levying a gasoline tax.

"At this point there is no intention to levy any taxes," said Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Almost half of the $238 million would be used for the CTA and the Chicago Urban Transit District, which is planning a downtown subway system to replace the elevated tracks.

THE BOARD WILL meet again March 13 to approve the grant applications, which must be submitted to the federal government by March 15. Included in the possible projects to be funded in the 1975 fiscal year, which ends June 30, are 50 bluevel commuter coaches and 21 new locomotives for the Rock Island R.R., 147 buses and 364 bus-passenger shelters, 200 of which would be heated. The Rock Island equipment would cost $40 million, the buses would cost $9 million and the shelters are estimated at $2 million.

Transit consultant John Doolittle recommended the grant applications and said, "The major problem is adequate bus service in suburban areas." He said 276 of the area's 444 available buses are outdated, but many of them are already scheduled to be replaced by other funding programs.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District is planning to receive 74 new buses to serve the area of the former United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

Doolittle said state plans to build several commuter parking lots in the suburbs have a good chance of being funded in the coming year. One of those lots is planned for downtown Arlington Heights.

PROGRAMS DOOLITTLE said have little chance of being funded this fiscal year include purchase of the Chicago and North Western Ry.'s rolling stock, extension of the Kennedy Expressway rapid transit line to O'Hare Airport, a proposed CTA park-and-ride facility that is facing some controversy, acquisition of Union Station by the West Suburban Mass Transit District and the balance of funds for the Chicago Subway and Loop distributor construction.

A $31 million grant request for the subway plan would be only for planning, engineering and preliminary work, Doolittle said. The proposed requests also include $12.4 million for construction of a State Street mall and busway, with reverse bus lanes on major streets that intersect State.

Pikarsky announced that a committee made up of himself and the four suburban members of the board will begin discussions with commuter railroads on purchase-of-service agreements. He also promised that the RTA would not allow commuter service on the Rock Island to be interrupted.

MSD buying tract for flood reservoir

The Metropolitan Sanitary District will buy 49.8 acres at Central and Busse roads in Mount Prospect within the next two weeks for its long-planned flood-control reservoir.

The MSD board approved the purchase Thursday but refused to reveal the cost of the land until the sale is complete. The reservoir is intended to provide flood relief for parts of Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights.

Purchase of the property will complete lengthy efforts to buy the 69 acres needed for the reservoir.

The 49.8 acres are owned by C. E. Niehoff and Co., owners of Arlington Beverage Pop, which is adjacent to the reservoir site.

The two villages have agreed to cooperate with the MSD and may pay for part of the basin construction if it costs more than $1.3 million.

Eventually the basin may be enlarged to hold combined sanitary and storm sewage to be treated at the proposed O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant, Des Plaines.

Ryan objects to Sunday racing

Arlington Heights Trustee James T. Ryan, independent candidate for village president, has objected to the possibility of Sunday racing at Arlington Park Race Track.

Ryan said in a letter to Anthony Scarianno, Illinois Racing Board chairman, that "the institution of Sunday racing at Arlington Park would only serve to make what is intended to be a day of rest to be instead a day of noise, traffic jams and general confusion."

"With this in mind, I would seriously urge that the racing board not permit Sunday racing and, moreover, not extend the racing season at Arlington Park."

The racing board is backing proposed legislation that would remove all statutory restrictions on its power to set horse racing schedules. If enacted, the new horse racing law could clear the way for year-round and Sunday racing.

Girl Scouts search for new leaders

Arlington Heights Girl Scouts are looking for leaders.

During Girl Scout Week next week, the search for men and women to lead scout troops and organize area activities will be emphasized, said June Johnson, area Girl Scout registrar for Arlington Heights.

The Scouts are looking for young adults, men and senior citizens who could serve as cookie chairmen, fund-raisers or troop leaders, she said.

Persons interested should contact the Girl Scouts of Northwest Cook County, 824-2134.
